HITLER TO MEET CIANO; MAY SET UP PEACE PLAN

Axis Ministers See Fuehrer Today.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

SALZBURG, Germany, Aug. 11.—Beside St. Wolfgang lake, romantic spot in the heart of the Austrian Alps, the foreign ministers of Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini met today.

Map locates key places of negotiations.

Flanked by their legal experts they mapped out plans on which the fate of Europe hinges. Tomorrow they will present their suggestions to Hitler.

Germans refused to explain why legal experts of the foreign ministers of Italy and Germany, Count Galeazzo Ciano and Joachim von Ribbentrop, were participating in the conference, but a number of Italians asserted they were working on "plans dealing with the creation of a new system of treaties that would prove more useful than the moribund league of nations."

A Nazi Project.

Several months ago Nazis had taken great pains to disseminate the reports that "at the given moment Hitler would present new peace proposals that would startle the world." So far the prophecy has failed to materialize and it fits poorly into the present picture. The best informed foreign experts say that "Germany has reached a degree of mobilization beside which the preparations of last September look like a picnic."

The official newspaper Der Angriff, writing today on the Salzburg conference, stated that "it is a warning against those who play with the idea of fire." The paper said there would be no permanent peace in Europe until the eastern border as laid out by the Versailles treaty is revised. This was looked upon as a direct reference to the Danzig problem and Poland's firm refusal to permit the free city to become part of Germany.

Count Ciano arrived in Salzburg at noon today, attired in a uniform that looked almost field gray—a fitting color in Germany where 2,000,000 men are under arms. He was accompanied by Italy's ambassador to Berlin, Bernardo Attolico; counsel of embassy, Count Magistrati, and Italy's expert on law and treaties, Prince del Drago.

Cheer Despite Resentment.

Visiting Nazis turned out to greet the Italians and some local Nazis dutifully joined the cheering, despite their bitter resentment over the Italian treatment of their South Tyrolese brothers.

[The Italian government has ordered thousands of Germans living in the South Tyrol to move to Germany under a plan which was adopted to remove a possible point of friction between the axis partners. Italy obtained South Tyrol from Austria in a post-war settlement.]

Count Ciano waved acknowledgment of the cheers before motoring to Castle Fuschl, summer residence of Germany's foreign minister. Castle Fuschl formerly belonged to an Austrian aristocrat, but it now is state property.

For several hours Count Ciano and Von Ribbentrop were closeted, together with Germany's crack interpreter, Dr. Hans Schmidt. Later in the afternoon the legal experts joined the conversations.

Meet with Hitler Today.

Germans declared they were extremely satisfied with the progress made today, but that they attach greater importance to tomorrow's conversations, over which Hitler will preside. The meeting will be held at Hitler's Berchtesgaden retreat, which is only a short distance from Salzburg.

In the evening a fleet of powerful cars carried the Ribbentrop and Ciano parties to the White Horse inn, on St. Wolfgang lake, which provides the setting for the colorful celebrations of the region's mountain folk.

Count Ciano and Von Ribbentrop spent the evening in St. Wolfgang enjoying a country-fair-like entertainment before returning to Salzburg.

2 Air Bombers Crash; 11 Flyers Die

APPROVE PLANS FOR DIRECT AIR LINE TO CANADA

Assure Chicago Link with Europe.

BY WAYNE THOMIS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 11.—The Canadian-American civil aviation committee today unanimously adopted a draft of an agreement that provides authority for the creation of a network of international air lines linking cities of the two nations. The agreement becomes effective as soon as the two countries exchange formal diplomatic notes.

In effect, the agreement becomes a new aviation treaty. It lays the foundation for an interchange of aviation services between any city in the United States and any city in Canada. The draft as adopted tonight is free from limiting clauses and, in the words of the conferees, is intended "to stimulate and promote sound economic development of air services."

According to C. D. Howe, minister of transport for Canada, the way now is open for the establishment of a direct connection between Chicago and the Canadian terminals of the trans-Atlantic airway.

Routes Not Specified.

The entire draft is couched in the most general terms. No specific air route is mentioned. The result is a direct invitation to both American and Canadian airline operators to make fresh applications for any routes they may desire to fly. Howe promised that such applications will receive immediate attention.

This is a direct reversal of the previous Canadian attitude. In the past American applications for rights to fly to Canadian cities have been ignored. At least three American civil transportation companies, Eastern Airlines, American Airlines, and Northwest Airlines, have had applications on file at the ministry of transport for more than a year.

There are two main points in the agreement. One provides that each country shall agree, on a basis of reciprocity and with due regard for economy and efficiency, to grant rights to commercial operators of the other nation for operation of international services between a place in the territory of one country and a place in the territory of the other.

Grants Nonstop Rights.

The second salient paragraph grants American companies flying between any two American cities the authority to fly nonstop over Canadian soil. Similar rights also are extended to Canadian air lines serving Canadian cities that might want to fly nonstop over American territory. The text of the agreement will be made public after it has been approved by the two governments.

Full support for any airline that creates an air link between Chicago and the trans-Atlantic air bases at Botwood, Newfoundland, or at Shediac, New Brunswick, was promised tonight by W. W. Howes, acting postmaster general for the United States, who was a member of the American delegation here.

It was predicted by the American delegates here that commercial airline operators would swiftly seize the opportunity to pioneer the great circle international route from Chicago to Shediac or Botwood by way of Detroit, Toronto, Ottawa, and Montreal. There may be competition for the rights because trans-Canada airlines authorities would like to fly to Chicago themselves. They are in a strong position because they are already operating a service from Montreal to Toronto by Ottawa. The Canadians are purchasing a number of new American Lockheed planes and are contemplating requisition of a number of larger models.

Leaders in India Vote 'No' on Help for Britain in War

BOMBAY, Aug. 11 (AP).—A resolution opposing coöperation with Britain in the event of war was adopted by the All-India congress committee in a meeting at Wardha today. The resolution authorized provincial congress ministries to resign if they found it impossible to follow such a policy.

A Human Fly Insists It's His Neck, Isn't It?

Dr. George P. Beecher's wife awoke with a start early yesterday in their home at 1031 Ridge avenue, Evanston. A scrambling, scratchy noise came in the bedroom window.

Peering from behind a curtain, Mrs. Beecher saw the figure of a man, spraddled like a huge bat against the wall of the home next door at 1027 Ridge avenue. Attired in an undershirt, trousers, and tennis shoes, the man was struggling to climb a lattice attached to the wall.

"Burglars!" cried Mrs. Beecher when she telephoned the police. In a few moments Policemen Fred Eichler and William Johnson arrived in a squad car. Their spotlight picked out the human fly as he neared an open window on the second floor.

Wife Comes to His Aid.

"Come down, you!" called Eichler.

"O, don't bother him," came a woman's voice from the window. "It's my husband. He's all right."

But the policemen were insistent that the climber descend for questioning. Ignoring the open window at his elbow he slithered and jolted over the ivy-clad lattice to the ground. There he introduced himself as Lawrence S. Sutton, 38 years old, an investment broker with offices at 120 South La Salle street.

"Looks funny, doesn't it?" he said, a little breathlessly. "Well, maybe it is. It's just my eccentric way of entering the house."

He Just Likes to Climb.

He paused, then added:

"I like to climb around my house."

Policemen Eichler and Johnson helped Mr. Sutton in the front door. On the threshold, he turned to bid them good night. With a disarming smile, he proudly remarked:

"Matter of fact I've been climbing all over the house for quite a while. Why, I even fell off the porch roof a night or two ago!"

Rips Out Wall of Home; Finds 180 Lbs. of Honey

Trenton, Tex., Aug. 11 (AP).—Burger Reed tried every way he knew to get rid of bees in the wall of his house. For three years they were impervious to smokes and sprays. Then Reed tore out a section of wall. He found a slab of honey, five feet high, twenty-two inches wide, and four inches thick. It weighed approximately 180 pounds.

2 NEW YORK FLYERS HOP FOR IRELAND IN PLANE LIKE LINDY'S

ST. PETER'S, N. S., Aug. 11 [Canadian Press].—Two New York flyers took off for Ireland today in the same type of plane that carried Charles A. Lindbergh across the Atlantic twelve years ago.

They were Alex Loeb, 32 years old, and Dick Decker, 23 years old. The pair didn't announce their plan until they were almost ready to go, and only a few spectators saw them rise from a sandy beach near this Cape Breton Island community. The takeoff was at 9:04 a. m. [Chicago time].

The plane has a cruising speed of 125 miles an hour. They took 350 gallons of gasoline, figuring it would keep them aloft 25 hours.

WOMAN BURNS TO DEATH IN HOTEL; LAID TO CIGARET

Mrs. Helen B. Willis, 42 years old, was burned to death early today in her apartments on the twelfth floor of the Park Lane Apartment hotel, 2842 Sheridan road. Fire officials and her husband, Byron H. Willis, said the couch upon which she had fallen asleep apparently had been ignited by a cigaret she was smoking.

The flames spread to the rest of the apartment and caused damage estimated by Chief Richard J. Doody of the 13th battalion at $200. The flames were confined to the Willis apartment, but fifty residents of the hotel were driven from their rooms by smoke.

Willis, who is a sales engineer for the Harbor Plywood corporation, 1444 West Cermak road, and chairman of the race committee of the Chicago Yacht club, arrived at the hotel shortly after the fire started. He and hotel employés broke into his apartment and pulled Mrs. Willis to the hall. Dr. Adolph Brown, the house physician, was called, but Mrs. Willis was dead when he reached her. Willis and hotel employés had the flames under control by the use of hotel apparatus when the firemen arrived.

Returns $1,565 She Found; Reward: Clear Conscience

Bluefield, W. Va., Aug. 11 (AP).—Miss Margaret Litton had only a clear conscience today as her reward for returning to its owner a purse containing $1,565 which she found. "She might at least have thanked me," said Miss Litton, "but maybe she forgot."

Sheet Rebel's Summer Sleep Is Interrupted

When the nights are warm Leo. R. Campbell, 50 years old, vice president of the Campbell-Lawrence-Lautermilch construction company, likes to slumber on the sheets instead of between them.

This preference and all the trouble it caused were described yesterday before Master in Chancery Daniel A. Covelli by Mrs. Reba Campbell, 47 years old, who sought temporary allimony from her husband pending trial of her suit for divorce on grounds of cruelty. The two separated July 25 after twenty-five years of married life.

It's a Summer Custom.

And here is why, according to Mrs. Campbell:

On the night of July 24, Campbell came home and went to bed. In keeping with his habit, he lay down on top of both sheets. This custom had annoyed Mrs. Campbell for a long time, and that night she protested. He refused to move.

She called their son, who helped in trying to force Campbell under the sheets. He resisted.

"He kicked me!" said Mrs. Campbell.

"My leg slipped," said Campbell. "It was an accident!"

It's No Principle, but——

"It was deliberate, judge," she retorted. "And about his sleeping—it is not a principle with me, but as long as we are in the same bed he should sleep properly."

"I am home only two nights a week," Campbell complained. "I have to entertain out of town clients a great deal. Besides, she serves steak only once in two years. All the rest of the time it's health foods—nothing but health foods." [Mr. Campbell is a 200 pounder.]

Master Covelli shook his head and tried to effect a reconciliation, remarking that it seemed a shame that a quarrel about sheets should occur after twenty-five years of happiness.

Mrs. Campbell said she was willing. She turned expectantly to her husband.

He thought it over for a moment and then said: "No."

Covelli then ordered him to pay $140 a month temporary alimony and to permit his wife to continue to live in their home at 830 Locust avenue, Winnetka.

Nine in Army and 2 in Navy Plane Victims

Washington, D. C., Aug. 11 [Special.].—Nine army flyers and two navy flyers were killed today in the crashes of two bombing planes at widely separated fields. Both accidents were believed to have been caused by motor trouble.

The nine army men, including two commissioned officers, were killed when their twin motored war plane plunged to the ground and burned at Langley field, Va. The crash was termed one of the worst army aviation accidents in recent years.

The army plane was taking off from Langley field on a training flight. It had attained an altitude of about 150 feet and still was climbing, witnesses said, when one of its two motors appeared to stall.

Plane Goes Into a Stall.

As the big ship lost headway, its left wing dipped. In an effort to level off the plane and gain flying speed its pilot, Second Lieutenant Homer M. Mackay, nosed the ship down and attempted to glide toward the nearby waters of Back river. The plane, however, went into a stall and hit the ground fifty feet from the water's edge.

The wreckage then burst into flames. Witnesses said they heard an explosion as the ship struck the ground and a series of six more blasts during the next few minutes.

Crash trucks and ambulance crews raced to the scene but by the time they arrived the gasoline fed flames had enveloped the wreckage, the intense heat rendering them helpless in any rescue attempt. The bodies could not be removed until about two hours later.

Here is List of Victims.

The officers killed were Pilot Mackay, 25 years old, of Lansing, Mich., and Second Lieut. Thomas L. Butner of Burnsville, N. C.

The seven enlisted men who died were Technical Sergeant William Morgan of Norton, Va.; Staff Sergeants Raymond Shelley of Oakdale, La., Everett Kirkpatrick of Quilsene, Wash., and Howard A. Jaurnig of Meridian, Ida.; Corporal Peter Bunyk of New Kensington, Pa., and Privates Roy B. Leopold of East Mauch Chunk, Pa., and Anthony Real of Milwaukee, Wis.

A board of inquiry was appointed and investigation immediately begun. The board was composed of Maj. Clarence B. Lober, Capt. William H. McArthur, and Lieut. Nicholas E. Powell.

The bomber was a Douglas B-1-118-A, one of the general type of which the air corps has more than 200 in service. It was attached to the 21st reconnaisance squadron.

Third Crash in Few Months.

The crash was the army's worst aircraft accident since a heavy loss of lives in successive crashes of two other bi-motor bombers in Illinois and Alabama within a short time of each other several months ago.

The two navy flyers died in the crash of their bomber at Miramar Field near San Diego, Cal., while they were engaged in gunnery practice. Their ship also caught fire after it fell and was reduced to a mass of wreckage. The victims were Ensign T. R. Wood, 28 years old, United States naval reserve pilot, of Tacoma, Wash., Radioman [First Class] V. P. Armstrong, 33, of Bristol, Pa. Wood's widow lives in Coronado, Cal., and his father, J. W. Wood Sr., in Tacoma.

The navy plane was attached to bombing squadron 3 of the navy aircraft carrier Saratoga.

May Move McGarry to New Bench.

State's Attorney Courtney yesterday named as "the fix" in the Felony court of Judge Eugene L. McGarry an alderman who has sat in the city council for eight years and who has been a member of the Democratic county committee since 1936.

Ald. Rostenkowski.

Ald. Joseph Rostenkowski [32d], the official named by Courtney, denied the allegation emphatically. Judge McGarry, who was quoted by Courtney as having admitted that the alderman approached him, could not be reached last night for further comment.

As a result of the "fix" charge there were two other major developments yesterday:

1. An announcement by Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby of the Municipal court that if the charge were true he would be careful not to assign McGarry to courts where the incident might be repeated.

2. A statement from the Chicago Crime commission prior to Judge Sonsteby's announcement that the commission would name an observer to watch the proceedings in the Felony court.

The case in question was that of Frank Klakowicz, 31 years old, who was arraigned before Judge McGarry on July 28 on charges of burglary and larceny. Evidence showed that he had stolen $1,900 worth of equipment from the Belmont Radio corporaton, his former employer, and used it to set up a business of his own. Much of the loot was recovered from Klakowicz's display windows and shelves.

Agree to Reduce Charge.

Judge McGarry asked Assistant State's Attorney Joseph O'Connor and the complainant to drop the burglary charge and reduce the larceny charge to petit larceny. They agreed, they later said, on the understanding that Klakowicz be sentenced to a year in the Bridewell. This was done. O'Connor then left the courtroom and, in his absence, Judge McGarry entered a motion to vacate the sentence and set the matter for hearing Aug. 10.

O'Connor was informed of the action later in the day. He bided his time and appeared Thursday, when the motion was heard. Then he entered a vigorous protest. Judge McGarry ignored O'Connor's plea and vacated the sentence, placing Klakowicz on a year's probation.

As Klakowicz left the courtroom, however, he was seized by state's attorney's police and taken before the grand jury where a burglary indictment was obtained on the evidence which had not been presented to McGarry because the burglary charge had been waived.

Demands Removal of O'Connor.

When Judge McGarry heard of the indictment he went, Courtney declared yesterday, to the office of Emmet Moynihan, acting first assistant state's attorney, and demanded O'Connor's immediate removal from his courtroom. In statements later in the day Judge McGarry referred to O'Connor as a whipper-snapper and threatened him in these words: "He's going to find himself in the can for contempt of court."

Judge McGarry had denied, Thursday night, in response to direct questions, that he talked with Moynihan about O'Connor. Yesterday, however, Courtney issued Moynihan's version of his alleged conversation with Judge McGarry.

According to Moynihan's statement McGarry came to his reception room and said:

"'I don't like this business of you indicting a man after I dispose of the case. I of course do favors and make friends for myself when I think it doesn't hurt any one. Ald. Joseph Rostenkowski called me up and asked if I could do something for this man Klakowicz.

"When I am a candidate for office

I can go back to Rostenkowski and ask him to help me. Often this kind of help means five or ten extra votes to each precinct—the difference between election and defeat."

Then, Moynihan told Courtney, McGarry assailed O'Connor and said that he had trouble with him previously and might order him out of his courtroom. Moynihan said he told the judge that he had no power to do so.

Courtney said he would stand behind O'Connor because of his excellent record in Felony court. He indicated that O'Connor would be given an immediate raise in pay.

Ald. Rostenkowski denied that he had talked to McGarry about Klakowicz.

Says He Doesn't Fix Cases.

"I don't know the fellow," he said. "He doesn't even live in my ward, according to his address [1085 North Marshfield avenue]. He lives in former Ald. Frank Konkowski's ward—the 26th. But if he did live in my ward I wouldn't try to fix his case. I don't fix cases."

Ald. Rostenkowski was in the headlines twice during 1938. In August two of his lieutenants, Leo [Cowboy] Mosinski and Bruno Switaj, were shot to death as they slept in an automobile in front of the Rostenkowski home at 1349 Noble street. The murder was never solved. In November several shots were fired through the windows of a tavern owned by the alderman.

R. W. Dvorak, acting director of the Chicago Crime commission during the illness of Col. Henry Barrett Chamberlin, announced that an observer would be placed in Felony court. He called the court one of the most important in the city.

Bar Report on McGarry.

Officials of the Chicago Bar association said they had no power to investigate the Klakowicz case unless a complaint were filed with them. During the 1934 judicial campaign the bar association report on Judge McGarry said:

"He has had a varied experience as a trial lawyer but we do not regard him as qualified for office."

Chief Justice Sonsteby, reached in Wisconsin, where he is vacationing, said:

"If these charges are proved I certainly will never assign Judge McGarry to a court where he would have the opportunity to act in similar fashion. I have no power to remove him from the bench, but his assignment to Felony court ends Sept. 1. I expect to be back to Chicago in two weeks. I shall have these charges in mind when I make new assignments. One of the things I have always tried to do is to eliminate that sort of influence."

Asked if he had heard of any similar incidents in McGarry's court Judge Sonsteby said:

"Well, of course you remember the gambling cases."

In an opinion in 1937 McGarry ruled that handbook betting was legal and dismissed 170 defendants arraigned on handbook gambling charges. He previously had announced that he would issue no more warants for the arrest of handbook operators.

SOUTH SUBURBAN BURGLAR GETS ONE YEAR TO LIFE

James Moore, 34 years old, colored, who confessed eight burglaries and seven attempted burglaries in the southern suburbs, was sentenced to a year to life in the penitentiary by Judge Michael Feinberg in Criminal court yesterday. He pleaded guilty to a charge of burglary.

Moore was arrested after he had entered homes in Flossmoor, Harvey, Riverdale, Olympia Fields, Phoenix, and South Holland. Sergt. Clarence Hayen of the state's attorney's police testified Moore confessed the crimes and took officers to pawnshops where some of the loot was recovered.

Moore was shot in the leg by Harvey police when he attempted to flee from them July 23. He dropped a kit of burglar tools when the police chased him.

ROMEO IN COURT ON SWINDLE AND BIGAMY CHARGES

Howard Shaw, the Indiana Romeo who made romance pay, was granted a continuance to Aug. 18 when he appeared before Judge Eugene L. McGarry in Felony court yesterday on four charges of operating a confidence game and one of bigamy.

The bigamy charge and one of operating a confidence game were preferred against Shaw by his latest wife, Miss Janina La Boda. Her mother, Mrs. Gertrude Anderson, 2851 North Talman avenue, also preferred a confidence charge, and Mitchell Thompson, restaurateur at 101 East Walton place, brought two similar charges.

BURTON MUDGE JR. IS HELD FOR CHECK INQUIRY

Burton Mudge Jr., son of a widely known family, was being held at the detective bureau on an open charge last night for questioning by the state's attorney's office about the passing of three checks alleged to be worthless and the complaint of a colored maid who said she gave him $900 on his promise to invest it for her.

Burton Mudge Jr.

Mudge, who is 34 years old, was taken into custody Thursday at the Washington hotel, 167 West Washington street, where he was staying with his father. The latter, formerly head of a railway supply manufacturing company, is a son of the late Henry Mudge, once president of the Rock Island railroad. The junior Mudge was married in 1935 to Miss Virjean Richey. They are now reported separated. Mudge is a graduate of Princeton university and well known as an amateur golfer.

Nathan J. Kinnally, assistant state's attorney, said that no complaints had been filed against Mudge, and that Mudge had promised to make restitution.

THREATS OF MOB HOLD UP HEARING FOR RAPE KILLER

Florida Slayer's Bizarre Career Disclosed.

West Palm Beach, Fla., Aug. 11 [Special].—The arraignment of Charles Jefferson on charges of abducting two Miami high school girls and slaying one was delayed by authorities today because of threatened mob violence.

He was being held under heavy guard in an undisclosed jail because of a threatening undertone in street gatherings here as details of the case became generally known.

The tall young man was charged with murder after he confessed he raped and killed Ruth Frances Dunn, 17 years old, and held her companion, Jean Bolton, 19, captive for three days.

The body of Miss Dunn was found in palmetto underbrush on a swampy beach near Boca Raton, twenty-five miles from here. It was battered and bore several stab wounds in the side and bullet hole in the forehead.

Checkered Career Revealed.

Meantime, Jefferson, who had used many names, was disclosed as having a career as confusing as his aliases.

Detectives said his original name was Herbert William Goddard Jr., but through a stepfather his legal name became Tom Cochran. As Tom Ashwell he was production manager for radio station WLW in Cincinnati in 1935 and was director of the Miami WPA theater in 1936.

Jefferson said he learned theatrical work while in a Pennsylvania reformatory where he had been placed on a charge of rape. Other jobs he has held, in addition to the Cincinnati radio and Miami theater positions, were:

Advertising copy writer in New York, Denver, and west coast cities; radio gag writer in New York; talent scout for the Paramount studios; reporter for San Francisco newspapers; Theater Guild producer in West Palm Beach, and producer of high school plays in various cities.

His Crimes Are Listed.

Crimes listed against him by the federal bureau of investigation included his desertion from the army; his escape from the Presidio military prison in San Francisco in 1926 after he had been sentenced to serve two years; rape in Pennsylvania, for which he was sentenced in 1927 to serve 15 years; intent to defraud the federal government, which caused his arrest in Helena, Mont., and impersonating a federal officer, for which he was placed under two years' probation at Denver.

Police throughout the country sought through finger prints today to link Jefferson to unsolved crimes. Among the slayings of which he is suspected is that of Anna Sosoyeva, blonde Russian dancer, who was bludgeoned to death on the Los Angeles City college campus last Feb. 24. Jefferson has admitted being in Los Angeles on that date.

Claims to Be His Wife.

New York, Aug. 11 (AP).—The Daily News, in a copyrighted story, quotes a young New York radio actress as saying she is the estranged wife of Charles Jefferson, charged with slaying Ruth Frances Dunn.

The actress, Jay Meredith, said she was married to Jefferson in Los Angeles in March, 1937, after a short courtship that began in Miami while he was director of the WPA theater there, and left him last April, the News says.

"He was terribly selfish and a great showoff," the paper quotes her as saying. "He always wanted sympathy. He was the kind who always had to have some girl."

Youth Shot by 3 Gunmen; Neighborhood Feud Hinted

Racine avenue police were investigating a reported neighborhood feud as a motive for the mysterious wounding last night of Edwin Pytel, 17 years old, 844 North Winchester avenue. He was shot in the left hip by one of three young men riding in an automobile as he stood with a group of youths at Iowa street and Damen avenue. The gunmen fled. Pytel was taken to St. Mary's hospital, where it was said the wound is not serious.

2 JAIL BREAKERS LOCKED IN CELLS; THIRD IN HOSPITAL

Two of three prisoners captured late Thursday in Gary after their escape earlier in the day from the administration building of the Cook county jail were returned to Chicago yesterday and lodged in cells at the detective bureau.

They are Peter Dutkiewicz, 4250 South Knox street, and Stanley Puzio, 5107 South Lorel avenue. The third prisoner, Joseph Salecki of Summit, who was shot by a detective as he tried to escape capture, remained in critical condition in Mercy hospital, Gary.

All three are 22 years old and are accused members of an automobile theft ring. Capt. Daniel Gilbert of the state's attorney's office said indictments would be sought early next week against the three and a fourth member of the gang, Savaglia Sarafino, 19, of 5651 55th street. Sarafino refused to join his companions in their flight. The three policemen blamed for the escape have been suspended.

SEIZED IN CHASE AFTER SNATCHING POLICEMAN'S GUN

Policeman Edward Farrell of the Grand Crossing station has been on the force for thirty-five years. Yesterday he stopped a colored man for questioning after he saw the man run from a store at 652 East 79th street.

The man grabbed Farrell's gun from his holster and started to run. Farrell pursued him despite the gunman's threat to "stop or I'll blow your head off."

Farrell was outdistanced, but with the aid of a passing police squad captured the man at 75th street and Cottage Grove avenue. The gunman said he was Jesse Hime, 3430 State street. He said he had taken $5 from the cash register of the store and was fleeing when Farrell stopped him.

MYSTERY VERDICT IN SLAYING.

A verdict of murder by persons unknown was returned by a coroner's jury yesterday in the death of Frank Walker, 63 years old, a mechanic. He was found strangled July 15 in his room at 12 South Loomis street.

SUSPENDED UNION CLERK IS BEATEN; HUNT 3 SLUGGERS

Pickets Withdrawn After Truce at Store.

Lawndale police last night were seeking three sluggers who attacked Hyman Brand, 27 years old, early yesterday and beat him with a heavy wooden club. Brand was employed as a clerk in a fruit store at 4810 South Ashland avenue which has been picketed three times recently by the Retail Clerks' International Protective association, local 1248.

Brand was waiting for a street car at 16th street and Lawndale avenue, while on the way to work. He was reading a newspaper when three men drove up in an automobile. Brand said one of them jumped out and began beating him with a club three feet long. He was treated at a nearby physician's office for a scalp wound.

Suspended by Union.

Brand is one of three union clerks employed by Jacob Nasis in the store. Nasis also employs five other members of the union in another fruit store at 5950 South Ashland avenue. All eight clerks are under suspension by the union. None appeared for work yesterday. Instead there were union pickets in front of each store.

Nasis said Brand became involved in a dispute with union officials for failure to bring a transfer card when he came here recently from California. He said the officials demanded a $49 fee to certify Brand as a member in the Chicago local. Because Brand did not have the money, Nasis said he advanced $27, which was accepted as a compromise settlement.

The money was paid two weeks ago, Nasis said, when pickets appeared at his store. They were withdrawn after the payment was made, the fruit store owner declared. Nasis said neither he nor Brand knew a reason for the picketing yesterday or the attack on Brand.

"I didn't recognize any of the men in the automobile or the one who hit me with the club," Brand told policemen. "I would not be able to identify the slugger because I was dazed."

Pickets Are Withdrawn.

In the afternoon the pickets were withdrawn from each of the fruit stores. Nasis said all eight union employés returned to work.

"We put out the pickets yesterday and twice before because Nasis repeatedly violated the contract he has with the union," said Max Caldwell, business agent for the union, an affiliate of the American Federation of Labor.

"This afternoon he promised again to live up to the contract. It calls for a maximum of forty-eight hours a week, $20 a week minimum pay, and payment for overtime. Nasis has been working the men eighty and ninety hours a week without overtime pay."

Caldwell said the eight employés were suspended by the union for violating the union scale. They will appear before the executive board Monday.

The union official denied any knowledge of the attack on Brand. He said all other stores in the neighborhood abide by their union contracts.

DEFENSE POUNDS AT TESTIMONY OF BRIDGES ACCUSER

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 11 (AP).—The defense hammered away today at John L. Leech in an effort to bring out discrepancies in his testimony at the deportation hearing of Harry Bridges, west coast C. I. O. director and leader of maritime workers on the Pacific. The government is seeking to deport Bridges to his native Australia on the ground he is a communist.

Attorney Aubrey Grossman brought the questioning around to Leech working on painting and decorating jobs while not a union member, and Thomas B. Shoemaker, chief of government's counsel, protested. Examiner James M. Landis ruled if it could be shown the witness was hostile to organized labor the questioning was relevant.

Leech, who identified himself as a one time communist, testified earlier in the hearing Bridges was a member of the communist party. Leech testified he resigned from the communist party, of which he said he was an organizer at Los Angeles and that Bridges not only had attended communist meetings, but had been elected to office.

3 Vandals Get Bridewell Terms for Library Raid

Three vandals who broke into the Sherman park branch library, 5440 South Racine avenue, and smashed furniture and turned over file cabinets in a search for the money box, were sent to the Bridewell yesterday by Judge Lambert K. Hayes. Frank Hankiewicz, 19 years old, who has a police record, was sentenced to a year; Otto Pajewski, 17, to six months, and Henry Wisniewski, 19, to seven months.

A. F. OF L. COUNCIL DELAYS ACTION ON ACTORS' ROW

Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 11 (AP).—Originally scheduled for a one day stand, the battle of performers' and stagehands' unions over the status of Sophie Tucker's American Federation of Actors was adjourned today until Monday. The executive council of the American Federation of Labor ended the second session of its hearing before announcing the adjournment.

"We are trying to work out our differences in a common sense way," said William Green, president of the A. F. of L., who announced the failure to solve the problem today.

"We are ready for any emergency," said Ralph Morgan, president of the Screen Actors' guild and a leader of the performers' forces. The guild group will spend tomorrow in New York and return here Monday.

Principals in the feud are the Associated Actors and Artists of America [AAAA] and the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employés [IATSE].

In the middle is Sophie's American Federation of Actors, which was ousted by the parent AAAA and promptly adopted the IATSE. The AAAA then charged IATSE with violating its charter from A. F. of L. in granting a charter to the expelled night club, vaudeville, and circus performers, and the issue was put up to the A. F. of L.'s executive board.

IRISH 'GENERAL' DEFENDS BOMB WAR ON BRITAIN

Sean Russell Says Force Alone Is Effective.

BY PERCY WOOD.

Sean Russell, talking the eager language of the zealot, yesterday defended the bombings in London and other English cities that Scotland Yards charges to the Irish Republican army, which he commands. The British empire has only itself to blame, he declared, because of its 700 year occupation of Ireland.

Sean Russell.

"The bombings are being carried on by the army, and they will continue," Russell stated flatly at the opening of an hour's interview in the La Salle hotel. "Bombings are not our choice, if we knew more sober methods would be successful. If any speech would give us our freedom we would willingly make it.

Arms Alone Work, He Says.

"But all our experience has taught us to believe that no concession can be gotten from England except by the use of arms."

Tomorrow "General" Russell will address the Irish-American National alliance in Riverview park at a meeting which is expected to draw 10,000 persons of Irish descent. Chicago is one of his stops on a transcontinental tour which has already taken him to the west coast seeking "financial support and moral help" for the Republican cause.

Sean Russell has been fighting the British since he was a youth of 20. In 1914 he was a "clark" in Dublin—"when a sense of duty got me into the fight." The fight has never ended. He took part in the bloody Easter rebellion of 1916. When the English soldiers crushed it Russell was imprisoned for a year with hundreds of others.

"Cause" Is His Life.

The "cause" is Russell's life. He neither drinks nor smokes, and he has never married. "Who would marry a man like me?" he asked with a wry smile. Then he warmed to his message.

"The English army of occupation is in our country now for 700 years," he said. "It has been fairly well established that every generation Irishmen, great or small, will fight.

"Bombings, as I have said, are not our choice, if we knew more sober methods would be successful. We have gone so far with the British as to send our members into the house of parliament appealing to the prime minister and his cabinet to grant us freedom.

"Last January we made a final appeal. The Irish Republican army gave Lord Halifax, the foreign secretary, four days to disclose his intentions toward withdrawing his army. We received no reply, no acknowledgement. We made it clear that if it were not considered, the Irish Republican army would take any appropriate action.

Blames English Occupation.

"The only action was force of arms. We weren't slow to use it. England is responsible for that force of arms by her occupation of our country, and England can put an end to these hostilities by complying with our just request.

"In our request we asked for nothing that does not belong to us. We are not asking England to give us anything to which she is justly entitled. We simply ask for a restoration of our own government and a severance of any connection with the British empire."

Asked how many army members were in England engaged in the bombing compaign, Russell said he estimated between 500 and 1,000. The campaign aims to hamper the public services—lights, telephones, and gas mains.

Tells Care for Lives.

"You can do a town greater injury that way," he explained. "Our men try to put the people to the maximum of inconvenience without taking lives. The last thing we want to do is to take lives."

Listening approvingly as Russell talked was an older man who had some experience fighting the British himself. He is Maj. Michael Enright, 3242 Warren avenue, who was a company commander during the Boer war—on the side of the Boers and against the English. Enright and several other Irish-Americans who served with the Boers will be at the picnic tomorrow.

Calls Task Education.

Russell was asked how his appeal was being received in America.

"For the most part," he replied, "except for the Klan-Na-Gaels [an outgrowth of the old Fenian movement], most of our people here have a feeling that the national situation in Ireland is safe in the hands of the Free State government.

"It was the duty of the Irish Republican army, in conjunction with the Klan-Na-Gaels, to inform the Irish people of the true situation in Ireland. That task has been reasonably well accomplished now."

"What about Prime Minister Eamon De Valera and the Irish parliament; what does the army think of them?" Russell was asked.

"They are compromisers, and they deal with the enemy, but our fight is not with them," he replied. "Our fight is with the British, not with our own people."

Aged Winnetka Resident Is Killed by N. W. Flyer

Jesse D. Shook, 77 years old, 1155 Chatfield road, Winnetka, was killed late last night by a Chicago bound North Western railroad flyer at the Tower road crossing in the suburb. Mr. Shook had just alighted from a North Shore electric train at the crossing and stepped onto the parallel North Western tracks when he was struck by the high speed Flambeau. He was the father of Mrs. Herbert W. Paulson, with whom he had been living for about a year. Paulson is an interior decorator.

TROPICAL STORM BUFFETS FLORIDA; FRUIT DAMAGED

Palm Beach, Fla., Aug. 11 (AP).—Blustery winds which at times reached nearly fifty-five miles an hour caused minor property damage and kicked up heavy waves on the Atlantic ocean and Lake Okeechobee tonight as a small tropical storm moved across the lower end of the Florida peninsula.

Damage was restricted to blown down signs and fallen power poles.

Two persons suffered slight injuries caused indirectly by the storm, which moved inland from the Atlantic in the vicinity of Jupiter, just north of here, late this afternoon.

The weather bureau at Jacksonville said the storm was passing northeast of the city of Okeechobee in a northwesterly direction at 7 p. m., and would pass into the gulf near Tampa late tonight with diminished intensity.

Shift in Wind Saves Town in Idaho from Forest Fire

Spokane, Wash., Aug. 11 (AP).—A galelike wind that whipped a dying forest fire into fury today and blew it to the very edge of Spirit Lake, Idaho, shifted at right angles and blew the flames away again. Tonight a lull in the wind, which had switched and swerved all afternoon, gave the 1,500 fire fighters hope the mill village of 900 population, 45 miles northeast of here, would remain safe. No buildings inside the town had burned. Losses outside the town were estimated at $1,000,000, including 40,000,000 feet of lumber and a railroad roundhouse.

CITY TAXES PUT UP $6,000,000 BY LEGISLATURE

1940 Levy Increased by 8 Million Dollars.

Legislation enacted by the last general assembly will increase taxes in Chicago for 1939 by more than 6 million dollars over the 1938 total. Taxes in 1940 will be 8 million dollars more than the 1938 levies against Chicago residents.

This forecast was made yesterday by the Civic federation and bureau of public efficiency in its legislative report.

Increases voted by the legislature and estimated local increases may boost the 1939 tax rate to an all-time high of $9.60 per $100 of assessed valuation, the report said, although certain abatements made before the bills are sent out may reduce this to $9.50. The estimates are based on the total assessed valuation for 1938.

Increase of 5 Per Cent.

A $9.60 tax rate would mean an increase of 5 per cent in tax bills to be mailed out next spring covering levies for 1939. The rate for 1938 was $9.12. The highest rate thus far was $9.52, reached in 1936.

Of the total 1939 Chicago tax increases of $6,050,000 voted by the assembly, $3,000,000 or nearly half goes to the school board. The board's pegged levy was boosted from $45,000,000 to $48,000,000.

The park board's pegged levy for 1939 was increased by $2,900,000 to $10,500,000. The remaining $150,000 of the total increase goes to the Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium.

More than 9 million dollars of tax increases proposed for 1940 were thrown out by the legislature. The total increase approved, however, amounted to $8,307,870, compared with 1938 levies. This total increase was distributed as follows: School board, $3,370,778; park district, $2,900,000, and sanitary district, $2,037,092.

Prospect Called Alarming.

The bureau's report, signed by Bertram J. Cahn, president, and Douglas Sutherland, executive secretary, said most of the tax increases voted for Chicago were apparently inescapable.

"The prospect for future legislative sessions appears alarming, and the only way to insure against another collapse of the governments or the taxpayers or both seems to lie in drastic economies, involving a fundamental change of policy for some of the governments," the report said.

"The trouble is that for years many of our public officials and citizen groups have taken the path of least resistance in dealing with factors leading toward constant increases in expenditures."

DEFY INJUNCTION IN CASE AGAINST UNION PRESIDENT

New York, Aug. 11 [Special].—Members of the Building Service Employes International union, local 32B, voted tonight to sustain union charges against James J. Bambrick, president of the local. They also appointed a trial board to try Bambrick. The action was taken despite a last minute Supreme court injunction order obtained late this afternoon by Bambrick to prohibit the meeting.

Bambrick, who is accused by the opposing group of exceeding his power, of improperly spending $11,000 for his "personal use," and neglecting his duties, was upheld by the court on his contention that the meeting called tonight was illegal in view of a special meeting that he had previously called for next Thursday.

In an effort to avoid contempt of court, the trial board was ordered in the resolution not to take action until after the conclusion of litigation over the injunction. Toward the end of the meeting a tear gas bomb was exploded in an adjoining washroom. The fumes helped end the meeting quickly.

COUNTY REPAID $603,390 BY BAIN BANK RECEIVER

Money on Deposit When Chain Closed in 1931.

State's Attorney Courtney received five checks totaling $603,390 yesterday from five of the John Bain banks which closed on June 9, 1931. The payment, which will go into the general tax fund of Cook county, is the result of protracted litigation to regain $896,212 of Cook county tax money on deposit when the banks failed.

A sixth check for $106,347 is being held in the closed Chicago Lawn State bank pending settlement of a suit by other creditors. Courtney expressed little doubt that the county would get this money and said that in addition he will start action against the United States Fidelity and Guarantee company, surety for the banks, to recover the remaining $186,475 owed the county.

Paid Over by Receiver.

The checks were received yesterday by Jacob Shamberg, in charge of civil litigation for the state's attorney's office, from Charles H. Albers, receiver for the Bain banks. Shamberg turned them over to Courtney.

The banks making the payments were the West Highland State bank, $116,641; the Chicago Lawn State bank, $100,000; West Englewood Trust and Savings bank, $235,683; Stony Island Savings bank, $91,922; and the Elston State bank, $59,144.

In 1936 the banks made a payment of $132,000 to the county treasurer on accounts in addition to those in litigation. Subsequently State's Attorney Courtney brought suit to recover the rest of the money. The Illinois Supreme court ruled that after trust funds were paid, the county was to receive money due it before the general creditors were paid.

Seek to Set Aside Rights.

Depositors held mass meetings and sent delegates to the county commissioners in an effort to have the county's priority rights waived, but without success.

The money came into possession of the banks under an old system by which tax payers made their payments direct to the banks. After the crash of the Bain banks, this system was discontinued.

THE ABC'S OF SILVER (4)

By CALEB

ALL silverware is either sterling or plated, and comes in two forms: flatware and holloware. One distinction is a matter of manufacturing method; the other is a matter of shape. Sterling, for example, is as nearly pure silver as practicability will permit; plated ware uses a base of German silver or Britannia ware, coated with silver by electroplating. Flatware embraces knives, forks, spoons and toilet articles; holloware comprises dishes, plates, bowls, vases, shakers, pitchers . . . all dinnerware.

With these particulars in mind, it is illuminating to remember the origin of the word Sterling. One account places its derivation in the starling shown on early English coins; but silver-makers themselves credit the term to a group of 13th-century merchant traders from the Hanseatic cities, named Easterling. These traders, coming to England for commercial purposes, paid for goods with coins of their own making, so high in silver content and so uniform, that they were later adopted as a permanent value-standard.

These Easterling tokens contained 925 parts of silver to 75 parts of copper (added to offset the softness of pure silver); and usage soon contracted the original word to the present "Sterling." Since 1907, U. S. law has protected this standard, and any deviation is severely dealt with.

Another expression often encountered by the silverware purchaser is "Butler Finish." This, too, had a long-ago origin—in the delegating of care for the household silver to the English butler. Very wisely, that gentleman subjected his precious pieces to hand-rubbing—imparting to the surface a peculiarly rich, soft luster induplicable by any other means. Sometimes called, today, a "French finish," or "Gray finish," this mellowness of sheen is simulated, in modern manufacture, by the procedure of buffing or polishing with special abrasives.

Around this whole spacious and gracious subject have naturally accumulated many significant allusions. Variously springing from materials employed, processes of making, or customs of usage, are such fascinating instances as the meanings of "Coin Silver," "Pewter," "German Silver," "Britannia Ware"—the stories behind Sheffield Plate, the "Rattail Spoon," and "Apostles' Spoons"—and how the three-handled "Loving Cup" originated. These, as space permits, we shall presently consider in more detail.

JAPANESE HAIL VICTORY; BRITAIN GIVES UP CHINESE

Tokio Negotiations Likely to Be Resumed.

TOKIO, Aug. 12 [Saturday] (AP).—Japan hailed today as an important victory a formal British announcement that four alleged Chinese terrorists who found refuge in the British concession in Tientsin would be surrendered to the Japanese for trial.

A British embassy spokesman said the Japanese had compiled sufficient evidence to make it obligatory for the British to hand over the men. They are accused by the Japanese in the slaying of S. G. Cheng, a Tientsin customs official on April 9. Two will be tried for murder; the others are accused of having belonged to illegal organizations.

Surrender of the four constituted one of Japan's minimum demands in negotiations on the Tientsin dispute, in which Japanese have blockaded the British and French concessions at Tientsin since June 14. The British decision was interpreted by all Japanese as a long step toward solving the dispute.

A dispatch from Tientsin stated British authorities still are holding the four Chinese in the British concession jail pending receipt of official orders to yield them.

Currency Issue Ahead.

Britain's decision is believed to open the way for resumption of the British-Japanese negotiations which were suspended last week. The discussions will be concerned almost exclusively with the North China currency question.

A Japanese military delegation that came to Tokio from Tientsin for the conference is reported to be getting ready to return on Monday. It is insisted by the Japanese that this does not indicate the parley will not be resumed. They explain that the issues now to be taken up are those in which the military have no interest.

GREAT BRITAIN BOWS

BY DAVID DARRAH.

LONDON, Aug. 11.—It was announced here that the British have decided to hand over four Chinese for trial by a Chinese court controled by Japanese at Tientsin.

The four are charged by Japanese authorities with having murdered S. G. Cheng, a Chinese official of the customs at Tientsin, last April.

The decision was announced after legal experts in London had examined new evidence communicated by the Japanese to the British ambassador in Tokio, Sir Robert Craigie, it was stated.

Parley Likely to Be Revived.

It is expected that with the handing over of the four Chinese the Tokio negotiations to settle the Tientsin affair, which have been temporarily suspended, will be resumed. The British denied that their decision had any connection with a new bargain with the Japanese, or had been induced by a temporary breakdown of the conference under threat of Japanese military officials from Tientsin to quit the conference unless London yielded.

The London foreign office announces that new instructions have been sent to Ambassador Craigie and that it is hoped the conversations will be renewed as a result. It had been reported that the Japanese military threatened to break up the conference unless Ambassador Craigie got these new instructions from London before the beginning of next week, and that the Japanese demand was a virtual ultimatum. London denies this. Authorities here say the instructions deal mainly with questions of policy and security in the concession.

ONE OF JAPAN'S PUPPET RULERS GOES ON STRIKE

PEIPING, Aug. 11 (AP).—Wang Keh-min, head of the Japanese-sponsored North China government, apparently is on strike — presenting Japanese political manipulators with a delicate problem. Wang was said by reliable sources today to be dissatisfied with the Japanese movement to make Wang Ching-wei, former premier of China, head of a puppet régime to govern all of Japanese-occupied China.

Wang Ching-wei [top]. Wang Keh-min.

It was denied that Wang had resigned, but circles close to him indicated he had absented himself from his duties for several weeks in order to avoid attending a meeting at Tsingtao later this month for officials of puppet governments. At this meeting some form of federal government is expected to be discussed.

3,000 Troops Reinforce British Post at Singapore

SINGAPORE, Aug. 11 (AP).—Three thousand British troop reinforcements from India arrived at this empire key post today to augment 4,000 which arrived last Tuesday. A communique prior to the troop movement said it was "of a precautionary nature" and "has been under consideration for some time."

MYSTERY VEILS AMERICANS HELD IN CHINESE CITY

Chicagoans Among 36 Missionaries.

SHANGHAI, China, Aug. 12 [Saturday] (AP).—Efforts of a score of United States diplomatic and consular officers had failed today to penetrate mystery surrounding the reported detention of Americans at Kaifeng, which is controled by the Japanese.

A list of foreign missionaries compiled from various sources indicated that at least thirty-six Americans, some of them women and children, were in the former capital of Honan province in North China's interior.

Among the Americans are several from Chicago and vicinity. They are Miss Florence Murray of Evanston, Ill., representing the American Free Methodist mission of 1132 Washington boulevard, Chicago; the Rev. Edwin Mach of Chicago, and the Rev. P. I. Bandstetter and the Rev. Wenceslas Keptra, both of Lisle, Ill., of the American Benedictine Catholics of St. Joseph, Minn. Also included are the following sisters of Saint Mary's of the Wood with headquarters at Notre Dame, Ind.; Florence Baker, Donna Hagarty, Gertrude Schultze, Apollina Wolf, Mathilda Muehlenbein, Cecilia Venne, and Elizabeth Zens. Miss Pearl Schaffer of English, Ind., another representative of the American Free Methodist mission, also is on the list.

Detention Unexplained.

Reports reaching here through Japanese lines surrounding the city gave no explanation for the detention. Earlier information was that the Americans were preparing to flee after an outbreak of anti-Americanism at Kaifeng.

An investigation was promised by the Japanese army at Peiping at the request of the United States embassy but thus far it has revealed nothing.

A Japanese army spokesman said he believed reports of anti-American activities in Kaifeng resulted from a misunderstanding. A telegram sent by the Rev. Francis Clougherty of Swissvale, Pa., he said, referred to Canadian missionaries driven from Kaifeng by an anti-British campaign as Americans. This use of the word "Americans," said the Japanese, probably led to belief that the United States citizens were in difficulty. American authorities have been unable to communicate with the Rev. Mr. Clougherty.

Americans Push Inquiry.

American authorities are continuing their efforts to communicate with Kaifeng. Officials at Chungking, Hankow, Shanghai, Tsingtao, Tientsin, and Peiping, forming a wide semicircle around Kaifeng, all were urging Japanese authorities to open communications with the city, from which all British missionaries were driven last month by menacing demonstrations.

The Japanese controled telegraph service here accepted messages addressed to Kaifeng, but there have been no replies.

Missionaries at Kweiteh, east of Kaifeng, also were reported fearing trouble and preparing to leave. Missions there include those of the Church of England in Canada, the American Board mission, and the Southern Baptist convention.

Flood of Circulars Urges Danzig to Stay Out of Reich

FREE CITY OF DANZIG, Aug. 11 (AP).—Hundreds of circulars declaring "we do not want to go into the third reich"—Germany—and demanding the resignation of district Nazi Leader Albert Forster for "irresponsible work" appeared here today. Nazis said foreign sources were responsible for the circulars, which went to consuls, senate members, and many citizens. They were signed "Danzig's Freedom Front." Police were unable to trace their origin.

2,000 JEWS SAIL IN FORLORN HUNT FOR NEW HOMES

CONSTANZA, Rumania, Aug. 11 (AP).—Nearly 2,000 Jewish refugees from dismembered Czecho-Slovakia boarded two Greek steamers today for an attempt to run Britain's blockade into Palestine. Men, women, and children who had scraped together the required $150 for passage straggled aboard the vessels for a voyage of 1,000 miles with no guaranteed landing place.

(The British government announced on June 12 that no Jewish immigration into Palestine would be permitted for six months because of "an organized attempt to defeat the proper regulations of immigration by a trafic in illegal immigrants.")

The 2,000 represented only a small part of the refugees in the steady stream pouring into this Black sea port from central and eastern European countries.

Riot Aboard Ship.

While refugees were embarking here, 500 Jews rioted on the steamer Parita at Smyrna. Turkish authorities there ordered the captain to sail without letting the passenger refugees land. The 500 were reported to have threatened to kill him if he obeyed.

The skipper was given police protection and the authorities insisted that the vessel sail—if necessary under the escort of an armed minelayer. The Parita arrived last Tuesday in Smyrna.

Word also was received that the steamer Lisel and its 800 Jewish passengers had surrendered to British authorities after cruising along the Palestine coast for more than two months waiting for an opportunity to crash the blockade.

Captain in Jail.

The reports reaching here said the captain was in jail, most of the passengers were in concentration camps and ten of the refugees died at sea. The vessel was taken into Haifa harbor.

Thousands of Jewish refugees who found a temporary haven in Rumania are seeking passage since new government decrees ordered concentration camp detention for all foreigners who have not obtained residence permits by Aug. 25.

Bar Jews in Shanghai.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 11 (AP).—The Japanese navy today set Aug. 21 as a deadline after which no more German Jewish refugees will be permitted in the section of the Shanghai international settlement north of Soochow creek. The area is controled by the Japanese navy.

The Japanese action was not unexpected as the influx of Jews, expected to reach a total in Shanghai of 20,000 before the end of the year, has created competition with Japanese interests.

REPORT MOSCOW WILL GIVE CHINA HUGE NEW CREDIT

CHUNGKING, China, Aug. 11 (AP).—The soviet Russian-Chinese commercial treaty of June 16 may be broadened to provide $133,000,000 in credit and material aid for China, reliable sources estimated today.

Chinese finance officials said Chinese-Russian negotiations were proceeding at Moscow with a view to continuing a barter agreement between the countries.

A preliminary Russian credit of $30,000,000 was said to have been arranged. China will grant economic concessions in the northwest and provide Russia with raw materials, it was reported.

WORKERS' WIVES TO CHART SPAIN'S NEW FOOD RULE

Keep Budgets to Show Kitchen Necessities.

BY SAM BREWER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, Aug. 11.—The Franco government has begun an investigation to find out just what the average Spanish workman's family lives on and where each peseta goes after the taxes are paid.

Thousands of family account books are being issued to the government-controled labor unions by the Ministry of Union Action and Organization to be passed on to members.

A government decree requires every housewife whose husband is given one of the booklets to keep accurate accounts.

After a test period, the length of which has not been announced, the books will be turned over to the government statistical service for analysis of wage and cost-of-living data. Nobody's name will appear on any book.

Chart New Food Controls.

The figures will help officials to decide on further measures in food and price control and will indicate whether any food can be taken off the government's restricted list, whether others should be put on it, and whether the average workman can get along on his present wages.

Post-war readjustments have made living hard for the poorer families. The worker has enough food to get along on, but no more, and in the long run, it is believed, he must get more to keep going.

Taxes are heavy to cover post-war activities, such as care of the wounded and the widows, repair of war damage, and support of the huge and ever-increasing number of employés needed to run the government as it expands to cover new fields.

Few Foods Untaxed.

Everything except a few staple foods pays a 10 per cent war tax. Anything deemed a luxury pays 20 per cent. In restaurants the tax is paid doubly, first by the restaurateur, who passes it on to the customer, and again, on top of that, by the customer. The total tax paid by the consumer of a meal comes to 21 per cent. On wines and liquors, ices, and soft drinks served in a café the customer pays a tax of 32 per cent.

Workers are protected to some extent by the fact that the tax does not apply to staples, and the untaxed staples are rationed to prevent speculation or hoarding. The head of every family must get a card showing the number of dependents. Every time a purchase is made a coupon is cut off this card.

This week's rations in Madrid, for example, are a quarter pound of sugar, two ounces of lentils, one ounce of coffee, and one-tenth liter, about half a tumbler, of olive oil for each adult.

By doling out the food the government keeps down the prices to protect laborers, whose average wage varies from about 35 cents a day in rural districts to 70 to 80 cents in Madrid. Luxuries come high, with butter at 70 cents a pound and ham $1.50.

SPAIN BUILDS WAR LINE ALONG FRENCH BORDER

HENDAYE, France, Aug. 11 (AP).—The Spanish Nationalist government is rushing construction of fortifications near the French frontier between Irun and San Sebastian, observers reported today.

Thousands of former Republican soldiers, now enrolled in Nationalist labor brigades, are said to be doing the work under the guidance of German technicians.

Along the Gainchurizqueta ridge, about two miles from Hendaye, the Spaniards have built a series of blockhouses of reinforced concrete with emplacements for machine guns and anti-tank guns. Additional emplacements have been prepared where the main highway from the border to San Sebastian descends into the Oyarzun river valley. Observers said the fortified positions extend as far as Lesaca, twelve miles from the border.

A large air raid shelter was under construction on the slopes of Mount Haya, which dominates the French frontier.

Morganthau Pays a Visit to Danish Finance Minister

COPENHAGEN, Aug. 11 (AP).—Henry Morgenthau Jr., United States secretary of the treasury, who had recovered from a slight illness, today called on the Danish finance minter, Orla Buhl. He lunched later with the American chargé d'affaires, Mahlon Perkins. Mr. and Mrs. Morgenthau and their three children will remain here about eight days and then visit Finland, Sweden, and Norway.

BOOKS

Anthony Eden's Side of British Foreign Policy

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Foreign Affairs," by Anthony Eden. [Harcourt Brace, $3.50.] Published Thursday.

A few weeks after the publication of Neville Chamberlain's speeches, "In Search of Peace" [June 26], Anthony Eden's official utterances are gathered into a book which probably will surprise American readers more for what it does not contain than for what it does. If they had hoped for something on the Edmund Burke line, with cascades of brilliant oratorical indignation against principle in foreign affairs as well as poniarding of political opponents, they will read these suave, extremely polite diplomatic statements with disappointment. Even the famous debate criticizing Chamberlain praises almost more than it views with alarm, and, read in its entirety, is as carefully and discreetly turned out as its handsome author.

Anthony Eden.

Anthony Eden, these records prove, is no fire eater. He is no wielder of a big oratorical stick. Occasionally, after he has been worried by the terriers of the opposition, he may snap a bit, but never when his principles of foreign policy are at stake. About them he never permits himself a sharp word, never allows their importance to be clouded by badgering. Those principles emerging from these pages are briefly and in part:

That England's position in foreign relationships should be always for the preservation of peace, but that to preserve peace she must be as well armed as any possible foes, because the knowledge that the country is comparatively weak almost inevitably affects policy.

That foreign affairs cannot indefinitly be continued on the basis of "stand and deliver!" Successive surrenders bring only successive humiliation.

That what a country does about its own internal governing is no concern of England, but only its international relations.

That it matters less to the peace of the world whether a country is Fascist or communist than whether it fulfills its international obligations.

That outside intervention is an unnatural solution of any country's internal problems.

Anthony Eden's pleas for peace are no less sincere than Neville Chamberlain's. Their goal is the same, with "a divergence, not of aim, but of outlook and approach," Mr. Eden declares.

"Of late the conviction has steadily grown upon me that there has been too keen a desire on our part to make terms with others rather than that others should make terms with us," he says. "This never was the attitude of this country in the past. It should not, in the interests of peace, be our attitude today."

Those are the fieriest words in this printed record of the famous former foreign secretary's speeches on foreign policy between 1924 and November, 1938.

Tale Rich with Beauty

"Black Narcissus," by Rumer Godden. [Little-Brown, $2.50.]

The "atmosphere" for "Black Narcissus" is a windswept ledge of rock overlooking a chasm in the shadow of Kanchenjungha, a towering mountain in the Himalayas. Its characters are four Anglo-Catholic nuns and their sister superior, who, as the book opens, are making the long, hard journey on horseback to what is to be their mission school and dispensary. As the book closes four women climb down from their lofty nunnery, subtly changed, defeated by the immemorial and unchangeable "atmosphere."

You would think that such a tale would be either portentous or, implicitly if not actually, melodramatic—like "Lost Horizon," for instance, to which it will inevitably be compared on account of its Himalayan setting and its monastic characters. But "Black Narcissus" is as simple and as subtle as "The Bridge of San Luis Rey," of which it more inevitably will remind the delighted reader.

The nunnery once had been an old Indian general's pleasure house for his women. But his son, who had tasted the decorum of the west, had wished to redeem the spot from its past and had given the palace to a brotherhood for a school. In a few months, however, the brothers had returned it and fled without explanation. Then the general hopefully turned it over to the sisterhood. His dream of the palace's regeneration is so ardent that he pays the natives to send their children to the school and to attend the dispensary, and he also sends to be taught his young nephew, an engaging, beautiful youth, a "Black Narcissus" just becoming a man.

Mr. Dean, the general's outspoken, hard drinking English factotum; the young prince, and the "atmosphere," individually and collectively, subtly influence the good sisters.

Rumer Godden has made an utterly delightful and not at all irreverent tale of their strange impotence in the face of the centuries old "atmosphere," a tale rich with beauty and subtle humor. "Black Narcissus" is one of the summer's "finds."

Ordered Out of Italy, Rich Jewess Hurls Self Into Sea

[Copyright: 1939: By the New York Times.]

MENTON, France, Aug. 11.—A wealthy German Jewess, Mrs. Loewenstein, committed suicide last night on the French-Italian border. Ordered to leave Italy where she had lived for seventeen years in a sumptuous villa in the border town of Grimaldi, Mrs. Loewenstein dressed herself as for a gala dinner. Wearing all her jewelry, she drove to the steep rocks forming the French-Italian frontier and there threw herself into the sea.

Remarkable Story of the Mind Told in Author's Unusual Medical Journal

"A Journey Round My Skull," by Frigyes Karinthy. [Harpers, $2.50.] Published Thursday.

Frigyes Karinthy, celebrated Hungarian humorist, poet, and essayist, enters into a new field here, that of keeping a private medical journal.

In this remarkable, brilliant book he tells what happened to him during the formation and removal of a malignant tumor at the base of his cerebellum. He records in minute detail the changes in his physical and mental outlook, his hallucinations, and his dreams. He even tosses in a provocative short story written while his brain was diseased. He then records, in even more minute detail, the removal of the tumor, for during this delicate, hazardous operation, he remained conscious.

No matter what you may think, this is not a horror story. It is a gripping and stimulating psychological as well as medical document, written with rare sensitivity, humor, and Huxleyian thoughtfulness. Its spirited style falls flat only once. This is in the last chapter, when he thanks his readers for their patience. He doesn't need to. M. W.

Biography of Carter Glass

"Carter Glass—A Biography," by Rixey Smith and Norman Beasley. [Longmans, Green, $3.]

"The public man who permits himself to pause long enough to inquire whether a thing is popular or unpopular, instead of seeking to know whether it is right or wrong, is not only useless but dangerous to his country. He is a coward to begin with and a menace afterward. It is more than likely that I have been wrong more than I have been right. But whether I have been right or wrong I have spoken my own mind . . . and did not permit any one to do it for me."

Thus Carter Glass sums up his political and moral code. For nearly fifty years he has served his people of Virginia and the nation. His enemies, and friends, have bitterly criticized his stand on many occasions. But none ever doubted the sincerity of his motives.

His singleness of purpose in the house of representatives in revising the banking structure of the nation by drafting and fighting through the federal reserve act of 1913; his work as secretary of the treasury in Wilson's post-war cabinet; his service as senator from Virginia since 1920; his communications with Wilson, Coolidge, Hoover, Roosevelt, Col. House, Bryan, Newton D. Baker, Huey Long, McAdoo, and others, are told intimately and entertainingly in this book. The work is based on papers, notes, diaries, speeches, and political writing and utterances, to which Rixey Smith, who has been Glass' secretary for many years, had access.

Novel of Early Virginia

"Gamble's Hundred," by Clifford Dowdey. [Little-Brown, $2.50.]

This is one of the finest historical novels of the year. It gives life to early eighteenth century Virginia, the tidewater tobacco country in the years that followed Bacon's rebellion. It is the story of the small planters' struggle against the big wigged and autocratic tobacco aristocracy.

It traces this struggle to a point when the small planters were about to become sharecroppers. But their hatred of British bondage was too near. They did not become sharecroppers. They went over the mountains and pushed the frontier westward.

"Gamble's Hundred" has stirringly recreated the hearty life and people of those days, the frontiersmen, the planters, and the Virginia dandies who crowded the streets of old Williamsburg. There is a love theme that is tender and appealing and one that is jolly well exciting. C. L.

Woman's Jungle Travels

"Seven Grass Huts," by Cecile Hulse Matschat. [Farrar & Rinehart, $3.]

Cecile Matschat, author of "Suwanee River," made seven exciting journeys through South and Central American jungles with her engineer husband. In "Seven Grass Huts" she tells with humor, charm, and vivacity of these dangerous days, often in regions never before visited by a white woman.

The seven grass huts they lived in were widely scattered. One was on the wind swept Patagonian pampas, two were in Brazil, two in Bolivia, one in Panama, and her last jungle home was in British Honduras. There she was bitten by a scorpion and narrowly escaped death. She had many thrills, but declares she had no regrets. A. C.

Realism Made Genial

"Stephen Ayers," by James McConnaughey. [Farrar & Rinehart, $2.50.] Published Monday.

James McConnaughey's first novel, "Village Chronicle," had an unusually engaging honesty about it, a "naturalness that is something quite different from realism, although it is one form of it." I see by the book jacket I said about it. And because his second has that same rare quality, and there are no better words for it, I quote from myself.

His realism is companionable and pleasant. With some excellent realism, it is about as pleasant to spend an evening as with an angry porcupine. Mr. McConnaughey gives his readers a feeling that he is as faithful to the truth as any of our super-realistic novel purveyors, but his is a genial truth accepting mankind rather than a peevish truth complaining about it.

Stephen Ayers is a young man possessed with ambition, a good job, a nest egg, and a social-inferiority complex when the book opens. He is an ordinary nice young man, who worked his way through college and made friends there with whom he felt he wasn't economically able to keep up when he got back home. The book has two pretty well balanced motifs as Steve's life had—business and women.

He makes a business success, but there's nothing so spectacular about it that a comparable success hasn't happened to thousands of young men. One woman is almost his undoing, but that's because he is like all the simple, nice young fellows whom not nice girls trap. Natural again, for you never see in real life a hard, ultrasophisticated, selfish young man tricked into marriage. Stephen's second marriage is a happy reaction, and even the not smooth places in that true love have an engaging honesty about them.

"Stephen Ayres" is not a masterpiece, but you'll enjoy spending an evening with it as you do with simple and natural people.

AVER REDS URGE T. V. SMITH FOR DIES COMMITTEE

Hearings to Be Resumed on Aug. 16.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 11.—The New York headquarters of the communist party is seeking to bring about the appointment of Representative T. V. Smith [D., Ill.] to the vacancy on the Dies committee on un-American activities, according to investigators for the committee.

T. V. Smith.

The communists are reported to be working through Lee Pressman, general counsel for the Congress of Industrial Organizations, who has powerful connections in the Roosevelt administration.

Through Pressman the communists hope to bring pressure upon Speaker of the House William B. Bankhead to name Smith to the vacancy on the committee created by the resignation of Representative Arthur D. Healey [D., Mass.], according to Dies committee attaches.

Intimate Sensational Evidence.

Other members of the committee are worried about the movement to put Smith in the Healey vacancy, fearing that he would sabotage the investigation by confusing and seeking to discredit their witnesses. The committee plans to resume hearings on Aug. 16 and the investigators have intimated that their disclosures of communist activity will be sensational.

The Dies committee already has one zealous New Dealer—Representative H. Jerry Voorhis [D., Cal.]. Speaker Bankhead appointed him when the committee was extended in January. He took the place vacated by the defeat of Representative Harold G. Mosier [D., O.], an anti-New Dealer. Another member, Representative John J. Dempsey [D., N. M.] has been hostile to the course of the investigation. Representative Healey, another New Dealer, resigned from the Dies committee when Speaker Bankhead appointed him to the special committee to investigate the National Labor Relations board.

If Smith should be appointed, the anti-New Dealers on the Dies committee still would have a majority with Chairman Martin Dies [D., Tex.], Representative Joe Starnes [D., Ala.], Representative J. P. Thomas [R., N. J.], and Representative Noah M. Mason [R., Ill.]. The anti-New Dealers, however, believe Smith would seriously handicap their inquiry.

Rated Zealous New Dealer.

Smith is one of the most zealous and most articulate New Dealers in the house. He is a professor of philosophy at the University of Chicago and a former member of the Illinois senate. According to the Dies committee investigators, the communists prefer Smith above all other members of the house. The investigators say the communists credit Smith with a large part of the responsibility for the whitewashing of radicalism at the University of Chicago by an Illinois senate committee in 1935, although Smith was not a member of that committee.

ROBERT JACKSON TO TALK AT FAIR GOVERNOR'S DAY

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 11 [Special].—United States Solicitor General Robert H. Jackson will be the headliner at the Democratic celebration on Governor's day at the state fair next Thursday. Jackson's acceptance was announced today by F. Lynden Smith, director of public works and chairman of the Democratic day program.

Smith said he would read a message to the crowd from Gov. Henry Horner, who will miss the first Democratic day since he took office in 1933. He is spending the summer in Highland Park seeking to regain fully his health. The message may give his stand toward a third term, to which many of his followers believe he aspires.

Mayor Edward J. Kelly of Chicago and all the Democratic state officials and statehouse leaders are expected to attend the celebration.

JUDGE UPHOLDS MORGAN OUSTER BY ROOSEVELT

Knoxville, Tenn., Aug. 11 (AP).—Federal Judge George C. Taylor dismissed today Dr. Arthur E. Morgan's suit challenging the right of President Roosevelt to remove him as chairman of the Tennessee Valley authority. Judge Taylor held that Mr. Roosevelt "has the power of removal as an incident to the power of appointment."

The suit was filed in Chancery court here July 6, 1938, and was transferred to United States District court in August, 1938, on motion of TVA attorneys.

Morgan, who was ousted from the TVA chairmanship by the President for contumacy, contended his removal was void, invalid and wholly without authority. He asked back salary of $2,961.66 from the time of his removal March 22, 1938.

The Inquiring Reporter

The Question.

Should the government lend the farmers more money on their corn than it is worth in the market?

Where Answered.

The Answers.

Frank Schmale, Bartlett, Route 1.—No, I don't think the government should make loans on corn at all. I think farmers and other people would be better off in the long run if the government dropped its farm program entirely. I'm a farmer and I think I am able to judge the effect of the program pretty well. It just doesn't seem to work out.

Curtis Barnes, Bartlett, Route 1.—No. The government isn't getting anywhere by continuing to lend more money than the corn is worth. Such a program cannot last. I think the government should fix minimum prices for corn and other farm products and then stay out of the lending and buying business.

Nick Wagner, Melrose Park, Route 1.—I think it is all right for the government to lend some more than the market price, but I don't think the difference should be as much as it is now. It makes too much cost for taxpayers. Farmers need more money, but we should not try to put everything on the government. It can't give forever.

Ernest Plass, Lombard, Route 1.—Yes. With prices of corn and other crops as low as they are now, the government must give farmers help in some form and loans above the market price are as good a way as any to do this. But there must be a limit to such things. These loans must stop sometime.

Peter Ciolac, Howard and Grosse Point roads, west of Niles Center—I sell my corn for what I can get for it, and if I can't sell it I destroy it. I don't fool around with any loans, including government loans. The government ought to stay out of that sort of business, it seems to me. The farmer will get along all right without government loans.

M'NUTT INSISTS DEMOCRATS BACK NEW DEAL IDEAS

Echoes Roosevelt View at Pittsburgh Rally.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Aug. 11 [Special].—In a speech echoing a previous enunciation by President Roosevelt, Paul V. McNutt of Indiana tonight demanded that the Democratic party stand by the New Deal principles of the present administration.

The national convention of the Young Democrats provided the setting for the address of the former Indiana governor and former high commissioner of the Philippines. It was to the same group in a letter read last night that the President bluntly stated he would not give his support next year to a conservative.

The close timing and similarity of the utterances and the fact that copies of the McNutt speech were in the hands of the press two days before the President disclosed his views gave impetus to speculation that the two had an understanding about their addresses and on a 1940 tieup.

In White House Favor.

There have been reports that the Indianan will be Roosevelt's choice for the 1940 Democratic nomination if the President does not seek a third term himself.

McNutt, known to be in White House favor and a frequently avowed candidate for the presidential nomination of his party, said in an interview before his address that he would withdraw if the President seeks a third term.

McNutt presented to his audience tonight a three point goal for modern liberalism, praised the Roosevelt leadership, and predicted enlargement in the vast social security system he directs.

Sees Room for Improvement.

Although he predicted the New Deal program would go down in history as one of the great landmarks of progress, he expressed the belief there is still room left for further improvements.

Senate Majority Leader Alben [Dear Alben] Barkley brought an early session of the convention to its feet with a name calling tirade against the Republicans. He declared that if any one believed the New Deal program would be repudiated by the 1940 convention he should have his head examined.

Homer Mat Adams of Springfield, Ill., was expected to win the presidency of the Young Democrats' organization in the election of officers at tomorrow's closing session. Withdrawals of candidates left him with only one opponent.

HANGS SELF IN GARAGE.

SPECIAL SESSION HINGES ON WAR, ROOSEVELT SAYS

President to Take Cruise in North Atlantic.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hyde Park, N. Y., Aug. 11.—A special session of congress will not be called by President Roosevelt unless he becomes convinced that a war is imminent in Europe or the far east, he declared today.

As he prepared to board a cruiser in New York City tomorrow for an excursion into north Atlantic waters, the President said that he knew of no reason at the present time for summoning congress to meet before the regular session next January. He emphasized, however, that he would keep in touch with the state department in Washington for daily developments abroad.

If an actual crisis of war becomes imminent, the president said, he would probably call a special session in order to insure "American neutrality along the lines of international law." A reasonable certainty that war would break out would cause him to act, he said in explanation of this statement.

Signs Panama Canal Bill.

The President signed 52 bills passed by congress including the measure appropriating 277 million dollars for a third set of locks in the Panama canal, designated as an essential defense item. White House calculators announced that he had approved 659 bills since the beginning of the congressional session, vetoed 18 bills during the session, and disapproved 31 measures since congress adjourned. About 15 bills remain to be acted upon by the chief executive.

Mr. Roosevelt was asked, at a press conference held in his Hudson river home here, if he would again demand of congress repeal of the embargo on shipments of arms to belligerent nations. He replied that he was still seeking the general objectives which were denied him at the recent session of congress. He declared he wanted freedom to take executive action in case of a crisis without being bound by legislative limitations.

Offers Illustration.

The President offered as an illustration of his desires the disputes between President Woodrow Wilson and Secretary of State William Jennings Bryan in 1917 when Wilson refused the plea of Bryan to warn American citizens to stay off foreign flag ships.

It is undoubtedly the right of a President to give Americans such a warning, he said. If, in spite of this warning, they do not stay off, he said, this country would not go to war because people lost their lives on foreign flag ships.

The big question, the President said, is whether any legislation whatever is required. A return to the principles of international law is most important, he repeated.

The President today signed the bill amending the social security act which freezes for the next three years the 1 per cent tax on pay rolls for old age pensions. The tax would have been increased to 1½ per cent next Jan. 1 under the original act. More than 900 million dollars would be saved to employers and workers by this amendment, according to estimates.

SEES PRESIDENT SLATED TO HEAD RADICAL PARTY

Omaha, Neb., Aug. 11 (AP).—Sweeping political changes in 1940, with President Roosevelt breaking away from Democratic ranks to form a new "Liberal" party, were foreseen today by Senator Edward R. Burke, vigorous anti-New Deal Nebraska Democrat.

Burke, who figured in a last minute clash on the senate floor with New Dealers, returned to his home here to predict "conservative" Democrats and Republicans would unite after the national conventions, leaving the President to head a new group.

"I think," Burke said, "that the President has done a great service in seeking to bring about such a realignment. The present labels 'Democrat' and 'Republican' are an offense to the intelligence of the electorate. They mean nothing."

Burke predicted the President himself would lead the new party, which the senator described as "radical."

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 11 [Special.].—Twelve thousand dollars a year is required for the support of Mae Murray's son, Koran David Mdivani, 12 years old, according to the actress' suit against her former husband, Prince David Mdivani. She asked $2,600 for "home," $2,500 for food, $1,800 for school tuition, and other items ranging down to $100 for light and gas. The action was filed Thursday.

PHILADELPHIA'S MAYOR ILL; HAS TO GIVE UP JOB

Under Indictment for Misbehavior.

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 11 [Special].—S. Davis Wilson gave up his office as mayor of Philadelphia today because of illness. Wilson, who is 58 years old, signed retirement papers on his sickbed four and a half months before expiration of his four year term.

He turned the office over to George Connell, 68 years old, president of the city council, under a temporary disability clause of the city charter, thus continuing to draw his salary.

Indicted Last Year.

Wilson's battles reached a climax last year when he was indicted on charges of misbehavior in office. The indictments resulted from a special grand jury investigation of gambling which he demanded. He succeeded in having them quashed, but was re-indicted. The trial date has not been set.

A registered Democrat now, Wilson also has sought office as a Republican and as an independent. He was elected mayor on the Republican ticket, in Pennsylvania's bitter Democratic primary of 1938 he battled unsuccessfully for the Democratic senatorial nomination on a ticket backed by John L. Lewis, C. I. O. leader.

Extortion Counts Thrown Out.

Harrisburg, Pa., Aug. 11 (AP).—Fourteen counts of extortion were thrown out today by Judge Fred S. Reese. They were against three men on trial on charges of monopolizing Pennsylvania's bonding business with highway contractors during the recent administration of Gov. George H. Earle.

The extortion counts were contained in one of three indictments against James P. Kirk, Allegheny county Democratic chairman; Victor Skok, his associate in the bonding business, and H. H. Temple, former chief engineer of the state highway department.

The action leaves two indictments against the defendants in the second of a series of trials growing out of campaign charges made in the Democratic primary of 1938. The indictments still standing are conspiracy to extort and conspiracy to misuse the office of the secretary of highways.

RETURN TO WORK IS CALLED ISSUE BY GOV. BALDWIN

New England Is G. O. P., Says Connecticut Chief.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Gov. Raymond E. Baldwin [R., Conn.] said yesterday the essential issue for 1940 is recovery of jobs in real instead of made employment. With this, he says, is linked restoration of confidence in government. They were two issues in his successful campaign last year for governor. The signs point to a Republican year in 1940, he said.

Gov. Baldwin spent the afternoon at the Stevens hotel on his way to California. Aug. 14 is to be Connecticut day at the San Francisco Fair. His host was C. Wayland Brooks, who spent two months campaigning for Baldwin last year. In the governor's party are Mrs. Baldwin; three sons, Lucian, Raymond Jr., and Tyler; Col. Anson W. H. Taylor, military aid, and Mrs. Taylor, and three newspaper men.

View Chicago Skyline.

The party left last night, after a dinner cruise on James S. Kemper's yacht, Geromi, during which they viewed the Chicago skyline.

New England, Baldwin said, looks Republican next year. It now has six Republican governors, eight Republican senators out of twelve, twenty-two Republican congressmen out of twenty-nine, and Republican control of both houses in all six states, except in Connecticut, where Republicans control the house but not the senate.

Calls for Good Ticket.

"As yet," said Gov. Baldwin, "there is no stir about candidacies. The general feeling is that the campaign next year will be more on principles than personalities. Let the Republican party formulate a good declaration of principles and name a good candidate, and indications are the ticket will carry New England.

"It seems to me that employment is a groundwork issue—the recovery of jobs in industry. Connecticut has not been as hard hit as some other states, but the great appeal is for jobs. Looks as if business is picking up a bit, but it is still held back by lack of confidence in government."

MRS. ROOSEVELT HITS NEPOTISM IN GOVERNMENT

Washington, D. C., Aug. 11 [Special].—The holding of government jobs by two or more members of the same family, except in rare instances of excessively low wages, is decried by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt in a column conducted by her in the current issue of the Democratic Digest, a magazine published for women under the auspices of the Democratic national committee.

She writes that it is important "not to create a family burocracy in government." Whether Mrs. Roosevelt recalled that the President and his oldest son, James, were simultaneously on the federal pay roll within the last two years was not indicated.

NEW YORK'S BIG SHOW.

Mayor La Guardia came out to Chicago as a flying salesman to promote business for the New York fair. The officials of the fair complain that Chicago is a poor sport and has deliberately organized a mean spirited gossip factory which scares visitors away from the big exposition. The New York people say this is a low down trick because New York treated the Chicago fair very generously and were glad that it was a success.

The World of Tomorrow has had its troubles. They haven't been altogether suppressed in the New York newspapers but they haven't been unduly emphasized in Chicago. The management of any such large and necessarily extemporized enterprise may expect to make mistakes and Mr. Whalen's staff apparently has made more than need be. We have said that the show is a good show.

The people who will make or break a world's fair are not in the upper income tax brackets. Most of them are not even on the books of the internal revenue collector. They are people who can afford to take a pleasant but inexpensive vacation in which a family of three or four can enjoy themselves. They don't feel justified in spending a great deal of money. It may be that Mr. Whalen didn't give enough consideration to these people in the beginning.

Both New York and San Francisco are at a geographical disadvantage. Interior lines mean a great deal when people are to be attracted. Chicago has that advantage. It is the center of a large area and is within easy traveling distance of the homes of millions of the people who will take their modest vacations going to a fair. Maybe New York, which is in itself a great amusement center every day, never paid much attention to these families who are not on the night club lists.

What seems to have given the World of Tomorrow its most uncomfortable time and probably the worst part of its repute was the racketeering, which, in turn, boosted prices. The foreign exhibitors, who at first didn't want to take any part in the fair, feel that they were most unjustly treated by the New York union business agents. At first the foreign nations declined to come in. Their representatives said that they couldn't afford it.

Mr. Whalen sought the assistance of Mr. Roosevelt, and when he extended the invitation most of the nations, with the exception of Germany, reconsidered. They were influenced not only by the President but also by the fact that Russia and Japan, for special reasons of their own, were participating. Japan sought American good will and the soviet comrades wanted to whoop it up with the biggest display on the lot to show how good and happy they were.

The business agents plagued the foreign exhibitors from the beginning and made them all furious, again with the exception of the Japanese and Russians, who were determined to take it and like it and show smiling faces. The reports the other exhibitors are spreading back home do America no good. We shall appear as a nation of unconscionable brigands. New York wouldn't or couldn't protect its guests. The exhibitors, trying to get some of the money back to cover part of their unexpected expenses, may have thought that Americans expected to be high jacked and have adopted what they supposed was the great American custom.

We're sure that no one out here has any ill will for the New York fair. Mayor La Guardia probably could do more good for it by working in New York than talking in Chicago. If the World of Tomorrow is a success in the arts and sciences, why should Mr. Whalen care whether it is in the red or black? New York can afford to foster the esthetics for their own sake, with or without a fan dance.

HOW TO BUY GUNS.

The army is reported dissatisfied with its new 155 mm. field gun. This six inch weapon, weighing more than fifteen tons, is said to be too heavy for convenient movement on the roads and too wide to permit easy passage on a two lane highway.

It is scarcely astonishing that the gun has disappointed expectations. The ordnance corps of the army numbers only a few score officers. It would be remarkable, indeed, if so small an organization, inbred as it is, contained the exceptional engineering and manufacturing talent required to produce a fully satisfactory heavy field gun.

The army ought to buy its artillery the way it buys its airplanes: by specifying the physical characteristics and performance desired and inviting manufacturers everywhere to submit samples for testing. As it is, the ordnance corps does the designing, the manufacturing, and the testing. It should confine itself to testing and draw upon this country's immense store of inventive and engineering talent for the rest.

Our air service is as good as it is today because this policy has been followed in procuring equipment. The army tells the manufacturers that it wants an airplane which will be of a certain size and weight, have a maximum speed of so many miles, a radius of such and such, a given ceiling, carrying capacity and what not. Then the manufacturers put their designers to work on the problem. The air service no doubt can often supply helpful suggestions, but it does not presume to monopolize the inventive talents of the nation. The result is that it gets the kind of planes it wants. When it tests a model, pride of authorship does not confuse judgment.

The ordnance corps should follow the same practice.

BRITISH LAKE OR ITALIAN SEA?

Franco has made his brother-in-law, Serrano Suner, chief of the Spanish Fascist council. Suner is an axis man. He wants to give Spain the complete Fascist organization, which is repugnant to the army high command and to most of the people. He also wants to join Italy and Germany in a military alliance. Apparently Franco is siding with him.

Gen. Liddell Hart, British military authority, says: "A friendly Spain is desirable, a neutral Spain is vital." A Fascist Spain tied to Italy and Germany will not be neutral, and that means, in Gen. Hart's opinion, that Gibraltar is lost. It would be untenable as a naval base. "The anchorage there is narrow, as the sea floor shelves sharply and could not be used by our ships if it was under fire from hostile guns on the Spanish shore."

The bottle neck into the Mediterranean would be closed and, more than that, Britain's alternative route around the Cape could be raided from bases from the coast of Spain and the Canary Islands.

The Mediterranean as a British lake is now a much vexed sea. The long possession of it by England has been a masterpiece of force, intrigue, and watchful diplomacy. Although that diplomacy seems to be failing now in Spanish affairs, it has been at its old time best at the other end. In recent dark months for the empire communications and the empire itself there was a flash of the old time genius in the east when Mr. Chamberlain hooked up Turkey and Greece as subsidized allies and gained not only their friendship and assistance but their ports. Thus he countered to the Italian and German threat from Spain and the Balearic Islands.

Turkey resumed its modern traditional position of being a servant of British interests in the Mediterranean approaches to the far east. When the Turk was the sick man of Europe Great Britain was his doctor for a good round fee. The British fleet kept the Russians out of Constantinople and the British government picked up the island of Corfu. For a while Britain sustained the sick Turk as the suzerain of Egypt. That was the way to control the Egyptians. When Turkey went German the world war was prolonged by an incalculable period. That is now remedied, but the western end of this British lake is in the hands of the enemy, so far as yet appears.

Italy, with admited justice, can say that nothing in international morality deprives it of dominance in its own waters. Britain's only answer to that is bigger guns and more of them, the retention and defense of the island bases, and the continued hold on Gibraltar as well as on Turkey and Greece. Probably neither the British banker nor the British diplomat has said his last word yet in Spain. The Rock and the navy defer to the activities and superior influence of the very talented gentlemen who still handle the money and the treaties.

ONE PRECEDENT AFTER ANOTHER.

The letter to the department of agriculture employés soliciting their contributions to the Franklin D. Roosevelt library fund says that a "precedent in our national history was set on Dec. 10, 1938." That was the date of Mr. Roosevelt's decision to give twelve acres of his Hyde Park estate if the people would raise several hundred thousand dollars for a library building and if congress would undertake perpetual upkeep.

The agricultural department employés were told that arrangements had been made to clear their contributions through the department—Room 202 Administration building—to which the checks should be sent. The collection to be housed in the memorial building will include the employés are informed, thirty-seven ship models, some of them, no doubt, models of the old Spanish gold carriers.

Pecuniary precedents multiply in the present regimé. The boys who made hay in the Harding administration had not thought of one of them.

Editorial of the Day

PLEA FOR SELF-RELIANCE.

[Bucyrus (O.) Telegraph-Forum.]

Revival of the Bucyrus swimming pool issue solicits serious consideration on the part of the people who would have to pay both sides of the bill. The issue was again brought before city council last Tuesday night by Councilman Walter Michael, who acted in good faith and in line with popular demand, but there is more to be considered than the mere addition of a swimming pool to the city's recreational facilities.

The matter was given to council's park committee for further consideration. If the committee reports favorably to the plan a bond issue will be floated at the November election. It is a foregone conclusion that such a bond issue would be for only the city's share of the expense, which a year ago was estimated at $25,000, the amount of a similar bond issue which failed to receive 65 per cent of the total vote.

If Bucyrus runs to Washington for $50,000, or whatever amount would be asked from that source for construction of a swimming pool, then Bucyrus is doing no more than adding to the injury which has already been heaped upon the people of this country for generations to come. Bucyrus is in the hands of a Republican administration today, an administration which, by its political setup, is opposed to the New Deal. It would be most inconsistent for a Republican administration to ask Washington for money and then politically fight Washington for spending so much money and creating such a debt.

For six years it has been declared in this and probably every other American community that "we might as well get ours: if we don't some other community will." This has been true. That is why we have today a 40 billion dollar indebtedness against our unborn generations. The limit has been reached. It is time for communities to take hold of themselves and begin plugging for improvements as communities plugged for improvements for 150 years before a gang of spenders cloaked as Santa Clauses moved into Washington.

Why can't Bucyrus return to that era of independence and community spirit, get a swimming pool and pay for it without kissing the feet of a gang of politicians? What was done for 150 years can be done again if we have not sacrificed our last spark of resourcefulness and independence to the new theory which has been operating in the country for six years, and without success.

IN PRAISE OF WEEDS.

If we were a botanist with a taste for literature, we would fill a vacant place on the shelves that groan with nature writings with a graceful and learned essay entitled "Flora of a Vacant Lot. Moreover, we would select a site for our study that is weak in the common wild flowers of city life, such as bouncing Bet and brown eyed Susan, and strong in the coarser and more hated forms of weeds.

"Things rank and gross in nature possess it merely," as Hamlet says.

What are these plants that flourish among the tin cans, the broken whisky bottles, and the softball players, defying drouth and frost and the trampling feet of schoolboys on vacation? We have been seeing them, brushing through them, wondering at their furious vitality, for many years, without knowing the names of more than a few. We can identify the ragweed, because of its medical fame, and the poison ivy, because of its vicious disposition, and the pleasant little shepherd's purse, from a few high school lessons in botany. The mullein we know, too, from some accident of childhood instruction; and any one, of course, can put the finger on a thistle. But most of the others are mysteries to us, and although gardeners view them with malignance, we have an affection for them as a familiar part of our environment.

In the vacant lot around which we walk our dog, these vigorous children of nature's slums have been hacked with scythes, massacred with mowing machines, and crushed by parking automobiles all summer. Nevertheless, they rise triumphant over their enemies; here and there they stand shoulder high, giving their pollen to the winds, the birds, and the insects in a riot of fertility. Stout fellows, these weeds; they can take it. They remind us of the nameless legions of democracy.

BOY AND THORN.

(See the ancient Greek statue, "Boy Extracting Thorn," in the Art institute.)

Through meadows of what morning filled with joy,
Across forgotten fields where butterflies
Are yellow clouds and urgent bees devise
A honey sweet as golden youth, O, Boy,
How have you run in rapture since the morn,
Pausing but briefly for the ardent noon;
How chanced you, shouting pæans, all so soon
Upon the sharp impeding, traitor thorn?

Now for a little motionless, intent
Upon this thorn, you do not dream that pain
Thus often breaks the pattern of our days,
But in your heart the drums of merriment
Beat an impatient measure till, again,
Your feet shall race with time down trackless ways.

The Mayor and the Mugg Book.

Speaking of "mugg books" [Aug. 10]:

In the aftermath of the visit of Prince Henry of Prussia to Chicago a book was prepared to be sold at $100 a volume to any and all who wanted fame as having been close enough to shake the royal Prussian hand. A portrait called for another 100 "iron men." I declined the opportunity. [This was an old family custom.] The result: About ten lines buried almost out of sight were given to the prince's official host, who had placed on the reception committee each and every one of the prominent citizens who received pages of writeups and portraits in the really sumptuous volume.

The Gags of Nat Goodwin.

Old timers will never forget Nat C. Goodwin, famous comedian and wit at Hooley's theater [later Powers'], in such plays as "A Gilded Fool," "An American Citizen," "A Gold Mine," and "The Nominee." In the first act of "A Gilded Fool," he played a ten minute scene off stage [supposedly taking a bath].

He was notorious for forgetting his lines and "ad libbing." In a performance of "An American Citizen," a young actor gasped aside to him, "Please, Mr. Goodwin, what is my next line?" Goodwin's reply was, "Johnny, I don't even know my own next line. You and I better go into a dance!"

While the divorce suit of Edna Goodrich, his fourth wife, was pending, Goodwin, walking down Broadway with a friend, stopped and pointed to an electric sign in Times Square. "Look," he said. "She's advertising it!" The sign read, "Goodrich Tires." Nat Wharton.

GYPSY WISDOM.

The purple dusk lay latticelike
Across the day's gray slate;
I met a gypsy on the hill
Who asked to read my fate.

"No silver and no gold is yours,
No glowing fame, no ships at sea,
No wealthy prince, no life of ease—
In small delights your joy will be."

I pondered then the gypsy sage;
The way seemed not as far,
And lifting up my face, content,
I saw the evening star.

Daniel and the Law of Evidence.

Your mention [Aug. 5] of Susanna and the Elders recalls that the prophet Daniel set a precedent about the separation of witnesses in that trial which has been followed practically ever since and is now one of the general principles in the law of evidence. And another thing about Daniel: he might be called the first vegetarian, as he refused the dainties and wine prescribed by King Nebuchadnezzar and asked for a diet of pulse and water. HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE AND "NERVES."

DESPITE the pessimistic attitude of many physicians, much can be done to aid the one who is afflicted with a blood pressure higher than normal. It has been said that one out of every six adults will exhibit the symptom at some time. As long as we persist in worrying and fussing fruitlessly we may anticipate this situation. More relaxation—relieving the pound on blood vessels—will be obtained if we will take numerous short vacations instead of a single interval, no matter how prolonged.

The stability of any business—as a going concern — is determined by the health of its executive staff—those who plan and decide. It is a good rule to work hard, even intensively, during the active hours of the day, but to forget all cares with the coming of repose. Taking one's affairs to bed burns up energy and in the long run warps judgment. Recuperation must be adequate if we expect to think clearly.

But what has this to do with high blood pressure? Merely that we cannot decry the profound influence of the nervous system upon hypertension. Let us assume that the force within the arteries is greater than it should be. The job of the physician is, first, to persuade his patient to adopt a sensible program of labor, play, and quiet, with the least possible wear and tear; second, to cooperate in the removal of infections wherever found; and third, to spare the kidneys every possible overload. If these have been accomplished we have done all we can to stay further stiffening of the arterial walls.

No one factor is quite so important as rest. Lying down for from thirty minutes to an hour after the noon meal may alter the picture substantially. Nine or ten hours in bed, even if slumber does not occupy the entire time, is highly desirable.

Diet exerts some control, but not to the extent that has been claimed. Certain measures, however, may be helpful, such as eating less rather than more, and omitting common salt at the table or reducing the quantity used [potassium chloride makes a reasonably satisfactory substitute]. We scarcely can place too much emphasis upon avoiding overweight. With a loss of twenty to thirty pounds, which can be accomplished in a year without much effort, many an obese person will arrive at a comfortable level, with no further damage to the circulation. Nor must we overlook the rôle played by tea, coffee, and tobacco. While the latter may be stopped entirely, for a time at least, it is necessary only to curtail—not eliminate—the daily consumption of caffeine.

It is far wiser to use these hygienic measures than to resort to drugs. For example, nitrates and nitrites have a lowering action, due to their power to dilate the vessels within the skin. But the effect is fleeting—it wears off in a few hours.

Within recent years many attempts have been made to interrupt the sympathetic nerve impulses by means of surgery. The severing of certain of these trunks as they emerge from the spinal cord is not a dangerous operation in skilled hands, but even this procedure may not help every one.

We long to maintain normal readings because we wish to preserve the functions of the kidneys and the heart. Both organs are bound to suffer if subjected to undue exertion for a considerable period. A boiler rated to carry 100 pounds of steam may operate for a while at 200, but presently a rivet will give way. Each of us encounters excess strains at times, but we usually make up for these episodes with a corresponding "letdown." Like the capacity of the boiler, the power of the body is limited.

Having established a régime as hygienic and practicable as possible, the thing to do is to forget about arteries, heart, and kidneys. Nature is able to make many adjustments, and dismissing the matter from one's mind may, in and of itself, be most beneficial. If your physician advises you that your systolic level is 170 or even higher, do not race back to his office every week for a recheck. The elimination of two or three worthy but nonessential tasks may be all that is needed.

CHILD REFUSES MEAT.

L. D. writes: I have a 3 year old daughter who is a poor eater. She refuses meat entirely. Should I feed her meat juice or should I force her to eat meat? Her elimination is poor. If she goes without a laxative for any length of time her stomach gets sour.

REPLY.

Put a small portion of meat on her plate whenever it is served at the family dinner table. If she doesn't eat it, say nothing about it. Don't let her know that her habit bothers you. If possible, let her sit at mealtime with other children who use meat. But please don't give her a laxative regularly. Feed her more vegetables and fruits, and establish a "habit time."

INFANTILE PARALYSIS.

C. L. writes:

1. What are the symptoms of infantile paralysis?
2. Is it communicable?
3. Have vaccines been developed to combat it?

REPLY.

1. At first the malady may simulate a cold although some attacks appear suddenly with vomiting, headache, and fever. Paralysis may appear in from 12 to 36 hours.
2. Yes. In the acute stage, secretions from the nose or throat may spread the infection.
3. No preventive treatment is known. The use of convalescent serum in the very early stages—before paralysis has set in—may be of value.

A STRAP MAY HELP.

M. G. writes: Can something be done about a person's snoring? Is it a natural function of the body?

REPLY.

Snoring is rarely an indication of disease. It is merely a bad habit. Most experts sleep with the mouth open, breathing partly through the nose and partly through the oral cavity. As a result, the soft palate vibrates—hence the roar. A strap which passes over the head and holds up the lower jaw will be helpful.

CAUSES OF FATIGUE.

F. K. writes: What makes a person feel tired all the time?

REPLY.

The commonest causes are improper food and insufficient rest and sleep. Some disease may be responsible, such as tuberculosis. A careful physical check-up is advised.

MORSE HAD THE IDEA.

Knoxville, Tenn., Aug. 9.—On reading your interesting editorial about the new way of placing rural telephone wires underground with a sort of "plow," I wonder if it is generally known that Morse tried the same method about a hundred years ago in his efforts to lay the first telegraph wires. In fact, he spent all but $5,000 of the appropriation congress gave him in his futile attempt to place the wire underground. Presumably technical construction was not then equal to the task of devising a successful plow or of insulating the wire. Morse was driven by necessity to place the wires on poles, a plan which he had rejected at first because he feared the destructive activities of vandals.

If the inventor had succeeded entirely in his original plans we might have been spared the forests of poles and tangles of wire that have so long added to the characteristics, if not the beauty, of American landscapes. IRA STINEMAN.

WILL HIS HEAD SWELL NOW?

Chicago, Aug. 8.—I buy THE TRIBUNE about 9:30 a. m. with all the latest news. I first look at the news summary to see if by chance the Japanese haven't received a swift kick in the pants on one of their several fronts. Retiring to my quarters, I scan the Wake and Voice columns to see if I can find my name. If I do I noturally feel a justifiable pride. If I have my hat on I immediately take it off to keep it from getting out of shape.

I then turn to the pictures on the back page, then see how Smitty, Moon Mullins, Terry and the Pirates, Willie and Winnie Winkle, and the Gasoline Alley folk are getting along. Then to the erudite editorials on everything from "Goldfish and Turtles" to "What's the Matter with Business."

Next the sport section. I separate every sheet from the rest of the paper, reading it entirely, and then throwing it on the floor. I get a great kick out of this. There is nobody to stop me. It is one of the few prerogatives of the bachelor. The Gaar Williams cartoons never grow old. I always work the cross word puzzle. The reading of a paper may be likened to the eating of a meal. Eat the meat and throw the bones away.

PRINCE WARREN.

A CLOAK FOR REGIMENTATION.

Osakis, Minn., Aug. 10.—The second line of defense for the New Deal is to argue that we should accept its humanitarian objectives and just reject its regimentative methods. The fallacy of this argument is that "objectives" and "methods" are mixed up. The New Deal objectives, as judged by actions which speak louder than words, are regimentation; while humanitarian appeals constitute the methods by which regimentation is to be achieved.

Even some Republicans have been tumbling into the pitfall of taking the New Deal announced intentions at their face value. Such a commitment is entirely uncalled for. Indeed, it is a capitulation. Humanitarianism is still the cloak for new lines of socialistic advance.

SENDING THE OTHER FELLOW.

Chicago, Aug. 7.—This morning's TRIBUNE carried a letter to the effect that our country is cowardly and that the writer of the letter is all for sending our boys over to teach Japan a lesson.

It is interesting to note that these persons who are infected with this patriotic fervor almost invariably advocate sending the other fellow. W.

SPIKE TO PREVENT SLIPPING.

Chicago, Aug. 9.—In reply to Emma Carlson's letter about the danger of slippery streets may I say that such a contrivance has been invented. It is a small spike fastened to the instep side of the heel of the shoe or galosh, which is hinged so that when not needed it may be folded back out of the way. My mother, who is fond of walking and who is deathly afraid of falling on the icy pavements, has found them a godsend. I believe that any shoe repair man will put them on. LEILA T. BOSTWICK.

Chicago, Aug. 9.—I agree 100 per cent with Emma Carlson's letter: Why doesn't some wide awake manufacturer invent something to attach to shoe soles to eliminate slipping?

In four years I have had two bad falls, fracturing an ankle one time and "busting" my head the other time.

I know plenty of people who are in constant fear of falling on slippery sidewalks. MRS. CATHERINE JACOBS,
A Daily Reader.

WANT RETUEN TO HUNGARY.

Chicago, Aug. 9.—In Monday's paper your comment under "Balkan Nations Open War Games" creates an erroneous impression as regards Transylvania, "an area demanded by Hungary."

Erdely (Transylvania), stolen by the marauding Rumanians [see American Gen. H. H. Bandholtz's book, "An Undiplomatic Diary"] and now under Rumanian oppression, rightfully is an integral part of 1,000 year old democratic Hungary. It was never a part of Rumania, which consists of only Moldavia and Wallachia. Erdely has close to 2 million Magyars of the 5 million Hungarian citizens, who eagerly wait to return to their Hungarian motherland. It is no exaggeration to say that the time is soon to arrive. S. H.

IT MUST BE VACATION TIME.

Chicago, Aug. 10.—Fifteen courtrooms in the city hall are closed for the summer. I had some business one rainy morning not long ago in two courtrooms presumably open for business. One was called to order at 10:40 instead of 9:30 as scheduled, and all the cases on the double call were put over for about three months. In the other room, which was supposed to open at 9:45, no one appeared to hear the matters until 11.

LOUIS NEWBERGER.

BOOB JOURNALISM?

Chicago, Aug. 4.—God! Can't we have one paper in Chicago that will adhere to a sane policy in the publishing business? THE TRIBUNE has always been an excellent newspaper. But now you enter the field of "booby journalism" with an "inquiring reporter" column.

Good Lord! Your Voice of the People section is stupid enough without foisting more inanities upon some of us readers who are determined to keep out of the idiot class. Indeed, it seems that not all the blockheads are drawing federal pay. Some answer "inquiring reporter" questions.

Let the other Chicago papers carry this trash, TRIBUNE, and please "stay as sweet as you are." Your questions are silly—the answers are silly!

I could tell you how to turn this column into something constructive and interesting with practically no change.

MRS. ANN BROWN.

FINDS N. Y. FAIR WONDERFUL.

Chicago, Aug. 8.—I have just returned from the New York World's Fair and I found it far beyond my expectations.

Rumors I had heard here before I went east were most unfair. The prices of meals were very reasonable and no higher than restaurants here. They have delicious luncheons or dinners at most any price you desire.

The exhibits were wonderful. The fountain display in the evening, which is a combination of fountains, lights, fireworks, and music, is beyond description as well as free.

Transportation is excellent; fares starting at 10c and buses will take you all over and announce the stops. The amusement area seems to be the only place where the visitor is inclined to be extravagant—hence the rumor!

DOROTHY POTEL.

MR. WALLACE AND THE COTTON.

Chicago, Aug. 9.—The administration now proposes to sell the so-called surplus cotton to foreign countries at the world price with an export bounty of $7.50 a bale. Remember, this cotton cost the government millions of dollars over the domestic market price when it was acquired to help out the plantation owners.

President Roosevelt says one-third of the people are ill clad. No wonder!

TAX INDICTMENT BATTLE MAPPED BY ANNENBERG

Publisher and Three Aids Accused by Jury.

M. L. Annenberg, wealthy Philadelphia publisher and New Deal critic, will surrender here next week on an indictment charging him with evading income taxes of $3,258,809.

The indictment was returned yesterday by a federal grand jury which has been investigating Annenberg's income taxes since June 5. In addition to the publisher, it named his son, Walter, and Arnold W. Kruse and Joseph Hafner, both of Chicago, officials of the Cecelia company. The Cecelia company is the top holding company for the Annenberg enterprises.

The indictment contained ten counts and accused Annenberg of failing to pay the $3,258,809 in taxes plus $1,629,406 in penalties and $660,169 in interest—a total of $5,548,384.

Surprise, Says Annenberg.

Annenberg was in Philadelphia when the indictment was returned. A statement by him was issued here through his counsel, Weymouth Kirkland.

"The return of the indictment has taken me by surprise," it said. "I have not seen the indictment and am not yet advised of its content. From what I know of the facts I did not believe that the grand jury, no matter how long it sat or how intensively it investigated, could find that my associates or myself had committed any wrong. I appreciate, however, that a grand jury investigation is a one-sided investigation.

"We will have an opportunity to present our side at the trial. I have complete confidence in our courts and knowing that I never intended to deprive the government of taxes, I do not fear the outcome of proceedings against me. I ask only that the public reserve judgment until all of the facts are known. Indeed, in view of the publicity which has been given this matter, I welcome the opportunity to have the whole matter presented to a court and jury so that the public may learn the true facts.

Regrets Charge Against Son.

"For myself I am not so much concerned. I regret keenly that the government has found it necessary to place the blot of an indictment on the name of my son Walter, who never has been in a position to and could not possibly have any knowledge of any matters whatsoever pertaining to taxes. I likewise regret the indictment of my associates, who, I am certain, had no intention whatever of violating the law."

The charges were the product of the June federal grand jury continued as a special grand jury. The July grand jury will continue its investigation of alleged monopoly phases of Annenberg's activities. William J. Campbell, United States attorney, said the June grand jury may return additional indictments against the publisher. Campbell said he had been informed Annenberg would waive removal proceedings and surrender prepared to fight in court the charges in yesterday's indictment.

The indictment charged that the tax underpayments occurred during the years 1932 through 1936, inclusive. The government alleged that Annenberg's net income during this period was $6,246,523. Annenberg's figures placed it at $1,175,117.

The following table shows the contrasting figures on Annenberg's gross and net income, as set forth by Annenberg and by the government:

GROSS INCOME.

	Annenberg.	Government.
1932	$ 28,257.23	$ 610,690.76
1933	65,602.89	739,196.05
1934	194,450.17	1,416,031.17
1935	195,648.81	1,208,453.26
1936	735,805.75	2,316,799.47
	$1,219,764.85	$6,291,170.71

NET INCOME.

	Annenberg.	Government.
1932	$ 17,768.53	$ 600,202.06
1933	55,158.93	728,752.09
1934	188,691.72	1,410,272.72
1935	181,857.22	1,194,661.67
1936	731,640.75	2,312,634.47
	$1,175,117.15	$6,246,523.01

Bond of $100,000 was set for the publisher and that of the other defendants was placed at $25,000 each. Conviction would carry a maximum penalty of five years' imprisonment and $10,000 fine on each count.

Annenberg, publisher of the Philadelphia Inquirer, incurred the enmity of the New Deal during Pennsylvania's bitter political campaign of 1938. He supported the Republican ticket and was instrumental in deposing the "little new deal" of Senator Joseph F. Guffey and Gov. George H. Earle. His publicizing of charges of graft involving Guffey and Earle led to two indictments charging him with criminal libel. The indictments were nolle prossed after the election. In addition to his newspaper interests, Annenberg publishes magazines and operates race information services.

During the nine weeks the June special jury heard the income tax phases of the Annenberg case 227 witnesses testified and 11,747 pages of testimony were taken. A special corps of assistant attorneys general was sent here from Washington, D. C., to bolster the district attorney's staff. Fifty auditors were employed throughout the inquiry preparing analyses of Annenberg's business activities.

Judge Wilkerson yesterday ordered Attorney William M. Keeley, former counsel for Annenberg, to turn over to the grand jury a will and copies of a trust agreement he prepared for Annenberg in 1934. The grand jury last Thursday accused Keeley of refusing to produce the documents. He held that they were privileged and represented a confidential relationship of an attorney and his client, but Judge Wilkerson's opinion overruled this contention.

JURY TO START SKIDMORE TAX INQUIRY MONDAY

William J. Campbell, United States attorney, said yesterday that a federal grand jury investigation will begin Monday into income tax payments of William R. [Billy] Skidmore, reputed Chicago gambling overlord.

"There will be some very interesting and colorful charges in this inquiry," said Campbell.

Campbell previously indicated that the inquiry would involve persons in official life in Chicago. More than a score of subpena were issued yesterday for witnesses in the Skidmore case. Last February the government placed liens against Skidmore's property after filing an assessment for a claim of $220,106 in taxes, interest, and penalties. Skidmore owns an estate in McHenry county and operates a junk business at 2840 South Kedzie avenue.

DYING SWORDFISH ATTACKS SKIFF; ALMOST SINKS IT

San Diego, Cal., Aug. 11 (AP).—A story of a 400 pound swordfish that torpedoed a fisherman's skiff and cut an eight inch hole below the water line was brought to port today by the crew of the fishing boat Bearcat I. Napoleon Ruiz, skipper of the Bearcat, harpooned the swordfish and Pete Roya put out in a skiff to pick it up. As he came alongside, the fish lunged repeatedly at the frail craft, ripping its sword deep into the planking, the fisherman said. The skiff, in water swarming with hammerhead sharks, was filling rapidly when the crew of the Bearcat finally got in position to haul Roya, skiff, and swordfish aboard.

HAILS WISCONSIN ECONOMY TREND UNDER GOV. HEIL

Goodland Gives a Review of Accomplishments.

Madison, Wis., Aug. 11 [Special].—Lieut. Gov. Walter S. Goodland presented facts in a radio talk tonight to show that the Heil administration has stopped and turned backward, for the first time in many years, the trend toward higher costs of state government.

Striking at charges that the administration has no program, Goodland told of legislation already enacted to effect economy and greater efficiency and to break up the political machine "which has had control of the state government for so many years."

Goodland's address was broadcast over WTMJ, Milwaukee, with eleven other Wisconsin radio stations taking electrical transcriptions for later broadcasts.

Assails Pay Roll Machine.

"The administration's objectives, which already have been partly accomplished, will be further promoted and worked out by the governor after the legislature adjourns," Goodland asserted. "This administration proposes, so far as it is possible, to wrest control of the various state departments from the politicians who have fattened for so many years at the expense of the taxpayers.

"The purpose and aim of these politicians has been to enlarge and expand, regardless of the cost, so that an all-powerful machine would result. This administration proposes to replace these politicians with capable men and women who are sincerely interested in economy and efficiency and who will honestly strive to lessen the tax burden of the people.

"This is plain talk. The politicians will be shocked by it, but, if I am not mistaken, the hard pressed citizens of Wisconsin will indorse it. Let me state, however, that no essential, faithful, and competent official will be disturbed in his employment.

Economy Figures Given.

"Now let me point out that there have been material reductions already made in the administrative costs of the state government. The last administration, for the years 1937 to 1939, made total legislative appropriations of $74,227,529. The present administration's total for the years 1939 to 1941 is $73,363,119. The latter figure includes $4,000,000 for relief and $1,000,000 for Bang's disease control. The previous administration provided only $3,750,000 for relief and nothing for Bang's disease.

"There has been effected a saving of $1,304,340 in the administrative costs of the state over the previous administration. This will be still further increased before the present biennium ends. The total administrative costs for boards, commissions, and bureaus for the present biennium is $9,764,740. This represents a saving of nearly 12 per cent on these costs.

"It seems to me that this in itself is an achievement worthy of your approval. At any rate it is the first time in many years that there has been a reduction in administrative costs."

Wins Support Order

[Acme Photo.]

MRS. EVELYN B. DE HAVEN.

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 11 [Special].—Carter de Haven, middle aged former vaudeville headliner, must pay his second wife, Mrs. Evelyn B. de Haven, $100 per month as alimony and support if he wishes to have a judicial smile in the court of domestic relations.

This was decided after the wife, known as an actress under the name of Betty Byrd, asked Superior Judge Benjamin J. Scheinman for temporary alimony and support of the couple's child, David de Haven, 8 years old, pending her suit for divorce.

While he may have earned thousands of dollars not more than a few years ago as a vaudeville headliner, de Haven yesterday sought to convince the court that his net monthly income is about $243.50 as a Palm Springs real estate salesman.

SALVAGE FLEET HOPES TO RAISE SQUALUS TODAY

Portsmouth, N. H., Aug. 11 (AP).—A navy salvage fleet swung at anchor above the submarine Squalus tonight awaiting tomorrow's dawn for a second attempt to lift the sunken vessel from the ocean mud.

Six pontoons tugged gently at the Squalus' stern and four pulled at chains and cables looped beneath her bow. Divers made their last inspection of the air lines today and gave final approval. The salvagers began pumping air into the lifting pontoons shortly after dark tonight to give each a slight buoyancy before the final operations begin. The pumps also freed one of the submarine's ballast tanks of water.

The word to begin lifting operations depended largely upon the weather. The seas were smooth and the forecast for tomorrow was continued fair, with southeast winds.

The salvagers lifted the submarine from the ocean floor on July 13, but after a momentary appearance above the surface the $4,000,000 craft shook off her pontoons and plunged again to the bottom. The submarine sank on May 23 with twenty-six victims whose bodies still are aboard.

NEW MOVIE TO HONOR LONG BATTLE WAGED TO CONQUER SYPHILIS

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 11, [Special].—Warner Brothers studio announced today a decision to make a movie which was inspired by the fight against syphilis waged by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and the New York News.

Edward G. Robinson.

"The staff at Warners hopes to make the picture a major offering of 1939 and one that will parallel THE TRIBUNE'S own success in bringing the country to arms against the germs that annually waste so much American wealth and vitality," a communication from the studio stated.

Edward G. Robinson will play the lead as Dr. Paul Ehrlich, noted Silesian bacteriologist who discovered a syphilis specific. The title, "Test No. 606," was taken from Ehrlich's experience. He made 605 attempts to find a compound that would cure the scourge before his 606th experiment was successful in 1910.

438 OLD STANDS ORDERED DOWN IN MAXWELL ST.

Dr. Henry J. Wieland, superintendent of the city bureau of compensation, yesterday ordered 438 dilapidated stands in Maxwell street's four and a half block shopping district torn down. The famous old world bazaar is to be modernized.

The old stands are to be replaced with new stands conforming to specifications adopted by the Maxwell Street Merchants' association. Each new stand will cost the individual merchant $35, but through special arrangements with the association payment will be permitted on a time basis.

Dr. Wieland directed Henry Minsky, superintendent of the shopping district, to require that the new stands be completed by Sept. 1. Wherever merchants refuse to comply with the order, Wieland warned, the bureau of streets will remove the old structures.

N. Y. WILL GREET MISS BRITAIN OF MUSIC FESTIVAL

Singer Arrives Thursday for Chicago Event.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 11.—British officialdom in New York City and a large welcoming party will turn out next Thursday to give a rousing greeting to Marjorie Farrage, the young English soprano who will be acclaimed Miss Britain at the Chicagoland Music festival.

Miss Farrage will arrive aboard the Pan-American flying boat Dixie Clipper. After resting overnight she will fly to Chicago Friday and sing for the throngs at Soldiers' field next Saturday night.

Homeward bound the following Tuesday, Aug. 22, Miss Farrage will be feted as the guest of honor at the British pavilion on the New York World's Fair grounds. The following day she will sail on the liner Manhattan for England.

British Officials Head List.

George W. Baldock, deputy commissioner general of Great Britain at the world's fair, and J. P. Gibbon, secretary of the British empire chamber of commerce, will head the list of dignitaries here who will greet Miss Farrage when she sets foot for the first time in her life on American soil at Port Washington, the Pan-American seaplane base. The British consul general's office is expected to send a representative.

Miss Farrage will be whisked to the Waldorf-Astoria, where a suite has been reserved for her. The next morning she will take an American Air Lines plane for Chicago, where a gala welcome awaits her.

A whirlwind round of entertainment is being planned for Miss Farrage's stopover here on her way back to England. She will arrive on Tuesday morning and will go to the world's fair in the forenoon.

Tour of Fair Planned.

Sir Louis Beale, British commissioner general, will receive Miss Farrage and conduct her through the English exhibits and those of the other nations linked in the empire. A reception will be held and tea will be served.

Sir Louis announced Miss Farrage would be asked to sign her name in the pavilion book of distinguished visitors. The signature of the 21 year old girl will appear not far from those of King George VI. and Queen Elizabeth of England.

In the afternoon and evening Miss Farrage will be taken on a tour of the other buildings and attractions at the exposition. She will board the Manhattan for home at noon the following day.

Miss Farrage, a bank clerk living in Darlington, England, was selected as Miss Britain by judges for the London Daily Sketch, the newspaper which coöperated with THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE in searching through the British Isles for the best amateur voice.

CITY ASKS COURT ACT ON FREIGHT TUNNEL CHANGES

The Chicago Tunnel company will be required to obtain a court order directing the city to pay for reconstruction of parts of the freight tunnel system made necessary by subway tunneling, Mayor Kelly said yesterday.

Under the tunnel company's contract with the city, made in 1932, the city agreed to pay up to $700,000 for changes on account of subway construction. It is estimated that the actual amount required will be $605,000.

The mayor explained, however, that the council has refused to provide the money on the ground that the company already has violated the contract. Ald. John S. Boyle [16th], who has led the opposition, asserted that the company in leasing the city-owned tunnel was authorized only to carry merchandise, and that it violated its contract by piping steam through the underground tubes.

$150,000 CAVERLY ESTATE LEFT TO KIN AND CHARITY

The will of Judge John R. Caverly, of the Circuit court, disposing of an estate estimated at $150,000, was filed yesterday with Frank Lyman, clerk of the Probate court. Judge Caverly died on Aug. 4 in Bermuda, at the age of 78.

A sister, Mrs. Margaret Maloney, of 1440 Arthur avenue, is the principal beneficiary, receiving a specific bequest of $10,000 and the residuary estate after gifts to relatives, friends and various Catholic charities, totaling approximately $100,000 have been deducted.

The First National Bank of Chicago and its vice president, James G. Gleason, a relative by marriage of Judge Caverly, were named co-executors.

2 BURNED IN FIRE ON CRUISER, BUT LEAP TO SAFETY

Erich Haehnel, president of the Hammond Pure Ice and Coal company, and his bookkeeper, Miss Marie Knoerzer, were burned painfully last night when Haehnel's cabin cruiser caught fire as they were leaving the dock in the Calumet river near the 130th street bridge. Both jumped into the river and were rescued by nearby boatmen. They were taken to St. Margaret's hospital, Hammond. Haehnel lives at 38 Kenwood avenue, Hammond. Miss Knoerzer lives at 230 Wildwood road, Hammond. The cruiser was gutted by the flames. The cause of the fire was not determined.

85 LARGE MUSIC GROUPS TO JOIN IN MUSIC FESTIVAL

The greatest number of bands, drum corps, and choruses in the history of the Chicagoland Music Festival will take part when this year's festival is held next Saturday night in Soldiers' field. This was disclosed last night when the books were closed on entries.

Eighty-five organizations from more than fifty cities in the middle west, the east, and Canada will send a total of 3,779 men, women, boys, and girls for the thirty-six bands, forty-three choruses, and six drum and bugle corps that will perform that night.

The largest band will be the James Whitcomb Riley High school band from South Bend, Ind., directed by P. H. Riggs, with 123 players, and the largest chorus is the Chicago Schwaebischer Saengerbund Male group, led by H. A. Rehberg, with ninety singers. The choruses coming the farthest are the Hamilton Ladies' choir, directed by Mrs. G. H. Brooks, and the Wentworth Ladies' chorus, conducted by Mrs. Lydia Llewellyn Thomas, both of Hamilton, Ont.

The band coming the longest distance is the Pennsylvania Railroad band, led by F. C. Hager, of Altoona, Pa.

All these units will appear on the field in the grand opening parade of the festival, which will include more than 8,000 participants.

ECHOES OF MANY LANDS HEARD IN FESTIVAL TRYOUT

South Side Sopranos and Bass Chosen.

From the fringes of the steel mills and from university campus, from switchboard and foundry and grocery store came young singers from the south side last night to compete for a chance to sing in the Chicagoland Music Festival.

Fifty young men and women, whose racial heritage ranges from Norwegian to Negro, took part in the south side auditions for sopranos and basses. The four winners will compete with west and north side winners in the Drake hotel Wednesday night in the Cook county finals.

Student Is Bass Winner.

Lee Hewitt, University of Chicago medical student, won first place in the bass division. He is 20, came here from St. Louis on a two year honor scholarship and lives at 5639 University avenue.

Second place went to Harry Opel, 6830 Lowe avenue, a sophomore at Wilson Junior college, who directs the choir of the United Presbyterian church. Third place went to Elroy Davis, 25 years old, 6000 Prairie avenue, a millwright.

A 16 year old high school graduate, a tall blonde whose voice drew cheers from the audience at the Chicago Woman's Club theater, 72 East 11th street, won first place among eight coloratura sopranos. She is Harriet O'Rourke, 2860 East 76th street, who was graduated from Aquinas High school in June.

Harriet E. Bennett, 7038 Woodlawn avenue, 25 years old and a railroad stenographer, won second place. Ethel B. Wise, 4738 South Park way, 27 years old, won third place.

Rosemary Enright, 21 years old, 8129 South Paulina street, a student at Chicago Teachers' college, won second place. Grace Banks of 617 East 62d street, 22 years old, a hospital clerk, was third.

Rebel DePalma, 170 East 22d street, Chicago Heights, who is employed in her mother's grocery, won second place, and Inez Strome, 6200 Kenwood avenue, 22 years old and a telephone operator, was third.

CARRIE BOND 77; LOOKS FORWARD TO MUSIC FETE

Carrie Jacobs Bond, the "lyrical lady" of America, was 77 years old yesterday.

She observed her birthday in Hollywood, Cal., by slipping away into seclusion where, she said, "I can be alone with my memories," memories of the years when she composed such popular songs as "I Love You Truly," and "When You Come to the End of a Perfect Day."

Her real celebration, however, will be next Friday when she will cut the tenth anniversary cake of the Chicagoland Music festival at a festival luncheon in the Stevens hotel. The following night, as guest of honor at the festival in Soldiers' field, she will hear an audience of 100,000 sing her songs under a night sky.

"That," she said, "will be a perfect day."

Tax Order for $28,665 Entered Against Estate

A state inheritance tax order for $28,665.10 was entered yesterday in Lake County court in Waukegan by Judge Perry L. Persons against the estate of Mrs. Jennie Norton Crosby. The net estate, after debts and a federal inheritance tax of $51,000, was $247,906.84. Mrs. Crosby, who was 96 years old, died a year ago in her home at 770 North Sheridan road, Lake Forest. She was the widow of Frederick W. Crosby, vice president and director of the Corn Exchange National bank.

Extend Mosquito Fight

Map showing progress of the battle of the Chicago area against mosquitoes.

Another step in the campaign to rid Chicagoland of mosquitoes was taken yesterday when the Lake county board of supervisors appropriated $600 for a preliminary survey of breeding areas in that county. Cook county has allocated $2,000 and Du Page county $500 for similar purposes. The three counties are represented in the tri-county abatement committee, which was formed last May.

The Works Progress administration will be asked to provide $30,844 in labor, materials, and truck rental costs for the survey. J. Lyell Clarke, sanitary engineer of the Des Plaines valley mosquito abatement district, set $3,750 as the amount to be contributed by the three counties. A total of $3,100 now has been appropriated and the remaining $650 will be provided in personnel and equipment. Clarke estimates that three months will be required to complete the survey.

ANDRUS ESTATE 9 MILLION; ONCE OVER 100 MILLION

New York, Aug. 11 [Special].—John E. Andrus, who in the boom days of the late '20s was known as one of the twelve richest men in the United States with a fortune rated in excess of 100 million dollars, left a net estate of $9,093,703 when he died Dec. 26, 1934. This was disclosed in the report of the transfer tax appraisal filed today.

Andrus had established trusts amounting to $22,000,000 in 1921 and 1922, however, on which the government sought to collect $11,468,000 in taxes on the ground that they had been made in anticipation of death.

Andrus, 93 years old when he died, was called the "millionaire strap-hanger," because his fortune never caused him to abandon the subway as a means of reaching his office from his Yonkers, N. Y. home. He placed his residuary estate in a trust from which seven children and three grandchildren receive 55 per cent of the income and the Surdna Foundation, Inc., a charitable organization, receives 45 per cent.

Congress authorized twelve naval air bases last session and appropriated $65,000,000 for their construction in the next two or three years. The navy's announcement indicated the new Pacific works would be accelerated beyond the others.

The awards were made on a cost plus fixed fee basis to a combination of Hawaiian Dredging company, Honolulu, Raymond Concrete Pile company, New York, and the Turner Construction company, New York.

RELIEF INQUIRY TRIMS ROLLS IN DOWNSTATE UNIT

After a two month investigation in Williamson county by the staf of the Illinois emergency relief commission, relief was ordered discontinued in 752 of the 1,967 cases there. A report of this investigation was presented yesterday by the commission.

It recommended that arrangements be made for periodic home investigations of all active cases. Failure to do this, the report said, left the case investigation staf without current information regarding relief needs and resources.

IERC inquiries in more than thirty downstate relief units showed that an average of 40 per cent receiving relief were not entitled to it. An investigation of all relief rolls in the state has been ordered.

In another report the commission was informed that 118 relief units which received state funds during the year ending in June exceeded the legal limit of 10 per cent of the total relief cost for administrative purposes.

New Conductor Leads Women at Grant Park

BY EDWARD BARRY.

The Woman's Symphony orchestra acquired a new guest conductor for last night's Grant park concert. Daniel Saidenberg, once principal cellist of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, now director of the Saidenberg symphonietta, led the ladies through a program which began with the Franck symphony, ranged through miscellaneous small works of Bizet, Bach, Wagner, Nicolai, Ravel, and Grainger, and ended with a Strauss waltz.

If the Franck symphony was not calculated to make a listener toss his hat in the air in his excitement, it was at least an admirable study in finely graduated dynamics, in exquisitely contoured phases, and in light, translucent colors.

The symphony was followed by as curious an encore as five years of Grant park concerts have brought forth—an orchestral arrangement of the "Toreador" song from "Carmen"! It is not meet that a layman should speculate on the reasons for so extraordinary a choice.

David Moll and Leonard Sorkin were presented in a clean, vigorous performance of the Bach concerto for two violins. One may concede the technical excellence of their work, yet reserve the right to wonder whether Bach must be played in so cold and uncompromising a way. Surely a little more nuance could be introduced without laying the artists open to the charge of sentimentality.

In the prelude to the third act of "Lohengrin" Mr. Saidenberg and the orchestra achieved a momentum in which the first part of the piece seemed to imply and demand what was to follow. It was one of those remarkable instances of an interpreter succeeding in laying bare the very architecture of the music.

Engaged

ANNE MALINDA BURNHAM.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Burnham of Winnetka yesterday announced the engagement of their daughter, Anne Malinda, to Jonathan Webster Strong, son of Mrs. Walter A. Strong, also of Winnetka. The marriage will take place in the fall.

Miss Burnham, who made her debut during the Christmas holidays in 1935, is a graduate of the North Shore Country Day school. She spent two years at Vassar and then transferred to the University of Chicago. Mr. Strong, who also was graduate from the Country Day, was graduated from Williams in 1938.

Reveal Engagement of Esther Reed Buchen.

Mr. and Mrs. Walther Buchen of Winnetka today are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Esther Reed, to René Blanc-Roos of Haverford, Pa., son of Mme. Eugenie Conrielli-Tchkorna of Haverford and Champagnole, France.

Miss Buchen's Winnetka friends will have to wait until the wedding in September to meet her fiancé, for Mr. Blanc-Roos will not be west until that time. Her Bryn Mawr college friends undoubtedly will not be surprised by the announcement, however, for Bryn Mawr and Haverford colleges are in adjoining towns, and while she has been studying at the former he has been studying and teaching at the latter.

Miss Buchen and her sister, Miss Elizabeth Buchen, were introduced to society at a tea at home in the fall of 1935, during the sophomore year of the bride-to-be at Bryn Mawr and of her sister at Pine Manor. Miss Esther spent her junior year in France and was graduated in 1938.

Club Has Gay Flower Show at Lake Geneva

BY JUDITH CASS.

GAY and charming are overworked words, but they must be used again to describe the Lake Geneva Garden club's thirty-fifth annual flower show at Horticulture hall in Lake Geneva. There is more than charm there, too, for the exhibition represents hard work on the part of the club members, witnessed by the superb collection of fruits, vegetables, dairy products, and flowers.

Once these are placed to greatest advantage the charm of the show is apparent. Then, too, gayety enters, brought partly by the pretty young girls who act as waitresses; partly by the colorful throng of visitors, and partly by the inviting tea tables spread out in the patio under a cheerful marquee.

The noticeable lack of young men was a grave oversight on their parts, a mistake which may be rectified today. It was mystifying to see many pretty and attractive young women gathered with no beaux buzzing around. The Wrigley sisters, for instance, with their beautiful curls, Dorothy a little blonder than her sister, Ada Blanche, but not so blonde as Miss Barbara White, a debutante of the season. Miss White is blonder even than Miss Jane Zimmerman, a bud of last year, who summers at the lake. Miss Zimmerman's duties yesterday were to squirt an anti-mosquito preparation about the tea tables.

Miss "Bunny" Hettler, Miss Angeline Johnson, Miss Dorothy Warner, another bud of this season, and Miss Florence Hagenaugh were others in the waitress corps. They all wore dainty organdy aprons of orange and green over snowy white frocks and were hatless as is the fashion. The fashion in hairdressing, according to these bright young things, fortunately is changing from the long, lank, "glamor girl" type of careless bob to a smarter, shorter, and more carefully turned hairdo.

Mrs. Zimmerman Wins Table Setting Prize.

Miss Zimmerman's mother, Mrs. Earle J. Zimmerman, was the heroine of the show, artistically speaking, for she won first prize in the table setting and in the breakfast tray setting. Her tray was a miracle of delicacy, combining transparent red glass plates, coffee pot, and cups with an embroidered white cloth. The tray was edged with bachelor buttons of pink and crimson. Her table was covered with a white voile cloth, appliqued in white. She used white and green china. A pair of white Chinese figures were placed toward one end. A low white china bowl with an arrangement of white zinnias, green leaves, and grasses was placed at the other.

A blue ribbon for a special entry showing great originality went to Mrs. John Eliot Warner. She arranged everything necessary for a barbecue supper, including a strange contraption on wheels called a barbecue pot over which meats may be cooked. By it stood a table loaded with white china striped in green, yellow, and red; two hurricane lamps to provide light, and large colored napkins with the word barbecue written across them.

In a basket were all of the condiments to dress up a hot dog, as well as buns, potato chips, and marshmallows.

The vegetable and fruit displays were tempting and appetizing. Gazing hungrily at the wonderful baskets of fruits were Mrs. Samuel T. Chase and Mrs. Charles W. Dempster.

At the conclusion of the show tonight all of the cut flowers, arranged so painstakingly in various competitions, will be sold. One of the prettiest of the bouquets was not arranged for competition. It stood in the center of the tea table, a great bunch of gladiolas in a big orange watering can.

Humming Bird's Nest Seen in Tree at Mill.

Well worth the 50 cents admission is a humming bird's nest filled with tiny eggs. The nest is in a tree that stands by the old mill which Mrs. Robert Tarrant and her husband erected in the main hall. The contents of the nest are visible only in a mirror which is held over it on a long stick.

The mill was constructed from worn, weather beaten boards, and water trickles over its revolving wheel. The woodland scene in connection with it was arranged by George Morse, director of Wychwood, a wild flower sanctuary which was formerly the George L. Hutchinson estate. It is a miniature of the Lake Geneva native landscape.

Daughter Born to Winston Elting.

Mr. and Mrs. Winston Elting [Marjorie Horton] are being congratulated on the birth of their second daughter on Thursday at the Passavant hospital. The baby is being named Audrey Horton. Her elder sister is Lysbet Dudley, always called Dudley, who now is nearly 3.

Victor Elting has come from New York to see his new granddaughter and is staying at his son's home in Lake Forest. Mrs. Samuel M. Rinaker and Horace B. Horton are the baby's maternal grandparents.

Miss Carolyn Currey to Be Bride Today.

At 4 o'clock this afternoon in the chapel at St. Luke's procathedral in Evanston, Miss Carolyn Currey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Young Currey of Evanston, will become the bride of Lane Ladd. The ceremony will be performed by the Rev. Gerald Moore and will be followed by a reception for the family and bridal party at the Homestead hotel.

The bride will be attended by Miss Marion Bronson, Miss Barbara Guylee, and Miss Letitia Bear. Mr. Ladd, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward R. Ladd of Evanston, will have his brother, Stephen, as best man. Buell Kenyon and Leore Sarff will be ushers.

Wrigley Daughters Assist at Flower Show

Miss Dorothy Wrigley (left) and her sister, Ada Blanche, were among those assisting at the annual flower show of the Lake Geneva Garden club yesterday. They are the daughters of the Philip K. Wrigleys. The Wrigleys have been identified with the summer colony at the resort for many years.

BY CECIL SMITH.

Awakening from its long summer period of inactivity, the Palace theater this week throws its doors open for the first bill of its new season. In this opening program "Career," in which John Archer and Alice Eden, winners of a recent "Gateway to Hollywood" contest are introduced to the public, shares the limelight with "Folies Bergère," a lavish stage spectacle imported from the San Francisco fair.

The author of "Career" is Phil Stong, who wrote the memorable "State Fair," in which Will Rogers played back in 1933. The new picture, set in much the same Iowa locale, recalls the earlier one without matching its audience interest.

The plot is somewhat confusing, for it attempts to weave together too many fragmentary ideas, and it does not have enough continuity or unity. At the beginning a narrator, aided by a series of quick shots, hands out some information about the state of Iowa—its area, its annual corn output, its hogs and poultry and dairy products. The scene shifts to a small town, and we begin to see a cross-section of the lives of several of the inhabitants.

The love interest takes the shape of a triangle, with Anne Shirley behaving like a female cad toward Mr. Archer, and finally awarding her hand to Charles Drake, who has previously hardly figured in the story at all. Just why she makes a decision that goes contrary to her own heart's desire is not quite clear. In some way it hinges upon her fear of diverting Mr. Archer's attention from his promising medical career, and also upon her alarm over her father, who will go to the penitentiary if she does not marry a rich man in order to save his unsound bank.

Miss Shirley's acting, like her rôle, is on the artificial side of things. Edward Ellis gives a strong performance as Mr. Archer's father, a man of incorruptible virtue, but fond of long, preachy speeches.

By far the best work in the film is that of Leon Errol, who contributes some extremely funny drunk episodes. Neither Mr. Archer nor Alice Eden, who plays a minor rôle, has yet developed a particularly positive personality.

The "Folies Bergère" stage show is fast, witty and divertingly costumed. A great deal of cuticle is on display, however, and one or two moments are too lewd for family consumption.

Caters to Mature Silhouette

DRESS FOR WOMEN.

The fashion needs of the mature figure are considered in this pattern. Notice that the lines are long and unbroken, in order to lend height to the wearer and thereby minimize her overweight. There are several ways to style this pattern, three of which are illustrated.

At the left, a model for either street or home. It has a V neckline trimmed with a scalloped collar edged with lace or ruffling. The cuffs on the short puffed sleeves match the collar. Buttons in trios are used all the way down the front. The waistline is marked by slantwise seams, and the effect is one of a high waist and long hipline.

Center, a similar version with long sleeves and in darker material. The buttons in this case are arranged singly.

At the right, a model with butterfly sleeves and a Peter Pan collar near the throat. This is a particularly youthful model, and one which younger women will appreciate.

Style No. 2884 is designed for 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, and 50 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 4 yards of 39 inch material, with ½ yard of contrasting for the street length version.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central station, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

The Wooded Island.

One of the easily accessible beauty spots in Chicago is the Japanese garden on wooded island in Jackson park, directly south of the Rosenwald museum, over the red bridge. Here in a Japanese tea house, or at a table under the trees or beside the lagoon, one may have tea, salad and sandwiches, watch the birds and the squirrels, and meditate on the charms of Japanese architecture.

The buildings are authentic examples, the ceremonial tea house being a reproduction of that of Baron Mitsui on his estate near Tokio and exhibited at A Century of Progress.

More About St. Anne, Ill.

Dear Miss Provines:

To one of your readers, at least, the lovely article by E. F. V. on the village of Ste. Anne de Beaupre awakened memories long laid to rest and, for a fleeting moment, revived in a rather world-weary woman the loveliness of youthful dreams, hopes, and ideals.

After reading it I closed my eyes and saw the village of Ste. Anne as I knew it too many years ago when the Sisters of the Congregation de Notre Dame conducted a "young ladies' academy" there and tried in their gentle way to cope with fifty 'teen age girls in general and one red-headed one in particular. A sleepy village of soft-spoken, brown-eyed French folk, clinging to the old world language and custom.

The beauty and awe inspiring faith of the pilgrims who journey there each year to kneel and kiss the relic of La Bonne Ste. Anne came back to me. The memory of old Pere Berard, our spiritual mentor, confessor, and very good friend. Mere Ste. Marie Aglae, my beloved music teacher. Lila Du Charme, my roommate and confidante.

Such is the power of the pen. A scratch, and for some one, somewhere, the result is a re-awakening of old dreams and memories that for a brief spell obliterate the daily grind. —Mildred.

Plain Woman Can Be Radiant and Charming

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Certain women who are really homely have a tremendous fascination and charm. What is their secret?

Often we notice they dress with unusual smartness. Their grooming is above reproach. Sometimes they accent a large mouth to make themselves more interesting. Or they concentrate on the one beautiful feature they possess—their beautiful eyes or hands, perhaps. But still none of these tricks accounts for their magnetic quality.

Let's forget them for a moment. Have you ever noticed some girl in the street, or in a crowd, smiling up at some man she obviously loves? Her face is radiant and lovely. It glows with beauty even though her features are irregular or positively plain.

Falling in love is a beauty tonic. A plain girl who is happy in a romance often blooms with great charm. She wears prettier clothes. She finds magic ways to make her hair more becoming. Even an adolescent who is merely "in love with love" changes from a tangled haired thing into a young lady who is beautifully coiffured.

The homely, fascinating woman may not be in love with any one man. But she is alive with enthusiasm. She is tremendously interested in other people. She gives out a magnetic warmth, a vitality. The doors of her personality are open. Generosity flows from her. She is tremendously attractive because she has so much to give and enjoys giving it so thoroughly.

The Stage

Ten Per Centers.

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 11.—Young Susan Hayward has been sued by a man in New York for $100,000, which he estimates will be 10 per cent of her screen earnings. The basis for his suit is that she worked for him as a professional model and got a screen contract as the result of his intercession. So he wants 10 per cent of her earnings for the balance of her career. If this suit is not a publicity stunt designed to get red-haired Susan's name in the papers, it presents several interesting angles. People always are suing other people for 10 per cent of their earnings in this business, because 10 per cent is the fee which managers demand for managing artists. That this 10 per cent amounts to a tidy total is best proved right here in Hollywood, because the 10 per centers, or agents, have the most impressive offices, the most luxurious homes, the fleetest horses, the biggest swimming pools, and the longest and widest yachts, and presumably pay the biggest income taxes.

I should be more impressed with the suit filed against Susan Hayward if I were not so well acquainted with the story of her trials and tribulations out here. For a year she was out of work, and went from studio to studio in a vain attempt to get employment. If the man in New York who now wants $100,000 can show me that he accepted 10 per cent of Susan's hunger and disappointment while she was out of work, I'll be in his corner. But I've never heard of an agent who did this. . . . A 10 per center is interested only when a performer is making money. This of course is human nature, and it is also good business, but at times it impresses you as pretty shabby business.

There are exceptions to the rule, of course, agents who actually are worth the money performers give them, but too often agents collect their 10 per cent without giving 100 per cent effort in return. Columns such as this space do more for performers day in and day out than all of the agents in the theatrical business for this reason. We take unknowns, the power of the press being what it is, and by calling attention to them, obtain movie, theatrical and radio employment. Agents never take unknowns, and it is because of this fact I never have been greatly impressed by their constructive purposes. If they built up unknowns, then I'd root for them, but they never do. They take performers who have created a demand. That hardly requires great salesmanship or resourcefulness.

Not long ago I attended a big Hollywood party. There were ten noted agents in attendance. There were perhaps fifty actors. One of the agents asked me to introduce him to one of the actors. "Our office handles his business," he explained, "but I've never met him." It was interesting to me because it indicated how huge these agents' offices and commissions have grown. The growth of the offices has so weakened the contact between manager and performer that the latter has suffered because of it. If you were an actor's agent, you could do more for him naturally if he were your only client, because you'd concentrate on him. When you are representing forty actors, the temptation is to concentrate on those who have the biggest salaries because they pay you the greatest commissions. To solve that, you hire other agents for your organization, but they rarely are as competent as the boss.

Not, mind you, that the agents always are villains in the drama, or that actors are the heroes. I know actors and actresses who have treated their agents shamefully, because ingratitude and acting seem to run hand in hand. Some of the prize ingrates of my acquaintance are performers—perhaps the stresses and vicissitudes of the profession are responsible—I wouldn't know.

This much, however, is certain: An actor should not be bound for life to a species of white slavery contract, because an individual obtained him his original opportunity. The opportunity is only the initial wedge. The performer thereafter must make good out of his own talent, his own determination, his own sacrifices. The man in New York who claims that Susan Hayward got her first opportunity while working for him as a professional model is covering too much ground, it seems to me. By the same token, his secretary, his maid and his cook would be contributing to him for life if they obtained other jobs while in his employ. That hardly seems to be a reasonable conclusion.

Christy Walsh was the greatest agent I ever knew. The success of Babe Ruth proves it. Walsh not only demanded and got the hugest salary ever paid in baseball for the Babe, but he went beyond that, and influenced Ruth's personal life. For some reason or other, managers of prize-fighters generally have collected from 33 per cent to 50 per cent of their clients' earnings. This always has appeared an exorbitant percentage, but the state athletic commissions have permitted them to get away with it. Jockeys pay 10 per cent to their business agents for arranging mounts for them, and as I've never heard jockeys squawk about it, these racetrack agents probably are worth their salt.

Actors and actresses always are protesting about their agents. By the same token, agents are always protesting about their actors and actresses. As the agents invariably have more money than their clients, and last longer, the "beefs" of the performers may be grounded in fact, or jealousy.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Getting down to cases—when you're packing for that week-end trip, slip your cleansing tissues into a silk moire case especially made for traveling. Equipped with a slide fastener that runs down the middle of the case which is the exact size of the tissues, you can transfer them from the box into the case without disturbing the convenient folding arrangement. The cases come in blue, green, black, maroon, and brown, and are rubber lined. You can toss one into your bag and find the tissues smooth and clean when you're ready to use them.

And there are toothbrush cases to match. Just large enough to hold a tube of paste and a brush. They, too, are rubber lined, have a slide fastener, and tiny perforations on each side of the case take care of ventilation. They're grand to carry in your purse, for that necessary brushing if you're faced with a series of trips to the dentist.

How many times have you wished for some extra cosmetic jars and bottles in your traveling case or to slip into a second bag? An additional set of two jars and two bottles will fill this need at small expense. The containers are of fluted glass and the covers have insets of moire in colors to match the tissue and brush cases.

Face powder should be patted on generously, allowed to set and then all excess brushed off lightly with a powder brush. A brush that caught our eye the other day is made of pale peach lambswool with the back and narrow handle of a transparent composition. In lovely shades of amber, blue, green, and in crystal, contrasting with the delicate shade of the brush, this little powder blender is a decorative essential.

SYNOPSIS.

Lee Reynolds, promoter of children's acts in the days before motion pictures, is attracted to the tenement flat of the Lichts' by the Christmas carols sung by their little daughter, Josefa. Next day he calls with his wife and persuades the Lichts to let him take Josefa into his home and train her for the stage. Two older children, Lena and Eddie, live with the Reynolds. During a stage show Eddie's voice breaks and Josefa goes to his rescue, saves the act, and becomes famous overnight. Eddie goes away to school. Josefa is billed as Sheila Doone. Lena hides her envy and hatred of Sheila by pretended friendliness.

INSTALMENT VI.

MOTION PICTURE COMPETITION.

Several years passed. Business was not so good. Even addicted vaudevillians were beginning to divide their time and money between vaudeville and a new form of entertainment called moving pictures.

Lena had suddenly changed from a little girl to a young lady. She had outgrown her usefulness to Lee Reynolds. She was too mature for the troupe. And what to do with her and for her was a problem. She danced beautifully but she had never danced her way into the public's heart and never would. Could she act? A tryout with a road company pretty well proved that she could not. In despair Lee Reynolds made some inquiries and established contacts with the strange people who were making moving pictures.

It wasn't difficult to get a job in those first gold rush days. And with deep misgivings and the hope that everything would turn out well Lee Reynolds arranged a screen test for Lena and obtained a position for her.

Lena was a minor and her mother's name had to be on the contract. Also from now on Lena would be in her mother's care.

Mrs. Chancellor Bowen was a fluffy, ineffectual, kind hearted little woman with notions of right and wrong but without the stamina to fight very long or hard for the former. She was easily flattered. She liked to hear that Lena was beautiful and that most obviously her beauty was a direct inheritance.

And because she had never had any and so couldn't possibly know what it was like she loved money. Her judgments of people resembled a somewhat vague accounting system. And the gentleman who was giving Lena so much a week and was spending so many thousands on Lena's very first picture was just as generous and self-sacrificing and disinterested as he said he was.

Lena was good. She wasn't as good as Pickford. But she thought she was. She had reason to think so. She was told so in many letters. Pickford had gotten away to a head start. That was all the difference there was between them. Lena proposed to overcome that handicap, to overtake Pickford and pass her. She never did. If she didn't it wasn't for want of trying. And it made her laugh to think that she had once been jealous of Tumbleweed Doone.

The least that any one who wrote Lena a letter asked in return was a signed photograph. She had stacks of these all ready signed. You merely had to stick one in an envelope, also provided by the studio, and address it. The most that any writer asked of Lena was marriage.

These were the happiest days of Lena's life. She and her mother changed to a better apartment and hired a servant. They had no sooner done this than the infant motion picture industry moved almost in a body to California.

She called to tell the Reynolds about this and to boast a little and show off and even to suggest a career in motion pictures for Tumbleweed.

The Reynolds were out but Sarah expected them in. Miss Sheila was upstairs practicing on the piano. Lena climbed to the familiar theater in the attic. She wore an enormous hat with feathers, a fluffy and becoming dress, a trailing sort of thing. It was some seconds before Tumbleweed recognized her. Lena was now a glamorous lady. Tumbleweed in a simple dark little dress was anything but glamorous. She was still nothing but an amiable child with nary an ax to grind in the whole world.

Lena seated herself and took the child in her lap.

"Darling," she said, "I'm going away. I've come to say good-by. But it won't be for long. When you come to Los Angeles to play the Orpheum you shall all stop with me. One day we'll have lunch together at the studio and I'll show you how motion pictures are made. Won't it be fun?

"Mr. Leica, he's the producer, has taken the dearest little bungalow for us. It's in a place called Hollywood, and it's all covered with roses. Out in California, you know, they bloom the year round. And out there, anytime you want to you can pick an orange off a tree and go swimming in the ocean even when there's snow on the mountains."

For an amateur in the business she painted a glowing picture of the southwest. If the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce had been present it would have purred like so many pussy cats.

Then Dot Reynolds was heard calling up the stair for them to come down and the panegyrics were sung once more in the overstuffed parlor.

But Lee Reynolds then began to ask questions and he wasn't an easy man to lie to. Lena told him her salary and the terms of her new contract as well as she could remember them.

"Save some of your money, Lena," he advised. "The public is a many headed monster with an equal number of hearts, all of which are fickle. Have to work pretty hard?"

Lena admitted that the work was very hard. Not the actual acting scenes, but the sitting around and waiting to act them. There was always something important that wasn't ready or that hadn't been decided. For instance, there were no regular hours so you couldn't make positive engagements with any one. You might be kept at the studio or on the location till all hours.

"Well," said Lee Reynolds, "it's like everything else. You don't get something for nothing. But on the whole you're happy. That's the main thing."

"I'm a success," said Lena. "I don't like to say it about myself, but you can't deny the box office and the fans. And so I'm happy. Success is the only thing I ever wanted. And between ourselves, Lee, I hadn't a real look-in in vaudeville. Vaudeville is all froth and nonsense. It never gets down to the real facts of life and drama."

"Well, of course, lots of people just like to laugh a little and be amused. I'm like that. But vaudeville isn't what it used to be. Maybe it will come back, maybe not. I'm free to admit that Dot and I have been toying with the idea of getting into the moving picture game. And if we only had a little capital we'd take a flyer. I've got an idea for a story with a little girl in it."

Tumbleweed listened to this conversation without in the least understanding what it was all about, or that her own destinies were in any way involved. But she enjoyed listening to the conversation of grown people, especially when she loved them, and they made the pleasant world she lived in.

The heavy door closed upon the glamorous Lena.

When Tumblewood got to be 12 she had lost her roly-polyness and the name Tumbleweed no longer suited her. She was beautiful but lanky. Her frequent falls were no longer the rolling baby tumbles that had so delighted audiences. Her star waned. It was time for the veteran to retire. It was too bad because she had been a little gold mine. But then Gyp, a freckle-nosed brat of 9, was going to be another, so Lee Reynolds could face a temporary financial setback and afford to be generous.

But what to do for Tumbleweed, or Sheila, as she must now be called, was a problem. He could, of course, turn her back to her parents, by all accounts Papa Licht was doing well, and wash his hands of her. But Lee Reynolds had his professional pride. He had prophesied great things of Sheila's future and if she didn't make good on those prophesies he would lose face.

Sheila was too young for the legitimate theater, or at the moment there was no beginner's part suitable to her years. And if Lee Reynolds knew his business she was through with vaudeville. Vaudeville itself was nothing much to cling to now, a bending reed, a flower of mirth and merriment that was being crowded into the shade by the moving pictures. Opera was out of the running. Dr. Frank Miller himself said so.

She had a sweet, clear speaking voice and the English which she had picked up was correct enough. Somehow or other she had read a good many books and had a definite leaning toward the better ones. Sometimes Richard Harding Davis, who lived next door and who loved all theatrical people, dropped in to tell her of a story in Scribner's or the Century that she ought to read or to tell Lee and Dot of a show that they ought to see.

Girl's Social Life Cramped by Oldsters

[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

After writing Sunday's article—the one appearing tomorrow, and a true story it is—a letter came to me which is so close to it [though not so extreme] in experience that I feel impelled to use it today.

"My dear Mrs. Bevans: I am a 17 year old girl with two brothers. Ever since my mother died, three years ago, my grandparents have lived with us. My father has always worked terribly hard and I have never really gotten to know him.

"It is only natural for me to want to be with girls and boys of my own age, isn't it? My best girl friend and her brother always have the girls and boys at their house—just sitting and talking, dancing to the radio, or showing each other new dance steps, and so forth. Each and every one of them can have the whole gang at their homes, except me.

"My family doesn't believe that kids of our age just dance. Why no—we pet and kiss and all that stuff and nonsense! Mrs. Bevans, that is something that never happens in our group. We have a very decent crowd.

"Since school has been out we have been gathering at my girl friend's house every night. They can all stay out until 12, except me. I have to break it up every night because I have to be home early and punch the clock. If I even stay out till 11 they make a terrible fuss.

"Just last night I came home at 12 and my grandparents say they are going to speak to my father about it. My dad's not a bad fellow when it comes to things like that, for he still is young himself. It is the way he is told that makes it sound bad. They say my friends are wild and the way they refer to boys! You would think boys were some vicious animals."

This young girl's social instincts are perfectly natural and her social contacts and activities wholesome—and she should be permitted them. Being surrounded by young people of about this age, I know whereof I speak, and this letter has the ring of sincerity.

TO BROIL THE YOUNG CHICKEN: The improved method, says Kathryn B. Niles, food and nutrition director for the Institute of American Poultry Industries and a leading authority in her field, calls for unhurried cooking in a moderate oven.

Says she: "Arrange chicken [skin side down first] in a shallow pan rather than the rack. The drippings that collect help to keep the bird moist. Also these drippings may be used to serve as pan gravy. Season the bird after it is cooked, just before arranging on the platter for service. Don't hurry the cooking. The smallest broiler should take forty-five minutes."

DOUGHNUT FANCIES: [Some of these have made a hit at the eastern fair.]

1. Crumble doughnuts and combine with chopped dates, marshmallows, nuts, and enough cream to hold the mixture together. Press into a roll, wrap in wax paper and chill. Then slice and serve alone or with whipped cream.

2. Slice a doughnut crosswise and toast the cut sides. Put together with sliced bananas, top with chocolate sirup and a dab of whipped cream. Park a faraschino cherry on the whipped cream summit.

3. Slice a doughnut crosswise, cover one half with apple sauce, add the other half, and more sauce. Top with whipped cream and a sprinkling of nutmeg.

4. This is my own idea of something good in doughnut desserts. Split a fat one and fill it with sliced, sweetened peaches. Top with whipped cream, or maybe just more peaches.

PUT A HAT ON YOUR ICED COFFEE: This makes it a super-something drink, fit for lords and ladies. Whip cream and flavor it as you like, with cinnamon and nutmeg, with grated orange rind, or with almond extract, and spoon a garnish over the top of each frosty glass.

CORNFLAKE PIE CRUST: Every one wants this recipe. Roll 4 cups corn flakes into fine crumbs with your rolling pin. Add ½ cup melted butter and ¼ cup sugar, and mix thoroughly. Press firmly over the bottom and sides of your pie plate, and chill before adding the filling. Wonderful filled with sweetened fresh fruit and whipped cream, or with a jellied chiffon fruit filling.

Take advantage of the fine supplies of homegrown vegetables offered at your grocer's. Serve plenty of vegetables and serve them in Mary Meade's "Ways With Vegetables." The booklet is on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and the Tribune Tower; or will be mailed to you for 5 cents in stamps.

This is the season when outside wrought iron work often needs some refinishing. You can give your work a dead black finish by using asphaltum paint, which is highly weather resistive. Before doing this make sure that the iron is well cleaned of rust and dirt. This can be done by rubbing with sandpaper. If rust is stubborn, soak it first with a little kerosene. Afterward remove any possible trace of oil with turpentine.

Inside wrought iron work can be cleaned and then given a couple of coats of flat drying clear lacquer. Some of the gleam of bare metal may show through but this is appropriate for indoor types. Surfaces can be waxed after lacquer has thoroughly dried. LOUISE BARGELT.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1939: By Ely Culbertson.]

"Dear Mr. Culbertson: At a recent duplicate game, the writer, playing South, came across an unusual type of three suit squeeze.

South, dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

♥ A K 10 9 5 2

WEST
♠ 9 7 6 5 4 3 2

♦ Q 10 9 8 7 5 4

SOUTH

♣ A K Q J 10 8 6

"The bidding proceeded:

South	West	North	East
2 clubs	Pass	2 hearts	Pass
3 clubs	Pass	3 hearts	Pass
4 no trump	Pass	5 diamonds	Double
5 no trump	Pass	6 diamonds	Double
7 no trump	Pass	Pass	Double
Redouble	Pass	Pass	Pass

"[North-South were using the Blackwood convention.]

"West opened the diamond deuce, obviously because of his partner's double of diamonds. Having nothing to lose, I put up dummy's jack, but East covered and I had to win in my own hand with the ace. I could count twelve sure tricks, but the only reasonable play for the thirteenth was a squeeze. From East's persistent doubling, it was fairly sure that he had the missing honors, and particularly a heart stopper. If he had to guard other suits as well, my prospects looked bright. I cashed five club tricks, my other diamond honor and my spade ace, leaving this position:

♦ None
♣ None

WEST
♠ 9 7 6
♥ Q 4

♣ None

EAST

SOUTH
♠ None
♥ 8 3
♣ 8 6

"I now led the club eight. West's discard did not matter; actually, he let go the spade six. I chucked the heart nine from dummy and East was on the spot. He could not let go the spade king without establishing dummy's ten; nor the diamond ten without promoting my diamond six. Hence he played properly to discard the heart six. I then cashed the club six and let go the spade ten. Then I entered dummy with a heart to collect the last three tricks with the ace, king and ten. Technically, East was squeezed again on my six of clubs and I could have made 14 tricks if there had been cards enough in the deck.

"Seven clubs were bid and made at one table, but defeated at another where the South player, trying for a diamond ruff in dummy, played the king of diamonds to the second trick and saw it ruffed by West.—B. G. M., New York."

My main object in publishing squeeze hands is to provide readers with "last resort" plays. I do not recommend that the average player should look for squeezes in every hand, nor, indeed, in one out of ten, but the fact remains that occasions arise in which it is obvious that ordinary methods of play cannot suffice. At such times, a working knowledge of the squeeze is invaluable. Take this case, for example. At seven no trump, South has no reasonable play for thirteen tricks except by a squeeze. The technique is not difficult once declarer grasps the salient fact that a defender cannot hold more than a given number of cards at any trick. I commend this to readers' attention as a simple type of squeeze.

Sunday Paper to Announce Party Guests

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Tribune Charities, Inc.]

There are two good reasons for you boys and girls to be wide awake when your SUNDAY TRIBUNE is delivered tomorrow morning.

Reason number one will be of particular interest to all the boys and girls who wrote in for invitations to our Jack and Jill Theater party which will take place next Thursday. One hundred youngsters will see three one-act plays presented just for our party.

The names of those children who've been selected as my guests will be printed in my column tomorrow. Personal invitations will be mailed to each of the fifty boys and fifty girls, so if your name is on the list you can be on the watch for the mailman.

Reason number two is the fact that news of our next party will be in the same column with the names of the winners. Any boy or girl is eligible to try for an invitation to this new party, and when you see what it is, I know you'll all want to come. I won't tell you any more about it today. All the information will be in your SUNDAY TRIBUNE.

Girl Too Sure of Popularity May Lose Beau

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Popular girls have their troubles, too. Lots of times the girls who have plenty of attention and proposals let Mr. Right go by. Sometimes the shy wallflower with only one suitor is happily married and the mother of children, while her more dashing sister is heading for spinsterhood.

Take Leila.

She is a girl who laughed at love—laughed at the boys who proposed to her. Last winter she fell in love with Bob. He proposed, but she wouldn't give him an answer. He never mentioned marriage again, but spoke of his love for her often.

Recently he went away for a couple of months. She let another man have the Tuesday and Saturday nights she always kept for Bob—until Bob got back. He returned sooner than she expected and found she didn't have a night for him. The following week he had his usual nights. On the second night he said he was glad to be back and find her so happy having a good time. He told her he loved her, and that was the last she saw of him.

Now she spends her time at home, seeing only girl friends. Should she wait for him? Or should she phone him? Or should she forget him and keep on having a good time? Or was she wrong?

If she wants him back, she'll have to make the first gesture. On his trip some more appreciative girl may have cured him of the rôle of abject suitor. But her problem should be a warning to girls who never are at a loss for dates.

Knitted Jacket Is Serviceable and Well Styled

BY JEAN MACDONALD.

The knitted jacket is an almost indispensable item in a well stocked wardrobe. It more than pays for itself in service and beauty, for it may be worn for both business and sports. It may serve as a blouse or be worn over other sweaters as an ensemble. The knitting pattern illustrated today suggests a particularly lovely version of this type of jacket. It has puffed sleeves, fulness to the body, and a snug waistband that is matched by the same type of stitching at the high, round neckline. Most of you will prefer angora for this model, and dainty pastels are just as popular as the more practical black and brown.

For instructions in knitting this jacket, No. X-4684, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

COURTS IGNORE NOTICE OF AUTO DAMAGE AWARDS

Few Forwarded for State Action on Licenses.

When the state legislature passed the automobile driver's license law it included a provision that the secretary of state should be notified whenever a judgment in an automobile damage suit is not paid.

Failure to pay or make arrangements to pay the judgment within tnirty days of the final order constitutes ground for the secretary to suspend the driver's license and recall his vehicle license plates until the judgment is satisfied.

Complains of Noncoöperation.

Secretary of State Edward J. Hughes complained on Tuesday at Springfield that his office is not receiving reports on judgment defaulters. A survey yesterday disclosed that only a few reports have been forwarded from Cook county. The clerk of the Superior court asserted he was handicapped by lack of information. The clerk of the Circuit court said the law was confusing.

The legislature, however, was specific in fixing the responsibility for the forwarding of these data to Springfield. "Clerks of the courts," the law states, "must send records of convictions and unpaid judgments to the secretary of state."

Damage suits arising from automobile accidents comprise 25 per cent of litigation in the two courts. In the Superior court, Clerk Victor Schlaeger estimated 4,000 suits are filed yearly. Clerk John Conroy said nearly 2,000 are filed in Circuit court.

Relies on Court Opinion.

"Before the law was passed on July 17, 1938," said Conroy, "I believed that my office would need more clerical help and asked the Circuit judges to authorize extra clerks. The judges refused. In an opinion, they held that the burden of notifying the secretary rested solely on the attorneys involved in each suit.

"Consequently I have submitted no records, nor have I heard of any attorneys doing it. If it is the duty of the clerk, Mr. Hughes should call this to our attention and to that of the judges in an official statement. Then we will be able to coöperate."

Schlaeger said he had made every effort to comply with the law. His office has dispatched the necessary information, whenever it was available, Schlaeger said.

Tells Need of Attorneys' Aid.

"But we are handicapped by lack of coöperation from the attorneys," he added. "Only they can supply the license number of the vehicle, the name of the car driver, and the car owner."

Schlaeger said that the cases on which he has acted occurred after May 1, when the courts began revoking drivers' licenses for law violations. If the secretary of state believes that the law in regard to judgment defaulters should revert to July, 1938, when the bill was passed, Schlaeger said a complete search of the records will be necessary.

SOCIAL AGENCIES ASK LEGISLATIVE RELIEF PROGRAM

A campaign to enlist the Association of Commerce, the Chicago Bar association, and other agencies in working out an adequate relief program was approved yesterday by directors of the Council of Social Agencies. They also approved the city council's request that Gov. Horner include relief in a call for a special session of the legislature.

"We believe," the directors stated, "that a special session of the legislature must be called; that outstanding groups in the city must be aroused to the seriousness of the present [relief] situation so that when the legislature convenes there will be understanding and support from the downstate representatives to assure the two-thirds vote necessary for enactment [of emergency relief legislation]."

"If a plan for raising the additional funds needed could be presented to the governor," the report continued, "more pressure could be brought on him to call a special session."

SHE SHALL HAVE HER ZITHER AND HER CHINA DOLL

Mrs. Ella Scholtz, 5947 South Bishop street, can have her zither, her three barrels of goose down, the cartridges for her double-barreled derringer, her china doll and its twelve dresses, and even the 45 year old cigar in its glass case. Her husband, Otto, said so yesterday.

But she'll have to give up his fishing rod and his two big stone jars, he told Master in Chancery Daniel Covelli. They're the real reason he's $323 in arrears on his alimony, he said.

This was all pretty confusing to Master Covelli, but it seemed clear that the two were willing to exchange their property and that Scholtz then would pay his alimony. So Master Covelli suggested that the attorneys arrange the details and draw up an order for him to sign on Aug. 18.

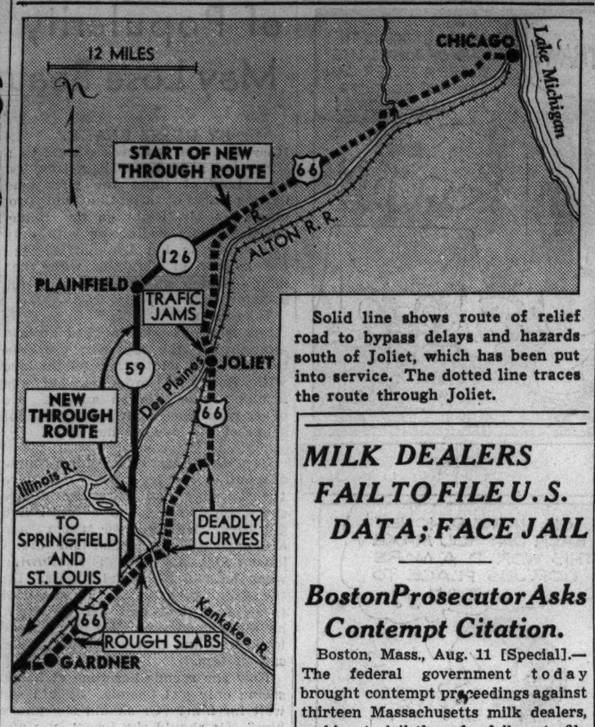
A baby kangaroo, born at the Brookfield zoo about two months ago, made its first appearance from its mother's pouch yesterday. Joey [all kangaroo babies are Joeys]] is a cagey little rascal and will be dodging in and out of the pouch for about two more weeks, by which time his mother will have satisfied herself that he knows what, where, and when to eat and will have no more to do with him. Another Joey, born two weeks earlier, got his final walking papers yesterday.

Bypass Around Joliet Open



Solid line shows route of relief road to bypass delays and hazards south of Joliet, which has been put into service. The dotted line traces the route through Joliet.

Cost Is $2,500,000

BY HAL FOUST.

The busiest cross state highway in Illinois, U. S. 66, now has a relief road to bypass delays and hazards south of Joliet. Although still incomplete, the $2,500,000 alternate route is now in service for most of its distance, saving time and annoyances for the minority of the through travelers who are familiar with the local geography.

Here's the tip—information not furnished by official highway markers—on how to take advantage of the new construction in leaving Chicago on the Joliet road, U. S. 66, on a trip downstate, to Springfield, or to St. Louis, Mo. Leave the four lane U. S. about 13 miles north of Joliet and follow Ill. 126 to Plainfield and thence south in Ill. 59 to return to U. S. 66 near Gardner, about 68 miles from the loop.

From about Braidwood, the new Ill. 59 parallels the Alton railroad on the opposite side of the tracks from U. S. 66. A temporary grade crossing now connects the two highways just north of Gardner. A viaduct, now under construction, will continue the alternate route to south of Gardner this fall.

State officials at Springfield yesterday said that whether U. S. 66 markers are to be shifted from the old to the new pavement will depend upon trafic experience after Ill. 59 is entirely finished. The new slab, two lanes wide, was laid off center on a broad right of way so as to accommodate a second 22 foot slab should trafic demand it.

SEPARATE SITE IS VOTED FOR YOUNG CRIMINALS' HOME

Members of the 15 man commission appointed to select a site for the new $250,000 state security home for young criminals decided yesterday that the place should be well removed from the grounds of the St. Charles Training School for Boys. Selection of a definite site was postponed until after Aug. 21.

The committee, meeting in the Congress hotel, heard A. L. Bowen, director of the state department of welfare, outline a tentative plan for the new fenced-in institution to supplement the unwalled St. Charles school. Construction was authorized by the legislature after a committee investigated conditions at St. Charles which has been under fire because of its many escapes.

Bowen said present plans call for a site of 100 acres, to be fenced in with heavy wire. Two buildings will be constructed on the grounds, each to house approximately fifty boys. The boys will be kept at farming, he said.

REPORT MYSTERY MAN'S FAMILY ON WAY TO INQUIRY

More of the family William E. Dally left behind in Chicago seventeen years ago were believed last night to have gone east to investigate the latest mystery of Dally's disappearance.

Mrs. Elizabeth Dally, the wife he left here, and a daughter, Mrs. Nina Devries Bacon, 4240 Clarendon avenue, with whom she lives, were reported out of town until tomorrow. Another daughter, Mrs. Charlotte Wurth, 710 Yale avenue, Highland Park, also was away. A son, Dr Michael Dally, 740 Dobson avenue, Evanston, left Thursday night for Ocean City, Md., where a broker named William E. Dally was reported to have drowned Wednesday.

Sherif J. W. Hall of Ocean City said last night that there still were several mystifying circumstances about the drowning.

BIG PLANE HITS AIRPORT HANGAR; 14 ABOARD JOLTED

Fourteen passengers on an United Air Lines Mainliner were shaken last night when the plane coming in from New York skidded on the wet runway in landing at Chicago airport. A wing tip of the twenty-one passenger plane scraped a small hangar at the south end of the landing field.

Pilot E. P. Lott said the wet runway and failure of one of the wheel brakes to operate caused the plane to swerve into the hangar. The passengers changed into a sleeper plane and continued on their way to the Pacific coast.

Two Braniff Air Lines employés, Robert Simmons and John Thompson, in the building that was hit, were slightly injured.

MILK DEALERS FAIL TO FILE U. S. DATA; FACE JAIL

Boston Prosecutor Asks Contempt Citation.

Boston, Mass., Aug. 11 [Special].—The federal government today brought contempt proceedings against thirteen Massachusetts milk dealers, seeking to jail them for failure to file reports with the milk marketing administrator, as ordered by the courts.

Petitions to have the dealers declared in contempt were filed in federal District court by John A. Canavan, special assistant United States attorney general. Canavan said those cited were the most flagrant violators, some of them having filed none of the required reports in a two year period.

Canavan announced that next week the government would take similar court action against those milk dealers who have failed to pay, either in full or part, their shares in the milk marketing pool.

Fixing Minimum Prices.

The milk marketing agreement which the dealers named by Canavan are charged with violating is the Agriculture department's marketing agreement act of 1937 regulating the marketing of milk by fixing minimum prices and pooling returns in the Boston and New York areas.

Three federal attempts to regulate milk prices in the Boston area have met with opposition by some of the milk dealers on the ground it was unconstitutional, but on June 5, the United States Supreme court ruled that the present milk marketing act, as amended in 1937, was valid and that all dealers in the area should comply with it.

The marketing agreement established an equalization pool as a device to establish and pay an average price for milk to all dairymen, regardless of how much of their product was distributed as fluid milk for drinking purposes or used for cream, butter or cheese. The dealers were to pay prorated assessments into the equalization pool which was to be distributed to the farmers supplying the milk.

25,000 Farmers Share in Pool.

About 25,000 New England farmers share in the pool and ever since the act was promulgated three large Boston milk dealers have been paying money into the pool which has been held in escrow pending the Supreme court decision on the validity of the agreement.

The fund should now reach $3,000,000, of which sum $2,600,000 has been paid in and all milk handlers, since the Supreme court decision, have been under injunction to pay their pool contributions to the New England federal milk administrator.

Canavan recently said that despite the Supreme court order and the injunctions about forty small companies have not paid any money into the pool, or at best only part of what is due.

It is these companies which are in arrears against whom he is instituting the contempt proceedings to assure payment of the full amount due to New England farmers.

4 DRIVERS SENT TO BRIDEWELL; 1 GETS 60 DAYS

7 Others Give Up Licenses Pending Trials.

Four violators of the safe driving laws were sentenced to Bridewell terms by Judge Francis Borrelli in the Safety court yesterday. In addition each was prohibited from driving for a year. Seven other motorists had their driving licenses impounded pending trial as the court pursued its campaign against wild drivers.

Ted Carro, 1643 North Lawndale avenue, was sentenced to sixty days, the stiffest penalty of the day, for reckless driving. Witnesses said that Carro, riding a motorcycle, ran down and injured Mrs. Martha Johnson, 81 years old, 1911 North Larrabee street, at Larrabee street and North avenue, on June 20.

Most Flagrant, He says.

When Carro asserted that Mrs. Johnson ran into the street in front of his cycle, Judge Borrelli said: "That is the most ridiculous story I ever heard. The accident was the result of utter carelessness. It's one of the most flagrant cases in my experience in Safety court."

Herman C. Glibert, colored, of 3918 Calumet avenue, was sentenced to thirty days for driving while intoxicated. He was arrested yesterday at 55th street and Wentworth avenue.

Charles Zubas, 7124 South Albany avenue, got ten days for driving while intoxicated, and Maynard Bell, 7018 Cregier avenue, got a similar term for reckless driving.

Seven Surrender Licenses.

Those who surrendered their drivers' licenses pending trial, the charges against them, and their trial dates, are:

Scott E. Shepard, colored, 1149 North Franklin street; reckless driving; Aug. 18.

Miss Virginia Weiner, 5306 Altgeld street; reckless driving; Aug. 29.

Harold Wright, 4728 Kenmore avenue; reckless driving; Oct. 10.

Mrs. Bernice Bolton, 1933 Warren boulevard; reckless driving; Aug. 18.

Idee Dickey, 711 East 92d place; reckless driving; Sept. 1.

Harry Siemiaszko, 1621 North Honore street; reckless driving and driving while intoxicated; Aug. 18.

A charge of leaving the scene of an accident against Parnell S. Billings, president of the Belmont Radio corporation, who lives at 5840 North Kenton avenue, was dismissed by Justice of the Peace Bruno Stanczak in Waukegan. Billings was arrested on suspicion following an accident in Waukegan last Saturday, but proved he was not in the vicinity of the accident at the time.

AUSTRIA BISHOPS TO SIT IN GERMAN CATHOLIC MEET

VIENNA, Aug. 11 (AP).—The entire Roman Catholic Episcopate of Austria has decided to attend this year's annual German bishops conference on Aug. 20 at Fulda. Cardinal Theodore Innitzer will head the Austrian delegation, it was learned today.

It will be the first time since Germany's absorption of Austria that the bishops of what now is known officially as Ostmark will sit at ancient Fulda with their brethern from every part of greater Germany. The sessions will be secret as usual.

Contractor's Wife Robbed of $3,425 in Jewelry

Two bandits early today held up Mrs. Lillian Goldman of the Sherry hotel, 1725 East 53d street, in front of the hotel and escaped with two rings and a watch valued by the victim at $3,425. Mrs. Goldman, the wife of a contractor, had just alighted from a taxi after attending a movie. One of the men, she told police, placed a handkerchief around her face and the other took the jewelry at gun's point. She said the valuables were not insured.

TWELVE DEATHS A WEEK—THAT'S CITY AUTO TOLL

The Greater Chicago Safety council reported yesterday that an average of twelve persons are killed and 400 injured by trafic accidents in Chicago each week. The council said trafic deaths to date this year are 7 per cent higher than for the same period last year.

"A year ago auto fatalities showed a decline of 19 per cent throughout the nation, but a sudden increase of careless walking and careless driving have now turned that reduction into an increase," the council said.

One Wilmette youth was killed yesterday and his companion seriously injured when their auto collided with a truck near Oakton, S. D. The dead youth was Robert Schenk, 1601 Central avenue, Wilmette. His injured companion is Richard Penberthy, 1524 Wilmette avenue. The two were on a vacation trip following their graduation last spring from New Trier High school.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 479 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 384 were killed in Chicago, where 12,943 were injured in the same period.

CUBS WIN, 3-2; LEE HOLDS PIRATES TO 6 HITS

ALL-STARS OPEN DRILL TODAY FOR GAME WITH GIANTS

COACH LAYDEN AND AIDS HAVE PLAYS READY

Versatile Back Field Is Assured.

Musicians!

MEMBERS of college bands residing in the Chicago district are invited to join the College All-Star band which will play between halves of the game between the College All-Americans and the New York Giants in Soldiers' field Aug. 30. All musicians desiring to participate should write to Glen Cliffe Bainum, band director, Fisk hall, Northwestern university.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

This is the day more than three score college football players have awaited. For this afternoon, in Dyche stadium, these boys, elected to the 1939 All-Star squad by the fans of the nation, start preparation for their battle with the New York Giants in Soldiers' field Aug. 30.

From all sections of the country have come these boys whose brilliant playing in intercollegiate competition raised them to a status superior to thousands of their football compatriots and earned each the title of star. Now they hope to carry on the tradition of those who have preceded them and who have left a record of two consecutive victories over the champions of professional football.

Only once in the five year history of this game have the professionals won. In 1935 the Chicago Bears triumphed, 5 to 0. Twice the games have ended in ties, a scoreless game in 1934 between the All-Stars and the Bears, and a 7 to 7 deadlock in 1936, when the Detroit Lions represented the Professional league. Green Bay was beaten, 6 to 0, in 1937 and last year Washington's Redskins were whipped, 28 to 16.

This Should Be the Best.

So much for previous games. Attention now centers on the contest two weeks from next Wednesday evening. This game, the sixth sponsored by The Chicago Tribune Charities with coöperation from 334 newspapers and radio stations in forty-seven states, promises to be the most thrilling in the series. Remembering last year's free scoring battle, this may seem extravagant, yet it is agreed that these All-Stars are the best balanced group, offensively, ever brought together.

The collegians have three or four great kickers. They have extraordinary forward passers in Davey O'Brien, John Pingel, Everett Kischer, and Sid Luckman. The group of full backs includes Howie Weiss, Larry Buhler, Bill Osmanski, Bill Paulman, and Frank Balasz. Such splendid open field runners as Bob MacLeod, Marshall Goldberg, Ted Panish, and Vic Bottari make certain that the All-Stars can match the work of the Giants' Tuffy Leemans and Ed Danowski.

Layden's the Head Man.

Waiting to greet their players this morning will be four of the five coaches elected in the nation-wide poll. Elmer Layden of Notre Dame, an assistant coach on the staff which directed the 1938 squad, is in charge. Assisting are Carl Snavely of Cornell, Harry Stuhldreher, Wisconsin; Maj. Robert Neyland, Tennessee, and Slip Madigan, St. Mary's. Madigan will arrive this morning at 9:30, Chicago time, at the airport, coming from Oakland, Cal. Maj. Neyland is the only staff member who will not be here today. A previous engagement at a coaching school Monday will not permit him to report until Tuesday.

Coach Layden will bring Notre Dame's line coach, Joe Boland, with him to assist in preparing the college players, and Lynn Waldorf of North-

Longhi Brings His Bride to All-Star Camp

Ed Longhi, Notre Dame center, reported at college All-Star headquarters at Northwestern university yesterday to begin preparation for the game with the New York Giants Aug. 30. He was accompanied by his bride of a week. Longhi resides in Torrington, Conn.

Several of the early arrivals on the All-Star squad attended the Cubs-Pittsburgh game yesterday. Among those who watched the major leaguers were Bronko Smilanich of Arizona, Francis Twedell of Minnesota, and Longhi and Ed Beinor of Notre Dame. The entire squad will attend tomorrow's game as guests of the Cub management.

When the All-Star players report in Dyche stadium today they will find everything in readiness for the opening practice. Each player has been assigned a locker in which has been placed complete practice equipment, including shoes, jersey, pants, helmet, hip pads and shoulder pads. The training needs of the squad again will be handled by Carl Erickson, Northwestern trainer, and his assistants, Jack Williamson and Bob Peterson.

Looking after the needs of the All-Stars is a familiar task for Rut Walter, freshman track coach at Northwestern. He has been house manager for the squad since the first All-Star game five years ago.

INDIANS, TIGERS KEEP MANAGERS ANOTHER YEAR

Cleveland, O., Aug. 11 (AP).—Oscar Vitt, the Cleveland Indians' manager for the last two seasons, was signed tonight for 1940. He signed a new one year contract after a conference in the office of Alva Bradley, Indian president, who indicated he had chosen the present time to offer Vitt a new contract in an effort to squelch reports that Oscar was on the way out.

Close friends of Bradley asserted his decision to announce Vitt's reappointment was based on two things, a published newspaper story which said that Vitt was slated for discharge and a smoldering rebellion against the manager by some members of the team.

GIANTS GET ONLY 2 HITS OFF HIGBE, SO PHILS WIN, 2-1

Wildness Accounts for Run Off Ex-Cub.

New York, Aug. 11 (AP).—Two hit pitching by Walter Higbe brought the Phillies their first victory over the New York Giants since May 12, 2 to 1, today. The only run scored against the young right hander whom Philadelphia acquired from the Chicago Cubs came without a hit in the seventh inning. Harry Danning and Zeke Bonura walked, Tom Hafey sacrificed and Danning scored on an infield out.

Roy Hughes, the former St. Louis Browns second baseman, accounted for both Philadelphia runs. In the second inning he singled Gus Suhr in from second and in the fourth he hit his first National league home run.

Frank Parker, Miss Marble in Rye Net Finals

Rye, N. Y., Aug. 11 (AP).—Frank Parker reached the finals of the eastern grass court tennis tourney today by beating young Welby Van Horn of Los Angeles, 3-6, 8-6, 6-1, 6-4.

He let Van Horn slug and smash his way to a first set victory and a 4-1 lead in the second set, before proving that pace is important in tennis. At the end the veteran was much less tired than Van Horn, whose punch thrilled a gallery of 2,000—until he wore himself out.

Alice Marble and Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Fabyan came through to the women's finals. Miss Marble had to call on her favorite shots to stop Mme. Rene Mathieu of France, 6-3, 7-5. Mrs. Fabyan routed England's best, Kay Stammers, 6-1, 6-2.

Riggs and Cooke Advance.

Bobby Riggs of Chicago and Elwood Cooke of Portland, Ore., outlasted Gil Hunt of Washington and Ernie Sutter of New Orleans 18-16, 2-6, 6-2, in the doubles. The women's doubles team of Dorothy Bundy and Mary Arnold stopped Helen Jacobs and Dorothy Workman 7-5, 6-2 in a semi-finals match for the days most startling reversal of form. Miss Marble and Mrs. Fabyan won the other semi-final from Dorothy Andrus, Stamford, Conn., and Mme. Sylvia Henrotin of France 6-1, 8-6.

Parker, McNeill Upset.

The biggest upset of the doubles tourney saw the defeat of Parker and Don McNeill, Oklahoma City, by Gene Mako of Los Angeles and Gardnar Mulloy of Miami, 4-6, 7-5, 6-4. Mako and Mulloy thus gained a lower bracket semi-final berth along with Dave Freeman of Pasadena, Cal., and Ted Schroeder of Los Angeles, who won yesterday.

In the upper bracket, Riggs and Cooke returned to defeat the Murphy brothers, Bill and Chester of Chicago, 1-6, 6-3, 6-3. They will oppose the national intercollegiate champions, Bob Peacock and Doug Imhoff of Berkeley, Cal., who scored over Charles Hare of England and Ladislav Hecht of Czecho-Slovakia, 8-6, 3-6, 7-5.

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 11 (AP).—The Yankees today released James De Shong, right hand pitcher, to their Newark farm in the International league under option. He will join the Bears in Montreal Sunday. The Yankees obtained De Shong from the Washington Senators on waivers. He joined them on June 21, but never made an appearance in a game and hasn't pitched since June 10. He reported to the Yankees with a record of three defeats and no victories.

MATTICK DRIVES IN DECIDING RUN WITH A DOUBLE

Butcher Is Routed in Sixth Inning.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Stalwart Bill Lee, flashing the skill with which he pitched the Cubs to a National league pennant last season, choked off the Pittsburgh Pirates with six hits yesterday and registered his fourteenth triumph of the year, 3 to 2, in the opening game of the series in Wrigley field. The battle was witnessed by 7,296 paying customers and 15,500 women guests.

Bobby Mattick.

Lee received important assistance from Bobby Mattick, the youngster recently selected to tone up the shortstop job, where Dick Bartell was having difficulties. Mattick's double, his second hit of the day, drove in what turned out to be the decisive run in the seventh inning.

Cubs Chase Mr. Butcher.

Max Butcher, who started for the Pirates, yielded eleven hits and a base on balls before Manager Pie Traynor decided it wasn't Max's day and removed him in the sixth inning in favor of Truett Sewell. Sewell was the losing pitcher because he tossed that double to Mattick in the seventh after issuing a pair of passes.

Lee's efficiency was missing in only one inning and this was due more to his fielding than his pitching. He walked a man, erred on a grounder hit by the next batter and was additionally handicapped by a passed ball. These little things, hooked onto a double, one of three hits by Paul Waner, accounted for all the Pirate runs in the fifth. The incident put the Pirates in front by 2 to 1, but the Cubs tied the score in the same inning.

Cubs Score in Third.

The Cubs' third started quietly but, thanks to a series of safe taps, it wound up with a run. Hartnett and Lee popped out, after which Hack singled to right and Herman singled to center. Galan made amends for his previous double play ball by singling to right, Hack scoring.

The starter of the two run incident in the fifth was a pass to Young. Mueller bunted but Lee fumbled and lost his man. Butcher fouled off three bunts, which were enough to retire him on strikes. L. Waner's tap to Russell resulted in a force of Mueller at second. Young moved to third on the play and went home on a passed ball. P. Waner then doubled to left center to shove Brother Lloyd across the plate. Mattick threw out Vaughan.

The Cubs used up three hits and a sacrifice fly to get the tying run in the fifth. With one out, Herman singled to center and took third on Galan's single, the latter going to second on the return throw. Leiber scratched a hit to Fletcher, filling the bases, and Nicholson sent a fly to Paul Waner on which Herman counted.

Mattick Clinches It.

Sewell put himself on the spot in the seventh by walking Leiber, who was forced on Nicholson's bunt. G. Russell also walked. Mattick dropped a two bagger close to the line in right. Nicholson scored what proved the winning run and apparently Russell intended to come in, too, but, after going halfway to the plate with the ball still in the outfield, suddenly decided he'd turn back. Meanwhile Mattick had passed second, and, when he observed Russell's actions, started back, but was nipped.

TWO STAKE RACE WINNERS MEET IN HANDICAP TODAY

Viscounty, Joe Schenck Set for Showdown.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Viscounty and Joe Schenck, winners of last Saturday's stake races at Washington Park, will meet for a showdown this afternoon in the $2,500 Lake Side handicap. This gallop of a mile will share the interest with the $2,500 Prairie State stakes, which will bring out a field of good grade 2 year olds.

Joe Schenck's previous stake victory was scored in the 6 furlong Chicago handicap. Carrying 118 pounds, he beat John Marsch's Lightspur by a head. He has been assigned 117 pounds for today's event over a longer distance. Viscounty, which has been assigned 119 pounds, has shown considerable ability at weight carrying at a mile and farther. He first attracted attention at Keeneland and then finished fourth in the Kentucky Derby.

Won Sheridan Handicap.

Since coming to Washington Park Viscounty has won two races at a mile and 70 yards, one of them being the $2,500 Sheridan handicap. In his only other start at the Homewood track he ran second to his Valdina farm stablemate, Eagle Pass, which will be coupled with him in the betting today.

In addition to Joe Schenck, the Woolford farm stable will be represented by Robert L. Other good ones among the sixteen overnight entries are Isadore Bieber's Conde Rico, trained by Hirsch Jacobs; Joseph E. Widener's Bucking, Ramsey and Coppage's Mucho Gusto, and Mrs. Emil Denemark's Some Count. Conde Rico showed considerable speed in a tuneup race on Wednesday, when he was beaten by a nose by Viscounty.

The Woolford farm stable will also have strong representation in the Prairie State stakes, Inscolad and Tonganoxie being among the fourteen overnight entries. The Valdina farm will send out Valdina Minx and Valdina Nymph. Joseph E. Widener's Town Boy and Lexbrook stable's Potranco and Designer are other speedy youngsters which will get considerable backing.

Program Speeded Up.

In an effort to speed up the program and get the crowd back to the city a little earlier yesterday the management experimented with a faster parade to the post. After walking once past the stands the horses turned and proceeded at a jog or a canter to the starting gate. As a result most of the crowd got home to dinner a few minutes earlier.

Gridiron, a 3 year old colt owned by F. M. Alger Jr., won the main event on yesterday's program, a gallop of a mile and seventy yards out of the chute. Cleverly rated by Jockey Charley Wells, he led all the way, saving ground by breaking from the No. 1 post position and never bearing out from the rail.

Under his light impost of 99 pounds Gridiron sprinted with Little Tramp for the first half mile, continued to hold the inside while racing under restraint around the turn, and conquered the favorite soon after the stretch run began. Then Cisneros, which had raced wide most of the way, came up with a determined challenge, but Gridiron had enough left to withstand him and win by a neck. Little Tramp saved third money.

Gridiron had started five times during the Arlington meeting and once previously at Washington Park without being able to win. But he had usually been a factor in these races, so his odds were held to 3 to 1. He paid off at $8.40, $4.40, and $3.

TWIN CITIES POLO TEAM WINS, 11-10, OVER RISING SUN

A goal by 17 year old Johnny Daniels broke a tie in the final period to give the Twin Cities polo team of Minneapolis and St. Paul an 11 to 10 victory over Rising Sun ranch and possession of the Salt Creek cup yesterday at the Oak Brook Polo club. The game between the Oak Brook and Onwentsia club polo teams scheduled for this afternoon at Oak Brook in the Byfield Memorial tournament was called off last night when the Onwentsia club defaulted.

The tournament semifinal will be played tomorrow afternoon, with Twin Cities meeting Rising Sun ranch on the Oak Brook stadium field at York road and 22d street.

JOHNNY LEHMAN'S 141 TAKES LEAD IN DISTRICT GOLF

C. E. McGuire, Oak Park, Second with 143.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

"Where've you been, John?" was the question last night at the end of the first 36 holes of the 72 hole competition for the annual Chicago District Golf association amateur championship at the Butterfield Country club.

The query was directed to John Lehman, former Western amateur and Chicago District amateur champion, as he reached the half way mark with a card of 141, one stroke above par. He had a 71 in the morning against the par of 35—35—70, and then came back with two more 35's for a 70 in the afternoon.

Comeback for Johnny.

Johnny, the handsome Hoosier who once won the Big Ten championship as captain of Purdue, has been in somewhat of retirement of late. He recently won the Lake Geneva title for the third consecutive time. Outside of playing the first two rounds of the Western Open at Medinah, he has done little in the way of competitive golf. He won the championship at match play in 1936, lost out early in 1937 and did not play last year.

His 141 gave him a two stroke edge on another former collegian, Charles E. [Chuck] McGuire of Oak Park, one time football star at the University of Chicago. Chuck put together a 72 and a 71 for a 143.

Tied at 144 were George Dawson of Glen Oak, former champion and present state title holder, and Wilford Wehrle of Racine, who is being ranked as a favorite in next month's National Amateur at North Shore. Wilf might easily have held the lead last night except for the par three eleventh. There his tee shot struck a hummock and ricocheted near a tree. In attempting to play the shot off the tree on a carom, Wehrle found the ball hopping back and up and striking him in the center of the chin for a two-stroke penalty. After getting on in five, he took two putts for a seven.

Moe Springer Falters.

Arthur Doering of Medinah, who won the title last year on his home course at match play, was among the 146s with 72—74. There he was joined by Marshall [Moe] Springer, the Lindblom High school senior who won the Chicago District open junior title, and was the only member of the Chicago National public links team to qualify for match play. Moe sprinted through the morning with a 69 for a two stroke edge, then faltered with a 77 in the afternoon.

The 36 low scorers in yesterday's play will play another 36 holes today for the championship. The qualifying limit was 155.

MISS WILLIAMS, MISS ESTABROOKS IN WESTERN FINAL

Birmingham, Mich., Aug. 11.—[Special].—Ellamae Williams of Chicago, who has already won the Illinois and Chicago district championships, continued her march toward further 1939 golfing laurels today by reaching the finals in the 39th closed tournament of the Women's Western Golf association.

The 22 year old Medinah star's opponent in tomorrow's 36 hole title match will be Edith Estabrooks of Dubuque, Ia., who reached the same stage in the tournament at Olympia Fields last year only to lose to redheaded Patty Berg.

Winners Have Trouble.

Ellamae defeated Elizabeth Hicks of Long Beach, the southern California champion, 3 and 1, in one of today's semifinals, while the 18 year old Edith continued in the role of giant killer as she eliminated Mrs. Russell Mann of Milwaukee, the only former western closed champion left in the tournament. Edith had to go the full 18 hole route to win over Mrs. Mann, the former Lucille Robinson, 1 up.

Yesterday Ellamae put on a great putting exhibition as she negotiated thirteen greens at the Oakland Hills course in one putt to beat Mrs. Dan Chandler of Dallas and today the Chicagoan showed remarkable ability at getting out of trouble. She was either in the rough or the traps at practically every hole.

Miss Estabrooks, who beat Marion Miley, twice winner of the Western closed championship, in the second round here, also encountered the rough and the sand pits repeatedly today, and at one stage faltered to such an extent that Mrs. Mann, who was four down after six holes of play, not only tied her, but took a 2 up lead on the back nine.

She's Three Over Par.

Miss Williams was 3 over par today. Yesterday she was 3 under with a 75 on the par 78 course. Ellamae posted a 40, one over, for the first nine to gain a 1 up lead over Miss Hicks. Miss Estabrooks carded the same figures and was 2 up over Mrs. Mann at the turns.

The cards follow:

MONOXIDE GAS ENDS AB JENKINS' ENDURANCE RUN

Bonneville Salt Flats, Utah, Aug. 11 (AP).—Ab Jenkins' quest for new world automobile endurance records ended at 10:08 p. m. tonight, halted by officials of the American Automobile association who declared Jenkins and Rex Mays, relief driver, unable to continue after both had been overcome by monoxide gas.

Earlier, as he completed the twelfth hour of his projected 24 hour run, the Utah driver lifted the last of four endurance marks previously held by Capt. George E. T. Eyston of England. His average speed for the 12 hours was 169.99 miles an hour, 6.21 miles an hour better than the 163.68 Eyston set Nov. 4, 1937.

Only a few minutes previously Jenkins had increased the British racer's record average of 163.75 for 2,000 miles to a new high of 168.94. Earlier in the day he captured the 2,000 kilometer record with a speed of 169.9,, compared to Eyston's 163.60, and the 3,000 kilometer with a speed of 168.7, compared to the former 163.49.

In addition Jenkins and Mays improved on two records the Utahan already held. That for six hours was raised from 168.15 m. p. h. to 170.85, and that for 1,000 miles boosted from 168.11 to 170.767.

Friends of Hagen

Jimmy Thomson, a Long Driver, Is a Good Putter, Too.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

[This is the fifth of a series of sketches on the fifteen golf professionals who will join with Walter Hagen in the veteran's twenty-fifth anniversary tournament, to be played on Aug. 24, 25, 26 and 27 at the Midlothian Country club.]

He was born James Wilfred Stevenson Thomson in North Berwick, Scotland, on Oct. 29, 1908, but to present day American golf galleries he is Jimmy Thomson, still the longest driver in golf, for all the arguments you'll get from supporters of Sam Snead.

Jimmy Thomson.

With his long time friend Tommy Armour, Thomson will make up the only 100 per cent Scotch twosome in the Hagen tournament, and one that should produce spectacular golf. Thomson's native gift for walloping tee shots has been augmented in these last few years by a sound development in every other department of the game. This may be found true on the greens, for when Jamie's putter is clicking you may expect to see them drop from all corners.

Football coaches who have seen this keg chested Scotchman in action when he is in trouble often have second guessed on what Jimmy might have been as a full back in a tight spot during a fourth quarter. Yet golf is his game, and naturally so, for his father was a professional and one of his mother's brothers was Jack White, internationally famed club maker.

Jimmy won his first prize at the age of 9 as a member of a Scotch Episcopal choir. The choristers were given a trip each year, and on one of these Jim won a nine hole tournament with a score of 56, and with it a driver as big as himself. Since then he has captured the Melbourne, Australia, Centenary first prize of $5,000; beat out Hagen for second place in the 1935 national open, and finished runner-up to Denny Shute in the 1937 national P. G. A.

FRACTURED JAW KEEPS SNEAD OUT OF HAGEN MEET

Sam Snead, who won more than $20,000 in tournament prize money last year, last night said he would not play in the anniversary tournament for Walter Hagen at Midlothian on Aug. 24, 25, 26, and 27.

Snead wired his regrets from a Hot Springs, Va., hospital, where he is recovering from a jaw fracture suffered during the extraction of teeth which have been hampering his play this year.

Sam had been scheduled as a partner of Ralph Guldahl of Madison, N. J., former national and western open title holder. Jack Carroll and Joe Creevy of Midlothian's committee, said that there was no definite substitute for Snead as Guldahl's mate, but added that Harold [Jug] McSpaden of Boston was the leading candidate for the job.

Bryant to Test His Arm Today Against Pirates

Clay Bryant, who has been on a long vacation because of arm soreness, probably brought on by overwork last season, will return to action for the Cubs today in the second of the series with the Pirates. He'll be opposed by Mace Brown.

Joe Tinker, member of the famous old infield triumvirate, was among those present yesterday. The ex-shortstop is a real estate merchant in Florida.

The Cubs will close up their workshop tomorrow night, and it will remain closed until Labor day. During the interval the Cubs will make eight stops, one each in six cities of the circuit and two in Cincinnati.

SARAZEN, GHEZZI GET RECORD 66s; GENE TAKES LEAD

Pittsburgh, Pa., Aug. 11 (AP).—Gene Sarazen shot his way to a two stroke lead in the $10,000 Dapper Dan Open golf tournament today with a 66, four under par and two strokes better than the Wildwood Country club course record set two years ago by Ray Mangrum of Pittsburgh. Sarazen's two day score was 137. A few minutes later Vic Ghezzi of Deal, N. J., matched Sarazen's 66. His 81 yesterday gave him 147. Denny Shute of Huntington, W. Va., shot 68 for a two day total of 139 and second place. Close behind was Johnny Bulla of Chicago with 142.

Bracketed at 143 in the chase for $2,500 first money were Byron Nelson, National Open champion from Reading, Pa., and Ralph Guldahl of Madison, N. J. Close behind at 144 were Clayton Heafner of Charlotte, N. C.; Lloyd Mangrum of Los Angeles, Cal.; Johnny Revolta of Evanston, Ill., and Harold [Jug] McSpaden of Winchester, Mass. Jimmy Thomson of Shawnee-on-Delaware, Pa., and Clarence Doser of Philadelphia, Pa., had 145. Ed Dudley of Philadelphia and Ed Oliver of Hornell, N. Y., were next with 146.

3d Place Sox Just Have to Beat Indians

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cleveland, O., Aug. 11.—The White Sox and the Cleveland Indians, a game apart in the American league standings and both pressed by the Detroit Tigers in the merry battle for third place, will open a three-game series in the Municipal stadium tomorrow.

Bill Dietrich will pitch for the Sox. He was pretty bad his last time out, but pretty good the time before that. Bill has won six and lost five. Mel Harder is slated for the Indians. Mel has won seven and lost seven.

All Square for the Season.

Cleveland fans, or at least Cleveland baseball authors, appear to be quite giddy about Lou Boudreau and Ray Mack, the rookie infielders recalled from Buffalo last week. The Sox, however, are not thinking nearly so much about the sparkling rookies as they are about the fact they have to face Bob Feller in one of the games of Sunday's double-header.

The Sox ratio is the same against the Indians as it was against the Tigers when the Chicagoans arrived in Detroit the other day—six games won to six games lost. All three games here will be played in the spacious stadium, where the Sox feel they have a better chance to win than they do in the tricky and lopsided League park.

They Hope to Stay in Third.

The stay here will conclude the Sox's six city trip. They have dropped series in four of the five cities already visited. They lost the Boston series, three games to two, the New York series, two to one, took the Philadelphia set, three games to one, lost all three games in Washington, and were set back two out of three in Detroit.

The greatest hope of the Sox at the moment is that they can get home in possession of third place. Back on their own acres they feel they can make some hay under the lights as well as while the sun shines.

AUSTRALIAN CUP TEAM BEATS CUBA IN ZONE FINALS

Seabright, N. J., Aug. 11 [Special].—Australia clinched the American zone final in the Davis cup competition at the Seabright Lawn Tennis and Cricket club today by bowling over Cuba in the third match of the series. The two singles engagements tomorrow thus become exhibitions, since the Australians are ahead, 3 to 0, by virtue of winning two singles matches yesterday.

It took only 55 minutes for Adrian Quist and John Bromwich to beat Ricardo Morales and Lorenzo Nodarse, 6-1, 6-0, and 6-3 in the doubles play. The Australians played no harder than they had to, but raced right through to the interzone final against Jugo-Slavia at Brookline, Mass., on Aug. 24, 25, and 26.

Duck Hunting Regulations to Be Ready Soon

BY BOB BECKER.

Although the United States department of agriculture has not issued the waterfowl hunting regulations for 1939, hunters won't have to wait much longer for them. Bureau of biological survey officials state that duck hunters soon will be able to read about the daily bag limit, the length of the duck and goose season, and other details governing the sport this fall.

We are willing to lay a wager that the biological survey chiefs have the 1939 hunting regulations drawn up and ready to be made public. But they're waiting for more reports on the duck crop before saying anything on the laws. However, duck hunters may count on this: there won't be any wide or sweeping changes in the hunting regulations for 1939.

Another thing that all sportsmen may be certain of is this: whatever the laws are for 1939, they are so drawn that duck and goose hunters may have as much hunting as possible during the season without in any way endangering the steady program of increasing the waterfowl flocks in America. In other words, authorities are agreed that the ducks and geese "aren't out of the woods" yet. More years of growing ducks are needed to bring the waterfowl flocks back to normal.

This "grow more ducks" program has been going ahead so rapidly and is so important to the 7,000,000 hunters in the United States that it's unfortunate all shooters are not familiar with it. If the duck and goose hunters could see the number of new nesting and feeding grounds for ducks that have been established in the northwest in recent years, they would have a better appreciation of how the duck stamp dollars are aiding the waterfowl cause.

And across the line in Canada are other big projects, conducted and financed by Ducks Unlimited, which are producing countless thousands of birds on land which several years ago was as dry as a desert. There are more than 1,300,000 licensed hunters in Wisconsin, Illinois, Michigan, Indiana, and Iowa. About one-third of that number are waterfowl hunters waiting for latest reports from Canada on the duck crop and word from the biological survey on when the hunting fun begins this fall.

Stocks, Bonds

New York Stocks.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 11.—Stocks behaved in erratic fashion today, and when the final gong had rung neither side had any clear advantage. The number of losses and gains was just about a standoff.

Two factors influenced the movement of stocks, in the opinion of observers. The first was yesterday's speech by Albert Forster, leader of the Danzig Nazis. The second, the failure of the Dutch banking house of Mendelshohn & Co.

As far as the former was concerned, Wall street showed its relief by bidding stocks higher at the opening. There was a general belief the speech lacked fireworks and the market here followed the example of London where the trend was higher.

The Mendelshohn affair, on the other hand, was credited with halting the recovery, and caused stocks to give up their early gains. The firm was believed to be a large holder of American securities.

At any rate the market went down and selling was reported from Amsterdam and other sources in rail issues and a few industrials that Dutch investors are known to be interested in. After the market reached its low point, however, the tone hardened once more and enough improvement occurred to raise many issues above the preceding close.

American Bosch, in which Mendelshohn has an 80 per cent interest, dipped more than a point to a new low. Consolidated Oil broke through 7 to a new low.

Steel stocks finished lower all along the line though losses did not exceed fractions. Most rail stocks also were lower and declines generally were less than a point.

Chrysler opened 1¾ points higher, moved up another fraction, faded to its previous closing level, and closed with a gain of 1⅞ points. General Motors lost ½.

Airplane issues did nothing notable. Coppers closed fractionally higher.

New York Bonds.

New York, Aug. 11 (AP).—The bond market completed a full week's decline yesterday with a further display of minus signs.

Many loans resisted the downward trend, but trading was scanty. Transactions of $3,549,600, face value, compared with $4,769,700 yesterday, and were the smallest of any week day since July 3.

Wall street commentators said they believed investors were largely keeping out of the market until the present situation between Germany and Poland was cleared up. In support of this theory was a decline, almost throughout the list, in the prices of foreign government bonds.

At the same time, United States treasuries, although barely active, closed at 4-32 point higher to 15-32 point lower. In the corporate division, many issues closed unchanged. Big Four 4s fell 6 points.

Chicago Stocks.

Commonwealth Edison and Zenith Radio each advanced ⅛ point in trading on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday. They were the only issues among the volume leaders showing gains. Those losing ground, however, declined only fractional amounts. Of the ninety-five issues traded, twenty-three advanced, forty-three declined, and twenty-nine closed unchanged.

Bank Stocks.

First National stock was bid 1 point higher at 213 in yesterday's Chicago bank stock trading. Other issues were unchanged.

GERMANS SEEK TO BARTER FOR AMERICAN LARD

But Federal Rules Halter Trades.

Representatives of farming and meat packing interests declared yesterday that they would welcome a trading agreement with Germany that would make possible large scale shipments of American lard to the Nazis. They said, however, that present attempts to work out such an arrangement may be hampered by stringent regulations and penalties imposed by the American government on imports from Germany.

Dr. Wilhelm Tannenberg reported seeking barter deals.

The German embassy in Washington said yesterday that negotiations for some form of barter deal to permit German lard purchases in this country were being carried on with the department of agriculture by Dr. Wilhelm Tannenberg, first secretary of the embassy. Both the agricultural and state departments denied such negotiations were under way.

Opposed by Administration.

The Germans are said to have been working on such an agreement for months, but the federal administration has frowned on it in line with its opposition to Nazi political and trade policies.

Members of the department of agriculture said that possible barter plans have been discussed with congressmen and that the department has been favorable to any plan that would remove lard and other surplus fats and oils, in exchange for noncompeting German products. It was found, however, they said, that Germany had no products to offer that would not compete with American goods.

Three Americans associated with foreign trade interests in New York have been calling on Chicago business men this week in an attempt to pave the way for the exchange of American lard for German manufactured goods, it was learned. They hope to set up a modified barter plan, whereby American firms would agree to buy "noncompeting" German goods and pay for them with dollars. The Germans would agree to use the dollars to buy American lard.

German Purchases Fade.

Although Germany was formerly one of this country's biggest lard customers, her purchases have dwindled in the last five years until they now are negligible.

The loss of German and other foreign markets for lard has forced the price down to the lowest levels in more than five years. Yesterday's cash price in Chicago was 5.22 cents a pound. Farm and packing interests say that a pickup in foreign buying will be needed to raise prices. Low lard prices also depress hog and corn prices, causing further grief for middle western farmers, they said.

Germany bought 215,000,000 pounds of lard in the United States in 1929. In 1934 the total had slumped to 26,600,000. Last year purchases amounted to 1,523,000. In the first six months of this year they were only 340,000. It is now said that Germany is seeking to obtain 125,000,000 pounds by barter.

Views of Various Interests.

Earl Smith, president of the Illinois Agricultural association, said that organization would favor any plan that would reduce the lard surplus.

F. E. Wilhelm, first vice president of the Cudahy Packing company, asserted his company would be interested in a trading agreement that would permit shipments of lard to Germany. However, present restrictions by the federal government on imports from Germany make bartering arrangements extremely difficult, he explained.

Foreign exchange experts asserted that two sets of United States regulations make the importation of most German goods impractical. The first of these is the levy of countervailing duties of 25 per cent in addition to regular import duties on dutiable products. These penalty levies were imposed in March after the government had decided that German shipments abroad were being subsidized, resulting in unfair competition with American made products.

Have Rules on Dumping.

These levies do not apply to duty free goods, but a second set of rules may be invoked on this class of goods, foreign trade men said. These are antidumping regulations. They provide that if duty-free goods from Germany are sold in this country at less than their normal price level in Germany, the practice constitutes dumping and penalties must be paid by the importer.

Foreign trade men said that a workable trading plan with Germany can be effected only if the government will either lift countervailing duties or give specific antidumping rulings in advance of shipments. Otherwise, American importers would face heavy penalties on goods bought from Germany.

New York Bank Clearings Lower; Deposits Higher

New York, Aug. 11 [Special].—Bank clearings totaled $2,410,650,291 in the week ended today, against $3,627,540,275 last week, the New York Clearing house reported. Total demand deposits increased $29,299,000, and time deposits increased $4,231,000.

Federal Plan to Insure Corn Draws Protest

Widespread criticism of a Commodity Credit corporation plan to guarantee by a special reserve fund the safety of 257 million bushels of corn stored on farms as collateral for loans was expressed yesterday by insurance executives. The plan, recently announced by the CCC, a government agency, would replace insurance policies on the grain. Insurance men protested on the grounds this would bring the government into further competition with private enterprise.

The CCC plan will replace not only individual policies held by farmers, but also a master policy carried by the corporation. The plan provides that a farmer pay one-fifth of a cent per bushel to the Commodity Credit corporation to be held as a reserve fund against loss of the grain by fire, storm, or theft. This, according to insurance men, is tantamount to the government's entering the insurance field.

Confer with Wallace Aids.

A group of insurance executives, headed by Walter H. Bennett, secretary of the National Association of Insurance Agents, conferred yesterday with officials of the department of agriculture and were told that their situation will be brought to the attention of Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace. The group included two Chicagoans, L. G. Warder of the Hartford Fire Insurance company, and Edward Born of the Western Underwriters association.

The protests, however, were not confined to a single group. Other insurance agents declared that the plan would cost small town insurance agents [who insure most of the farm stored grain] approximately $1,250,000 in premiums.

W. Herbert Stewart, chairman of the board of the Illinois Association of Insurance Agents, explained that the private insurance rate was higher than that proposed under the CCC plan, but that in view of the fact that most of the stored corn was without adequate fire protection, the rate was not exorbitant. Private companies, he said, charge approximately one-half cent a bushel, or 75 cents per $100 valuation.

Resent Federal Competition.

"Insurance agents and companies throughout the country resent government competition, and have so expressed themselves," Allan Wolff, former president of the National Association of Insurance Agents, asserted. "We see a glimmer of hope in the reception accorded the insurance men who went to Washington.

"If the government will charge its fund with all the taxes and expenses which the private carriers must meet, it will not be able to do the business any cheaper than these carriers."

More than 43 million bushels of the corn held for loans will be stored on farms in steel bins purchased by the department of agriculture. Coincident with the award Thursday of contracts for providing the bins, Representative Louis Ludlow [D., Ind.] protested the insurance plan to Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace.

The bin purchases and the insurance plan are part of the department's resealing and loan renewal program to keep off the market corn held under government loans.

BRAZIL REMOVES PEG ON GERMAN 'BARTER' MONEY

RIO DE JANEIRO, Aug. 11 (AP).—German banks operating in Brazil were notified today by the Bank of Brazil, the nation's federal bank, that, effective at once, the rate of exchange of the "compensation mark" will fluctuate instead of remaining fixed.

United States diplomatic sources said the Brazilian order, in effect, ties the compensation mark to the United States dollar in Brazil and eliminates the trading advantage which Germany has had here since other currencies were admitted to free exchange dealings April 10.

Forbid Strikes Due to Labor's Own Disputes

Washington, D. C., Aug. 11 (AP).—A broad agreement between the American Federation of Labor and major contractors to end strikes arising from union jurisdictional disputes was announced today.

The Associated General Contractors of America said that the executive council of the labor federation, meeting in Atlantic City, had agreed that when its unions fall into a dispute over which shall do specified work on a project, the controversy shall be referred to the president of the Federation's building trades division.

Prevents Work Interruption.

Until that official announces a decision, the work in question will continue, Edward J. Harding, managing director of the contractors' organization, said.

Announcement came only a few weeks after the C. I. O. had proclaimed an organizing drive in the construction field where heretofore it has not competed with the A. F. of L. However, Harding said the compact was not "brought about by any influence of the C. I. O."

Negotiated Since March.

"We have been working with the A. F. of L. and the building trades since March," he added.

Harding said that the "coöperative understanding" between his organization and the A. F. of L. "should clear the way for a badly needed increase in private construction." He said that under labor federation instructions, several current strikes over jurisdictional questions already had been called off.

OIL SEIZURE PARLEYS BREAK DOWN, MEXICAN AMBASSADOR IMPLIES

Washington, D. C., Aug. 11 [Special].—A complete breakdown of the negotiations between the Mexican government and the American oil companies over their expropriated properties was implied here tonight by Dr. Francisco Castillo Najera, the Mexican ambassador. In a formal statement, the ambassador held that the "intransigent" [refusal to compromise] attitude of the oil companies left the Mexican government free to withdraw all proposals it had made and to discontinue its consideration of proposals advanced by the oil companies.

Mexican Ambassador Najera.

Dr. Castillo Najera, however, was reported irked by newspaper accounts to the effect that W. S. Farish, president of Standard Oil of New Jersey, and other oil company representatives had decided to reject a complicated plan for tripartisan directorates to administer the oil properties in Mexico. It was not so much the reported rejection of this plan which angered the Mexican ambassador, so far as can be gathered, as the implication that the proposal was put forward by his government.

Embassy officials privately commented that the plan in question was not offered by the Mexican government nor by the oil companies. They declined to reveal its exact origin but left the inference that it had been put forward unofficially by the United States government.

FORD'S COUNSEL BELIEVES NLRB IS LOSING FIGHT

Washington, D. C., Aug. 11 [Special].—Counsel for the Ford Motor company said today they believed the National Labor Relations board was losing ground in its two year legal clash with Henry Ford. This belief was expressed in the face of the board's order yesterday that the Ford company correct certain labor practices described as unfair.

Ford's attorneys reasoned that the Supreme court would disagree with a statement included in the board's order if the case is carried to the highest tribunal.

The labor board had held that the company must stop circulating statements which disparage or criticize labor organizations. The company had contended that quotations from Henry Ford or the Ford Almanac were merely expressions of opinion and that an order to stop them was a violation of the constitutional guarantee of freedom of speech.

"We do not believe," the board ruled, "that the foregoing finding unconstitutionally abridges the respondent's [Ford's] freedom of speech and of the press. Freedom of speech is a qualified, not an absolute right."

The board held the company was guilty of discrimination in dismissing 24 employés. It ordered the employés reinstated with back pay. The order further directed the company to stop discouraging membership in the United Automobile Workers' union, or interfering with employés' collective bargaining rights.

Trading in New Cotton Contract Starts Tuesday

New York, Aug. 11 (AP).—Cotton futures traders will have a new contract to go to work on next Tuesday, the New York Cotton exchange said today. The new contract, which will be traded in side by side with the current one until the July, 1940, delivery expires, will have as its basis middling 15-16 inch cotton instead of ⅞ inch. In all trades the present contract will be designated as "old" and the changed form as "new." Officials said the revision had been made at the request of growers.

Dutch Banking House Closes; Leader Dead

AMSTERDAM, The Netherlands, Aug. 11 (AP).—The banking house of Mendelssohn & Co.—often agent for European governments in marketing their securities—suspended payments today as a sequel to the death of its internationally known senior partner, Fritz Mannheimer.

The French finance ministry announced in Paris that bond issues in which the Mendelssohn firm had participated with a Netherlands-Swiss syndicate already were completed. It said the issues, certain short term national defense loans, would be assured by a Paris bank and The Netherlands bank here.

Market Not Greatly Disturbed.

The suspension did not greatly disturb the Amsterdam financial community because Mendelssohn's operations were those of a private banking house, chiefly in the securities field, rather than a deposit or commercial bank.

[Dutch currency moved up in terms of the American dollar yesterday after the news of suspension of payments by Mendelssohn & Co. was received in New York. The spot guilder gained .18 cent to 53.57 cents and the 9 day guilder was quoted .12 cent below the spot guilder, compared with .17 cent below on Thursday. Money circles attributed the rise in part to short covering and buying by the Dutch control fund.]

Cause of Suspension.

Usually well informed circles expressed belief that the suspension was occasioned either by unsuccessful underwriting transactions in which the firm was left with sizeable amounts of bonds or by the calling of obligations to foreign banks.

[These views were shared by New York banking interests. It was said there that the difficulty—not a bankruptcy in the American sense—might have been caused by over-extended borrowing or by misfortune in underwriting recent Belgian and French loans. The practice of the firm having been to obtain call loans to underwrite such flotations and pay for them in cash, these sources expressed belief that following the death of Mannheimer some of his firm's loans were called when it could not get cash.]

Mannheimer died late Wednesday in France, but his death was not made known here until yesterday.

Native of Germany.

A native of Germany who rose high in its financial world, Mannheimer became Amsterdam representative of Mendelssohn & Co. and later took over its operations here when the advent of the Nazi regime brought reorganization of the parent interests in Germany.

He became a citizen of The Netherlands and recently was nominated a grand officer of the French Legion of Honor for his financial services.

Because the company was a private banking house its capitalization could not be ascertained, but the scope of its operations was indicated by it handling of the 4 per cent French loan, involving $57,142,857, last January, as well as $88,571,428 of French treasury bills last May and a 3 per cent bond issue involving more than $25,000,000.

CHINESE SEEK STEADY TRADE WITH AMERICA

Chen Explains Plan to Repay Loan.

China is trying to keep her door open to American trade which is threatened by the war with the Japanese, K. P. Chen, director of the Chinese trading organization in this country, said yesterday. Chen is in Chicago to negotiate purchases for his company from middle western firms.

"Trade channels between the United States and my country have been cut off or interrupted by blockade and seizure by the Japanese," Chen said. "Chinese economic and national life depends a great deal on its commercial relations with the United States. China is an essential market for American goods and, on the other hand, we have certain raw materials needed by American industries."

Negotiated American Loan.

Chen, a prominent Chinese banker and financial expert, negotiated the $25,000,000 loan last December from the Export-Import bank of the United States for the Universal Trading corporation, which he directs. He is now completing arrangements to send transportation experts from the Keeshin Transcontinental Motor Freight Lines, Inc., to reorganize the transportation system in China. Three officials of the Keeshin lines will leave for China next week.

The Keeshin officials were suggested by Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau, according to dispatches Thursday from Chungking, capital of China.

The Export-Import bank, a subsidiary of the federal government, receives reports from the Universal Trading corporation on its purchases and contracts, it was admitted by W. D. Whittemore, vice president of the bank. James A. Bull, an official of the trading corporation, was recommended for his post by the bank.

Seek New Land Routes.

"In order for us to repay this loan," said Chen, "we must be able to clear Chinese merchandise from the interior to seaports for transit to the United States. If we cannot sell our products to America we cannot obtain money with which to liquidate the loan in the required five years. If trade channels are closed to us we cannot move our goods. Therefore we must seek new land routes to maintain the flow of commerce between the United States and China."

China's transportation system has been disrupted by the Japanese seizure of important railroads, rivers, and seaports from Tientsin to Canton. Blocked from the sea through its own ports, China has resorted to slower inland routes to the seaports of Rangoon, Burma, and Haiphong, French Indo-China.

Gen. Chiang Kai-shek, leader of China's resistance to Japan, has ordered the construction within a year of a railroad from Kunming, China, to Burma, a distance of 530 miles.

May Pay in 3 or 4 Years.

If China's transportation problems are solved, Chen predicted that the Universal Trading corporation will be able to repay the large loan from the special federal bank in three or four years.

"We will then be able to maintain a constant shipment of tung oil and other Chinese products to the United States," he said. "We sell products which do not compete with those grown or manufactured in this country. Tung oil is our main export commodity. It is a raw material essential to the paint, varnish, linoleum, and ink industries.

"The normal consumption of tung oil, or wood oil as we call it, is about 5,000 tons a month in the United States. If we can send a constant flow of the oil to American manufacturers, we maintain a steady income that insures repayment of the loan.

France Takes More Aircraft from America

Washington, D. C., Aug. 11.—The French in July obtained export licenses for more than 35 million dollars' worth of American airplanes and parts, the largest for any month by any country since the arms control division of the state department was established.

This was shown in a report on arms licenses for July, issued today by the state department. The July figure of $35,419,372 brought the total of licenses for war materials for France to $71,667,460 in the first seven months of 1939. Most of this sum has been used for military airplanes and virtually all of the remainder for airplane motors and spare parts.

Licenses issued in July to all countries totaled $39,920,738. For the first seven months of this year, arms export licenses have been issued totaling $112,026,044.

Great Britain Large Buyer.

Great Britain's licenses for July were down to $75,401, but the arms report showed more planes actually have been delivered to her this year than to France.

Actual exports to Great Britain in Jul ytotaled $5,694,900, making a total for the seven months of $20,705,095, compared with France's exports in July of $3,030,560, and for the seven months, $12,218,117.

Japan was also listed for export licenses in July, the first time in several months. It obtained licenses for $757,100 worth of war material exports. Such exports to Japan had virtually ceased after Secretary of State Cordell Hull requested American airplane manufacturers to refrain from selling airplanes to countries which used aircraft to bomb civilian populations.

Makers Conform to Policy.

"Since the issuance of a license in December, 1938, American manufacturers of aircraft and aircraft parts, with one exception, have conformed to this policy," the state department said.

This exception was the Kellett Autogiro corporation of Philadelphia, the department reported. The tabulation for July includes a license for the exportation of one autogiro and two wheel assemblies, valued at $32,100, sold by the Kellett corporation for export, according to the department's announcement.

The July tabulation included another license for Japan for the exportation of one Douglas model DC-4 airplane valued at $725,000, sold by the Douglas Aircraft company, but the state department pointed out that this contract was entered into March 1, 1938, and said, "It will be noted that this contract antedated the statement of the secretary [Hull] referred to above."

GAIN IS SHOWN IN DEPARTMENT STORES' SALES

Department store sales in the nation for the week ended Aug. 5 were 9 per cent larger than in the like week of 1938, the federal reserve board reported yesterday. Sales in the four weeks ended last Saturday showed an increase of 5 per cent.

Sales in the seventh federal reserve [Chicago] district scored an increase of 6.3 per cent. Chicago district volume in the four weeks ended Aug. 5 was 5.2 per cent larger than a year ago.

Chicago's percentage gain in the latest week was the smallest of any of the twelve reserve districts except Dallas, where no change was reported.

Sales in Chicago proper scored an increase of 5.6 per cent in the latest week, and were up 3.5 per cent in the four weeks ended Aug. 5. Milwaukee's gain of 9.6 per cent was the largest for any city within the seventh district in the latest week, while Detroit led for the four week period with an increase of 12.7 per cent.

WALLACE HOLDS CONTROL IN VAST BUTTER BUYING

Has Authority Over Federal Agencies.

The checks provided to safeguard against irregularities in the government's butter "stabilization" program, which has already consumed 39 million dollars of federal funds, are largely in the hands of Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace, who directs the program, inquiry disclosed yesterday.

John Brandt—his coöperative is biggest butter broker.

Interest in the method by which the butter buying is carried out has been renewed by current efforts to extend the program through another loan of more than nine million dollars.

Wallace's dominating position in the program lies in his executive authority over the department of agriculture, the Commodity Exchange administration, and other governmental agencies. Together these agencies have expended approximately 15 billion dollars within the last seven years in all branches of agriculture, including dairy products.

Agencies Govern Practices.

These are the agencies which would be called upon to act if unusual business practices were uncovered.

Although Wallace has directed the butter buying program, under which more than 155 million pounds have been acquired, the actual transactions in the absorption of most of the butter have been handled by private interests.

The key figure among the private interests is John Brandt of Minneapolis, whose coöperative has become the biggest butter broker in the world by handling most of the buying under the stabilization program. He is president of the Dairy Products Marketing association of Chicago, the agency handling the program for the government. He is also president of Land o' Lakes, Inc., a dairy products concern of Chicago and Minneapolis which has acted as the DPMA broker.

Agency Given 39 Millions.

DPMA was formed by eight private dairy coöperatives to which the Commodity Credit corporation, a governmental agency, has already advanced about 39 million dollars. It still holds 16,999,000 pounds of the 114,138,955 pounds of butter purchased with the proceeds of the several loans. It has requested authority to acquire another 40 million pounds, which brokers estimate would require another 9 million dollars. Wallace is now considering the request.

Virtually all of the butter bought in Chicago has been acquired for the DPMA by Land O'Lakes, acting as brokers. Most of the DPMA butter bought in the New York market has been handled by Dairy and Poultry Coöperatives, Inc. The brokerage commissions paid by DPMA at the rate of one-quarter of a cent a pound have totaled about $285,000. P. L. Betts, an official of the New York coöperative agency, is also an official of the DPMA, and its agent in the New York market.

Court Suit Reveals Operations.

Briefs filed in a recent court suit in Chicago gave the butter trade its first insight into operations between the DPMA and its coöperative members. They disclosed the agreement

GERMANS SEEK TO BARTER FOR AMERICAN LARD

But Federal Rules Halter Trades.

Representatives of farming and meat packing interests declared yesterday that they would welcome a trading agreement with Germany that would make possible large scale shipments of American lard to the Nazis. They said, however, that present attempts to work out such an arrangement may be hampered by stringent regulations and penalties imposed by the American government on imports from Germany.

Dr. Wilhelm Tannenberg reported seeking barter deals.

The German embassy in Washington said yesterday that negotiations for some form of barter deal to permit German lard purchases in this country were being carried on with the department of agriculture by Dr. Wilhelm Tannenberg, first secretary of the embassy. Both the agricultural and state departments denied such negotiations were under way.

Opposed by Administration.

The Germans are said to have been working on such an agreement for months, but the federal administration has frowned on it in line with its opposition to Nazi political and trade policies.

Members of the department of agriculture said that possible barter plans have been discussed with congressmen and that the department has been favorable to any plan that would remove lard and other surplus fats and oils, in exchange for noncompeting German products. It was found, however, they said, that Germany had no products to offer that would not compete with American goods.

Three Americans associated with foreign trade interests in New York have been calling on Chicago business men this week in an attempt to pave the way for the exchange of American lard for German manufactured goods, it was learned. They hope to set up a modified barter plan, whereby American firms would agree to buy "noncompeting" German goods and pay for them with dollars. The Germans would agree to use the dollars to buy American lard.

German Purchases Fade.

Although Germany was formerly one of this country's biggest lard customers, her purchases have dwindled in the last five years until they now are negligible.

The loss of German and other foreign markets for lard has forced the price down to the lowest levels in more than five years. Yesterday's cash price in Chicago was 5.22 cents a pound. Farm and packing interests say that a pickup in foreign buying will be needed to raise prices. Low lard prices also depress hog and corn prices, causing further grief for middle western farmers, they said.

Germany bought 215,000,000 pounds of lard in the United States in 1929. In 1934 the total had slumped to 26,600,000. Last year purchases amounted to 1,523,000. In the first six months of this year they were only 340,000. It is now said that Germany is seeking to obtain 125,000,000 pounds by barter.

Views of Various Interests.

Earl Smith, president of the Illinois Agricultural association, said that organization would favor any plan that would reduce the lard surplus.

F. E. Wilhelm, first vice president of the Cudahy Packing company, asserted his company would be interested in a trading agreement that would permit shipments of lard to Germany. However, present restrictions by the federal government on imports from Germany make bartering arrangements extremely difficult, he explained.

Foreign exchange experts asserted that two sets of United States regulations make the importation of most German goods impractical. The first of these is the levy of countervailing duties of 25 per cent in addition to regular import duties on dutiable products. These penalty levies were imposed in March after the government had decided that German shipments abroad were being subsidized, resulting in unfair competition with American made products.

Have Rules on Dumping.

These levies do not apply to duty free goods, but a second set of rules may be invoked on this class of goods, foreign trade men said. These are antidumping regulations. They provide that if duty-free goods from Germany are sold in this country at less than their normal price level in Germany, the practice constitutes dumping and penalties must be paid by the importer.

Foreign trade men said that a workable trading plan with Germany can be effected only if the government will either lift countervailing duties or give specific antidumping rulings in advance of shipments. Otherwise, American importers would face heavy penalties on goods bought from Germany.

New York Bank Clearings Lower; Deposits Higher

New York, Aug. 11 [Special].—Bank clearings totaled $2,410,650,291 in the week ended today, against $3,627,540,275 last week, the New York Clearing house reported. Total demand deposits increased $29,299,000, and time deposits increased $4,231,000.

Federal Plan to Insure Corn Draws Protest

Widespread criticism of a Commodity Credit corporation plan to guarantee by a special reserve fund the safety of 257 million bushels of corn stored on farms as collateral for loans was expressed yesterday by insurance executives. The plan, recently announced by the CCC, a government agency, would replace insurance policies on the grain. Insurance men protested on the grounds this would bring the government into further competition with private enterprise.

The CCC plan will replace not only individual policies held by farmers, but also a master policy carried by the corporation. The plan provides that a farmer pay one-fifth of a cent per bushel to the Commodity Credit corporation to be held as a reserve fund against loss of the grain by fire, storm, or theft. This, according to insurance men, is tantamount to the government's entering the insurance field.

Confer with Wallace Aids.

A group of insurance executives, headed by Walter H. Bennett, secretary of the National Association of Insurance Agents, conferred yesterday with officials of the department of agriculture and were told that their situation will be brought to the attention of Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace. The group included two Chicagoans, L. G. Warder of the Hartford Fire Insurance company, and Edward Born of the Western Underwriters association.

The protests, however, were not confined to a single group. Other insurance agents declared that the plan would cost small town insurance agents [who insure most of the farm stored grain] approximately $1,250,000 in premiums.

W. Herbert Stewart, chairman of the board of the Illinois Association of Insurance Agents, explained that the private insurance rate was higher than that proposed under the CCC plan, but that in view of the fact that most of the stored corn was without adequate fire protection, the rate was not exorbitant. Private companies, he said, charge approximately one-half cent a bushel, or 75 cents per $100 valuation.

Resent Federal Competition.

"Insurance agents and companies throughout the country resent government competition, and have so expressed themselves," Allan Wolff, former president of the National Association of Insurance Agents, asserted. "We see a glimmer of hope in the reception accorded the insurance men who went to Washington.

"If the government will charge its fund with all the taxes and expenses which the private carirers must meet, it will not be able to do the business any cheaper than these carriers."

More than 43 million bushels of the corn held for loans will be stored on farms in steel bins purchased by the department of agriculture. Coincident with the award Thursday of contracts for providing the bins, Representative Louis Ludlow [D., Ind.] protested the insurance plan to Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace.

The bin purchases and the insurance plan are part of the department's resealing and loan renewal program to keep off the market corn held under government loans.

BRAZIL REMOVES PEG ON GERMAN 'BARTER' MONEY

RIO DE JANEIRO, Aug. 11 (AP).—German banks operating in Brazil were notified today by the Bank of Brazil, the nation's federal bank, that, effective at once, the rate of exchange of the "compensation mark" will fluctuate instead of remaining fixed.

United States diplomatic sources said the Brazilian order, in effect, ties the compensation mark to the United States dollar in Brazil and eliminates the trading advantage which Germany has had here since other currencies were admitted to free exchange dealings April 10.

Forbid Strikes Due to Labor's Own Disputes

Washington, D. C., Aug. 11 (AP).—A broad agreement between the American Federation of Labor and major contractors to end strikes arising from union jurisdictional disputes was announced today.

The Associated General Contractors of America said that the executive council of the labor federation, meeting in Atlantic City, had agreed that when its unions fall into a dispute over which shall do specified work on a project, the controversy shall be referred to the president of the Federation's building trades division.

Prevents Work Interruption.

Until that official announces a decision, the work in question will continue, Edward J. Harding, managing director of the contractors' organization, said.

Announcement came only a few weeks after the C. I. O. had proclaimed an organizing drive in the construction field where heretofore it has not competed with the A. F. of L. However, Harding said the compact was not "brought about by any influence of the C. I. O."

Negotiated Since March.

"We have been working with the A. F. of L. and the building trades since March," he added.

Harding said that the "coöperative understanding" between his organization and the A. F. of L. "should clear the way for a badly needed increase in private construction." He said that under labor federation instructions, several current strikes over jurisdictional questions already had been called off.

MORE OIL FIRMS FOLLOW CUT IN PRICE OF CRUDE

Houston, Tex., Aug. 11 (AP).—The Humble Oil and Refining company today announced a cut of crude oil prices ranging from 5 cents to 32 cents a barrel in Texas. The cut followed by two days a maximum cut of 20 cents a barrel by the Sinclair Prairie Oil Marketing company throughout its purchasing territory.

Other Companies Cut Prices.

Tulsa, Okla., Aug. 11 (AP).—The Cities Service Oil company, announced today it is meeting Sinclair Prairie Oil Marketing company's crude oil purchase price cut of 20 cents a barrel. Sharp reductions were posted earlier in the day by the Bell Oil and Gas company.

OIL SEIZURE PARLEYS BREAK DOWN, MEXICAN AMBASSADOR IMPLIES

Washington, D. C., Aug. 11 [Special].—A complete breakdown of the negotiations between the Mexican government and the American oil companies over their expropriated properties was implied here tonight by Dr. Francisco Castillo Najera, the Mexican ambassador. In a formal statement, the ambassador held that the "intransigent" [refusal to compromise] attitude of the oil companies left the Mexican government free to withdraw all proposals it had made and to discontinue its consideration of proposals advanced by the oil companies.

Mexican Ambassador Najera.

Dr. Castillo Najera, however, was reported irked by newspaper accounts to the effect that W. S. Farish, president of Standard Oil of New Jersey, and other oil company representatives had decided to reject a complicated plan for tripartisan directorates to administer the oil properties in Mexico. It was not so much the reported rejection of this plan which angered the Mexican ambassador, so far as can be gathered, as the implication that the proposal was put forward by his government.

Embassy officials privately commented that the plan in question was not offered by the Mexican government nor by the oil companies. They declined to reveal its exact origin but left the inference that it had been put forward unofficially by the United States government.

FORD'S COUNSEL BELIEVES NLRB IS LOSING FIGHT

Washington, D. C., Aug. 11 [Special].—Counsel for the Ford Motor company said today they believed the National Labor Relations board was losing ground in its two year legal clash with Henry Ford. This belief was expressed in the face of the board's order yesterday that the Ford company correct certain labor practices described as unfair.

Ford's attorneys reasoned that the Supreme court would disagree with a statement included in the board's order if the case is carried to the highest tribunal.

The labor board had held that the company must stop circulating statements which disparage or criticize labor organizations. The company had contended that quotations from Henry Ford or the Ford Almanac were merely expressions of opinion and that an order to stop them was a violation of the constitutional guarantee of freedom of speech.

"We do not believe," the board ruled, "that the foregoing finding unconstitutionally abridges the respondent's [Ford's] freedom of speech and of the press. Freedom of speech is a qualified, not an absolute right."

The board held the company was guilty of discrimination in dismissing 24 employés. It ordered the employés reinstated with back pay. The order further directed the company to stop discouraging membership in the United Automobile Workers' union, or interfering with employés' collective bargaining rights.

Trading in New Cotton Contract Starts Tuesday

New York, Aug. 11 (AP).—Cotton futures traders will have a new contract to go to work on next Tuesday, the New York Cotton exchange said today. The new contract, which will be traded in side by side with the current one until the July, 1940, delivery expires, will have as its basis middling 15-16 inch cotton instead of ⅞ inch. In all trades the present contract will be designated as "old" and the changed form as "new." Officials said the revision had been made at the request of growers.

Dutch Banking House Closes; Leader Dead

AMSTERDAM, The Netherlands, Aug. 11 (AP).—The banking house of Mendelssohn & Co.—often agent for European governments in marketing their securities—suspended payments today as a sequel to the death of its internationally known senior partner, Fritz Mannheimer.

The French finance ministry announced in Paris that bond issues in which the Mendelssohn firm had participated with a Netherlands-Swiss syndicate already were completed. It said the issues, certain short term national defense loans, would be assured by a Paris bank and The Netherlands bank here.

Market Not Greatly Disturbed.

The suspension did not greatly disturb the Amsterdam financial community because Mendelssohn's operations were those of a private banking house, chiefly in the securities field, rather than a deposit or commercial bank.

[Dutch currency moved up in terms of the American dollar yesterday after the news of suspension of payments by Mendelssohn & Co. was received in New York. The spot guilder gained .18 cent to 53.57 cents and the 90 day guilder was quoted .12 cent below the spot guilder, compared with .17 cent below on Thursday. Money circles attributed the rise in part to short covering and buying by the Dutch control fund.]

Cause of Suspension.

Usually well informed circles expressed belief that the suspension was occasioned either by unsuccessful underwriting transactions in which the firm was left with sizeable amounts of bonds or by the calling of obligations to foreign banks.

[These views were shared by New York banking interests. It was said there that the difficulty—not a bankruptcy in the American sense—might have been caused by over-extended borrowing or by misfortune in underwriting recent Belgian and French loans. The practice of the firm having been to obtain call loans to underwrite such flotations and pay for them in cash, these sources expressed belief that following the death of Mannheimer some of his firm's loans were called when it could not get cash.]

Mannheimer died late Wednesday in France, but his death was not made known here until yesterday.

Native of Germany.

A native of Germany who rose high in its financial world, Mannheimer became Amsterdam representative of Mendelssohn & Co. and later took over its operations here when the advent of the Nazi régime brought reorganization of the parent interests in Germany.

He became a citizen of The Netherlands and recently was nominated a grand officer of the French Legion of Honor for his financial services.

Because the company was a private banking house its capitalization could not be ascertained, but the scope of its operations was indicated by its handling of the 4 per cent French loan, involving $57,142,857, last January, as well as $88,571,428 of French treasury bills last May and a 3 per cent bond issue involving more than $25,000,000.

CHINESE SEEK STEADY TRADE WITH AMERICA

Chen Explains Plan to Repay Loan.

China is trying to keep her door open to American trade which is threatened by the war with the Japanese, K. P. Chen, director of the Chinese trading organization in this country, said yesterday. Chen is in Chicago to negotiate purchases for his company from middle western firms.

"Trade channels between the United States and my country have been cut off or interrupted by blockade and seizure by the Japanese," Chen said. "Chinese economic and national life depends a great deal on its commercial relations with the United States. China is an essential market for American goods and, on the other hand, we have certain raw materials needed by American industries."

Negotiated American Loan.

Chen, a prominent Chinese banker and financial expert, negotiated the $25,000,000 loan last December from the Export-Import bank of the United States for the Universal Trading corporation, which he directs. He is now completing arrangements to send transportation experts from the Keeshin Transcontinental Motor Freight Lines, Inc., to reorganize the transportation system in China. Three officials of the Keeshin lines will leave for China next week.

The Keeshin officials were suggested by Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau, according to dispatches Thursday from Chungking, capital of China.

The Export-Import bank, a subsidiary of the federal government, receives reports from the Universal Trading corporation on its purchases and contracts, it was admitted by W. D. Whittemore, vice president of the bank. James A. Bull, an official of the trading corporation, was recommended for his post by the bank.

Seek New Land Routes.

"In order for us to repay this loan," said Chen, "we must be able to clear Chinese merchandise from the interior to seaports for transit to the United States. If we cannot sell our products to America we cannot obtain money with which to liquidate the loan in the required five years. If trade channels are closed to us we cannot move our goods. Therefore we must seek new land routes to maintain the flow of commerce between the United States and China."

China's transportation system has been disrupted by the Japanese seizure of important railroads, rivers, and seaports from Tientsin to Canton. Blocked from the sea through its own ports, China has resorted to slower inland routes to the seaports of Rangoon, Burma, and Haiphong, French Indo-China.

Gen. Chiang Kai-shek, leader of China's resistance to Japan, has ordered the construction within a year of a railroad from Kunming, China, to Burma, a distance of 530 miles.

May Pay in 3 or 4 Years.

If China's transportation problems are solved, Chen predicted that the Universal Trading corporation will be able to repay the large loan from the special federal bank in three or four years.

"We will then be able to maintain a constant shipment of tung oil and other Chinese products to the United States," he said. "We sell products which do not compete with those grown or manufactured in this country. Tung oil is our main export commodity. It is a raw material essential to the paint, varnish, linoleum, and ink industries.

"The normal consumption of tung oil, or wood oil as we call it, is about 5,000 tons a month in the United States. If we can send a constant flow of the oil to American manufacturers, we maintain a steady income that insures repayment of the loan.

France Takes More Aircraft from America

Washington, D. C., Aug. 11.—The French in July obtained export licenses for more than 35 million dollars' worth of American airplanes and parts, the largest for any month by any country since the arms control division of the state department was established.

This was shown in a report on arms licenses for July, issued today by the state department. The July figure of $35,419,372 brought the total of licenses for war materials for France to $71,667,460 in the first seven months of 1939. Most of this sum has been used for military airplanes and virtually all of the remainder for airplane motors and spare parts.

Licenses issued in July to all countries totaled $39,920,738. For the first seven months of this year, arms export licenses have been issued totaling $112,026,044.

Great Britain Large Buyer.

Great Britain's licenses for July were down to $75,401, but the arms report showed more planes actually have been delivered to her this year than to France.

Actual exports to Great Britain in Jul ytotaled $5,694,900, making a total for the seven months of $20,705,095, compared with France's exports in July of $3,030,560, and for the seven months, $12,218,117.

Japan was also listed for export licenses in July, the first time in several months. It obtained licenses for $757,100 worth of war material exports. Such exports to Japan had virtually ceased after Secretary of State Cordell Hull requested American airplane manufacturers to refrain from selling airplanes to countries which used aircraft to bomb civilian populations.

Makers Conform to Policy.

"Since the issuance of a license in December, 1938, American manufacturers of aircraft and aircraft parts, with one exception, have conformed to this policy," the state department said.

This exception was the Kellett Autogiro corporation of Philadelphia, the department reported. The tabulation for July includes a license for the exportation of one autogiro and two wheel assemblies, valued at $32,100, sold by the Kellett corporation for export, according to the department's announcement.

The July tabulation included another license for Japan for the exportation of one Douglas model DC-4 airplane valued at $725,000, sold by the Douglas Aircraft company, but the state department pointed out that this contract was entered into March 1, 1938, and said, "It will be noted that this contract antedated the statement of the secretary [Hull] referred to above."

GAIN IS SHOWN IN DEPARTMENT STORES' SALES

Department store sales in the nation for the week ended Aug. 5 were 9 per cent larger than in the like week of 1938, the federal reserve board reported yesterday. Sales in the four weeks ended last Saturday showed an increase of 5 per cent.

Sales in the seventh federal reserve [Chicago] district scored an increase of 6.3 per cent. Chicago district volume in the four weeks ended Aug. 5 was 5.2 per cent larger than a year ago.

Chicago's percentage gain in the latest week was the smallest of any of the twelve reserve districts except Dallas, where no change was reported.

Sales in Chicago proper scored an increase of 5.6 per cent in the latest week, and were up 3.5 per cent in the four weeks ended Aug. 5. Milwaukee's gain of 9.6 per cent was the largest for any city within the seventh district in the latest week, while Detroit led for the four week period with an increase of 12.7 per cent.

WALLACE HOLDS CONTROL IN VAST BUTTER BUYING

Has Authority Over Federal Agencies.

The checks provided to safeguard against irregularities in the government's butter "stabilization" program, which has already consumed 39 million dollars of federal funds, are largely in the hands of Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace, who directs the program, inquiry disclosed yesterday.

John Brandt—his coöperative is biggest butter broker.

Interest in the method by which the butter buying is carried out has been renewed by current efforts to extend the program through another loan of more than nine million dollars.

Wallace's dominating position in the program lies in his executive authority over the department of agriculture, the Commodity Exchange administration, and other governmental agencies. Together these agencies have expended approximately 15 billion dollars within the last seven years in all branches of agriculture, including dairy products.

Agencies Govern Practices.

These are the agencies which would be called upon to act if unusual business practices were uncovered.

Although Wallace has directed the butter buying program, under which more than 155 million pounds have been acquired, the actual transactions in the absorption of most of the butter have been handled by private interests.

The key figure among the private interests is John Brandt of Minneapolis, whose coöperative has become the biggest butter broker in the world by handling most of the buying under the stabilization program. He is president of the Dairy Products Marketing association of Chicago, the agency handling the program for the government. He is also president of Land o' Lakes, Inc., a dairy products concern of Chicago and Minneapolis which has acted as the DPMA broker.

Agency Given 39 Millions.

DPMA was formed by eight private dairy coöperatives to which the Commodity Credit corporation, a governmental agency, has already advanced about 39 million dollars. It still holds 16,999,000 pounds of the 114,138,955 pounds of butter purchased with the proceeds of the several loans. It has requested authority to acquire another 40 million pounds, which brokers estimate would require another 9 million dollars. Wallace is now considering the request.

Virtually all of the butter bought in Chicago has been acquired for the DPMA by Land O'Lakes, acting as brokers. Most of the DPMA butter bought in the New York market has been handled by Dairy and Poultry Coöperatives, Inc. The brokerage commissions paid by DPMA at the rate of one-quarter of a cent a pound have totaled about $285,000. P. L. Betts, an official of the New York coöperative agency, is also an official of the DPMA, and its agent in the New York market.

Court Suit Reveals Operations.

Briefs filed in a recent court suit in Chicago gave the butter trade its first insight into operations between the DPMA and its coöperative members. They disclosed the agreement

HEAD OF WILLYS FORESEES TREND TO SMALL CARS

First Showing of 1940 Models Made.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Toledo, O., Aug. 11 [Special].—More determined efforts to capture a larger share of the American low priced automobile business were promised here today by Joseph W. Frazer, president of Willys-Overland Motors, Inc., at the first showing of the company's 1940 models.

Joseph W. Frazer.

Frazer, who resigned early this year as a Chrysler executive to head Willys, said that from his twenty-seven years in the automobile industry he is convinced that the public is most interested in a low priced small car that is economical to operate and smart in appearance. The trend away from the larger cars will continue in the future, he added.

Outlines Changes in Cars.

Frazer recited the changes in the 1940 Willys line, which will make its first public appearance later this month. The front end has been redesigned to give a more streamlined effect. The small compact four cylinder motor has been redesigned for greater efficiency. Its horsepower has been stepped up to 61.

The springs have been increased in size to give a more comfortable ride. New steel coil springs are being used in the seat cushions.

Weight Cut 45 Pounds.

The interior of the car has been increased in size, so that even a large man can operate it in comfort. The appointments have been "dolled up" to appeal to women. Despite the many changes in design and in equipment, the weight of the car has been reduced forty-five pounds from the 1939 cars.

Frazer said that prices will be reduced moderately from this year's level, following the downward trend that has been in progress in the industry during the last few years.

Frazer said that 4,250 cars will be built in September and 5,500 in October.

F. W. Dodge Will Move Into Merchandise Mart

The F. W. Dodge corporation, publisher of building statistics, now in the Bankers' building, yesterday leased 7,500 square feet in the Merchandise Mart. It will begin moving its Chicago regional offices to the new location next Monday, according to Percy Wilson, managing director of the Mart.

Boosting Chicago

The stamp which Chicago business men will attach to letters in a city promotion drive.

"Chicago has everything," the world will be informed through a new promotion campaign announced yesterday by the Chicago Association of Commerce. The message is contained in stickers to be attached to letters.

Several of the city's skyscrapers form the background of the stickers, with Fort Dearborn and the lake in the foreground. They are printed in black, brown, yellow, and blue. Thousands of them will be placed on mail leaving Chicago for all over the world, the association reported.

A second phase of the new promotion effort is a "greater Chicago news report," in which developments in the city's progress will be summarized. The report will be sent monthly to business organizations, community newspapers, trade magazines, and radio stations.

SILVER PRICE GAINS AGAIN ON TREASURY BID

Foreign silver was quoted at 35¼ cents an ounce yesterday by New York bullion dealers. This was ⅛ cent higher than the price posted on the preceding day. The United States treasury's bid price is 35 cents an ounce. Yesterday's advancing quotation at New York extended the domestic price over the treasury price for the second consecutive day. The domestic price exceeded the treasury price on Thursday for the first time since May, 1937.

The silver price in London, the principal world market for the metal, advanced again yesterday. It reached the equivalent of 35.94 cents an ounce, compared with 35.81 cents Thursday.

Gold totaling $2,112,000 was engaged in England for shipment to this country, the New York federal reserve board reported.

Great Northern Railway Cuts Loss for Half Year

Net loss of the Great Northern railway during the first half of 1939 was reduced to $3,394,082 from a loss of $7,088,655 in the corresponding period last year, the road announced yesterday. June net income was $938,768 compared with net loss of $58,539 in June, 1938. Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis railway reported net income of $214,613, or 80 cents a share, in the six months ended June 30, against net loss of $61,783 in the first half of 1938.

WALLACE HOLDS CONTROL IN VAST BUTTER BUYING

Secretary Has Authority Over Federal Agencies.

under which Brandt's Land O'Lakes sold butter to Brandt's DPMA.

Secretary Wallace's jurisdiction over the program is shown in the following stipulation, incorporated in the coöperative purchasing agreement between the DPMA, the Commodity Credit corporation, and Land o' Lakes:

"The coöperative [Land o' Lakes] agrees that duly authorized representatives of the association [DPMA], the Commodity Credit corporation, and the secretary of agriculture shall have the right during the regular hours of business to examine the books and records of the coöperative which pertain to the purchase of butter, the completion of drafts, and the sale of such butter for the account of the association."

Credit Through Reserve Bank.

Credit for the settlement of the DPMA butter purchases is furnished by the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago, acting as agent for the Commodity Credit corporation. The bank is given authority to examine invoices and all other documents in connection with the transaction before approving the sale.

The Commodity Exchange administration, organized to supervise transactions on all commodity exchanges, is empowered to investigate any butter transactions on the Chicago Mercantile exchange, where the DPMA butter acquired in Chicago has been bought.

As a member of the mercantile exchange, Land o' Lakes is subject to its rules and regulations regarding commission rates, grades, weight, inspection, and other matters. Agents of the DPMA buying butter in New York are governed by rules of the New York exchange.

Consumer Suit Flails Program.

The government's manipulation of butter prices was made the basis of a consumers' suit filed in the Circuit court last April by Frank P. Girard of 1033 Loyola avenue, seeking to restrain continuance of the program. His suit charged a conspiracy to control and fix prices and named the DPMA, Land o' Lakes Creameries, Inc., Illinois Producers Creameries, Inc., and Dairy and Poultry Cooperatives, Inc. The litigation has been transferred to the federal courts.

The difference between the amount of butter acquired by the DPMA and the total of 155 million pounds absorbed in the entire program is made up largely of direct purchases made by the Federal Surplus Commodities corporation, a governmental agency, for distribution to relief clients.

Part of Wallace's Theory.

The program was adopted in June, 1938, as a means of applying Wallace's "ever normal granary" theory to butter. For many months brokers for the DPMA were the dominant buyers in the market.

When the government "peg" was removed from the market in March, this year, the price of 92-score butter dropped from 25½ cents a pound to 21¾ cents, the lowest level in several years. The same grade now sells at slightly more than 23 cents.

AGENCY SUPPORTS PRICE

Private interests yesterday were buyers of 92 score butter in the Chicago cash market, but the Dairy Products Marketing association was forced to support the price of the 90 score. The agency's buying here and at New York totaled 475,200 pounds.

November futures on the Chicago Mercantile exchange moved up 0.05 cent a pound to 23.90 cents, with buying spurred by the improvement in trade demand for cash butter.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK

Weakness persisted in the market for hogs yesterday in face of a sharp decrease in available supplies at all leading packing centers. Prices at the Chicago stock yards were steady to 10 cents lower, several classes dipping to 50 cents lower for more than five years. The day's top at $6.30, off 10 cents, stood lowest since June 11, 1934.

Strong to 15 cents higher rates prevailed for the supply of lambs offered yesterday. Not enough cattle were offered to put prices to a test. A few head of steers topped the list at $9.50. Most sales were steady, considering quality of offerings.

[All prices are in dollars per 100 pounds.]

Agent Explains Plan to Repay Loan.

Also a constant supply of tung oil will stabilize the price which would otherwise fluctuate widely with every interruption of our shipments."

Chen said the tung oil is pressed from nuts grown on trees in the southwestern provinces of China. The oil has a quick-drying action necessary in certain paints and varnishes, and is highly resistant to water, making it valuable as a water-proofing material.

Gives Figures on Imports.

In 1938 American industry imported 107,455,674 pounds of the oil valued at $11,923,480, the banker said. Most of the imports were from China. In the first five months this year tung oil imports totaled 32,838,416 pounds, worth $4,391,407.

Chen refused to discuss details of his purchases in the middle west during his stay in Chicago. He said that description and terms of contracts made under the $25,000,000 credit with the Export-Import bank would not be made public by the trading corporation. Chen will return to New York today.

Buy 1,000 Chrysler Trucks.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 11 [Special.]—Officials of the Chrysler corporation said today that within the last sixty days, one thousand motor trucks had been sold to Chinese interests. They said the cash received for the trucks was part of the 25 million dollar credit advanced by the Export-Import Bank of the United States to Chinese interests.

It was also learned that one subsidiary of the General Motors corporation had delivered 500 trucks to the Chinese. However, this figure does not include trucks understood to have been shipped through the General Motors Export corporation of New York.

PENNSYLVANIA GAS.

Can you give me some information on Pennsylvania Gas and Electric 7 per cent $100 par preferred stock? I have not received regular dividends for some time.—H. K.

Answer: Earnings of Pennsylvania Gas and Electric company declined drastically in the latter part of last year, and for the first time in many years dividend requirements on the 7 per cent preferred were not fully earned. After a reduced payment in July, no further disbursements were made. Dividends for 1938 totaled $4.37½.

Net consolidated income for 1938 amounted to $91,012, equal to $3.03 a combined preferred share. In the first three months of this year the company had net consolidated income of $108,605, equal to $3.62 a combined preferred share. Net consolidated income for the same period last year was $101,930, or $3.40 a combined preferred share.

Pennsylvania Gas and Electric is a holding company, supplying natural or manufactured gas through subsidiaries to about 100 towns, most of which are concentrated around York and Pittston in Pennsylvania. A dividend of 50 cents a share on arrears was paid on the 7 per cent preferred in June. Arrears now amount to $7.37½ a share.

UNFILLED ORDERS.

Can you tell me whether Douglas Aircraft company or United Aircraft corporation has the largest unfilled orders?—N. B.

Answer: Unfilled orders of United Aircraft corporation on June 30, 1939, totaled $35,515,000. Douglas Aircraft company reported on July 11 that unfilled orders at that time were about $47,000,000.

WORTH STREET.

I notice that Worth street is sometimes mentioned in reports on the cotton market. Where is it and what is its significance?—P. G.

Answer: Worth Street is located in New York City. It is a dry goods trading center, just as Wall street is a securities trading center.

NIAGARA FALLS BONDS.

I hold a Niagara Falls, N. Y., school districts bond, paying 4 per cent and due in July 1941. Can you give me any information on this bond?—R. A.

Answer: Payment of interest and principal has been made regularly on Niagara Falls school district bonds. In the fiscal year ended June 30, 1939, only 4.3 per cent of the total tax levied for the district remained uncollected. The bonds are given a high ranking by various municipal bond rating agencies.
